In Memoriam: A Dedication of the 1992-93 Carolina Basketball Media Guide to Jimmie Dempsey (1921-1992)

The University of North Carolina athletic department, and particularly its basketball program, lost one of its most dedicated and dearest friends last July with the passing of Jimmie Dempsey of Wilson, N.C.

True blue Tar Heel fans, Jimmie and his wife, Tassie, were mainstays at Carolina athletic events the past few decades. The basketball program and athletic department at Carolina would like to dedicate its 1992-93 basketball media guide to the memory of Jimmie Dempsey. The picture of Jimmie that appears here was taken at the UNC-Virginia basketball game in Carmichael Auditorium in 1983, a classic come-from-behind victory for the Tar Heels.

"Jimmie Dempsey was a tremendous friend to me personally and to the Carolina basketball program over the past several decades," says Tar Heel Head Coach Dean Smith. "Jimmie and his wife, Tassie, have been most supportive and helpful to the Carolina athletic family in general. I know I speak for countless Carolina basketball players, staff members and fans in saying that all of us here in Chapel Hill will miss this caring and dedicated friend."

The Carolina basketball staff and the editors of this publication would also like to share with you the words of Caulton Tudor of The Raleigh News & Observer from its September 26, 1992 edition. Caulton's prose about Jimmie is quite endearing.

"The Kenan Fieldhouse parking lot for today's State-Carolina football game, regardless of the outcome, will not be as much fun for hundreds of Tar Heel fans. Jimmie Dempsey won't be there.

"The warm smile, the quick eyes that a year-long fight against cancer slowed but never erased are gone now.

"And when a large, close family and hundreds of friends gathered in Wilson on July 2 to say goodbye, a certain Carolina spirit was buried with him. He was 71.

"To their four children, their grandchildren and a generation of Tar Heel basketball players, Jimmie and Tassie Dempsey gladly served as Mom and Pop There. Back when it was legal for fans to assist during recruiting visits, the Dempseys became Dean Smith's right arm. There was nothing elaborate—the couple's innate charm and Miss Tassie's kill-for fried chicken at home football games. But it was enough to catch the fancy of players from Larry Miller to Michael Jordan.

"Before and after he became the youngest major in the history of the Army Air Corps, Dempsey was an exceptional athlete. Stories of his tennis skills are still recalled—no minor accomplishment in view of the fact that he gave up the sport in favor of golf shortly after returning home from World War II.

"Near the end, Mr. Dempsey, usually wearing his lucky green blazer and with Miss Tassie helping, struggled to climb the Smith Center steps. In a brief conversation following one of those basketball games, he seemed to know he wouldn't be present for another autumn Saturday at Kenan. He said he would miss football game-days. And many of those at game-day will miss him."

Jimmie Dempsey was 71 years young at the time of his death on July 2, 1992. But he will never be forgotten by those close to Carolina Basketball.

MEDIA INFORMATION

The sports information and public relations office at the University of North Carolina welcomes your interest in the Carolina basketball program and will make every effort to make your coverage of the Tar Heels an enjoyable experience. Following are some brief guidelines you might want to be aware of in your coverage of Carolina basketball.

Credentials: Working press and photo credentials for Carolina's 15 home games in 1992-93, including three exhibition games and 12 regular-season games, can be obtained by writing Assistant Athletic Director for Sports Information and Public Relations Rick Brewer. Please make your request at least two weeks in advance on your company's letterhead stationery. It is greatly preferred that you request credentials in writing. Brewer's mailing address is Sports Information Office, University of North Carolina, P.O. Box 2126, Chapel Hill, NC 27515-2126. Last-minute requests may be faxed to Brewer's attention at (919) 962-0612. Requests are screened to ensure a working press row at the Smith Center. Children, spouses and pets are not allowed in compliance with the working code of the U.S. Basketball Writers Association. Credentials are usually mailed approximately 10 days prior to each game or, if time does not permit, are held at the Smith Center press will call window on the north side of the building.

Credential requests for the Diet Pepsi Tournament of Champions to be held in Charlotte, N.C., December 4 and 5 may be obtained by contacting Kelly Crum at Raycom, Inc., P.O. Box 33367, Charlotte, NC 28233-3367 or phoning her at (704) 378-4400.

Filing Copy: The sports information office furnishes an ample number of telephones for writers to use in moving their copy in the press room of the Smith Center. Anyone desiring a private line should contact Southern Bell Telephone in Raleigh at 919-780-2800 to make arrangements. Please use Brewer or Smith Center secretary Angie Bitting as the contact person for placement of your phone in the press room. No courtside phone hookups are allowed at the Smith Center. The Carolina sports information office has one fax machine available on a first-come, first-served basis after each game. Please contact one of Carolina's sports information student assistants to arrange for its use. He or she will be happy to assist you.

Press Row & Press Room Services: Press seating at the Smith Center is at floor level, either at the scorer's table (limited seating) or in the two end zones. Radio and film crews and overflow press seating is on the mezzanine level on the Smith Center's north concourse. The Smith Center press room is located on the ground level of the arena on the back hallway across from the visiting team locker room. Please contact any usher in the Smith Center and he can give you directions to the press room's location.

Programs, media guides, game notes and season statistics will be available in the press room before each game. A halftime box score will be provided in the press room as well as a full post-game book consisting of final and halftime box scores, a full play-by-play and coaches quotes from each team. The head coaches from both teams will be brought to the press room following the game for press conferences. The Carolina locker room will be open after the game in accordance with Atlantic Coast Conference regulations. Access to the visiting team locker room will be at the discretion of the visiting team sports information director. A luncheon or dinner will be available to the media in the press room approximately two hours before tipoff of each game.

Interviews: Player interviews should be arranged through Rick Brewer in the sports information office. Please give at least one day's notice. Interviews will be arranged for before practice. Coach Smith is available each Tuesday morning on the Atlantic Coast Conference basketball coaches' teleconference from 11:30 a.m. to 11:40 a.m. Please call Brian Morrison in the Atlantic Coast Conference Office (919-854-8787) for information about accessing the teleconference. You can also call Coach Smith's personal secretary, Linda Woods, at 919-962-1154 to arrange personal interviews with Coach Smith.

1992-93 CAROLINA BASKETBALL PROSPECTUS

With an experienced cast of returning players which includes four starters and 12 lettermen from the 1991-92 squad, the University of North Carolina will be trying to continue an amazing string of post-season success during the 1992-93 basketball season.

The Tar Heels have now made 18 consecutive trips to the NCAA Tournament, the longest streak in history, and have reached the Tournament's Sweet 16 for 12 straight years. That second streak is easily the longest current stretch of Final 16 appearances in the nation. Duke has the second longest streak with seven appearances while Indiana, Ohio State, Oklahoma State and Seton Hall share the third-longest skein with each having been to two straight Sweet 16s.

In addition, Carolina has finished no lower than third in the Atlantic Coast Conference regular-season standings for 28 straight years and has won at least 21 games for 22 seasons in a row. The 22 successive seasons of 20 or more victories is another all-time collegiate best.

The Tar Heels were 23-10 last year and finished third in the ACC with a 9-7 mark. Carolina finished 12th in the final USA Today/CNN coaches poll and 18th in the Associated Press poll, but that was only the second time since 1980 that the Tar Heels had finished out of the Top 10 in the final polls. UNC was an ACC Tournament finalist for the fifth time in the last six years and advanced to the semifinals of the NCAA Southeast Regional before falling to top-seeded Ohio State, 80-73.

But if Carolina is to remain the most consistent force in the college game, the Tar Heels must overcome the loss of NBA first-round draft choice Hubert Davis to the New York Knicks while facing perhaps the most demanding schedule in college basketball in the upcoming campaign.

Tar Heel Head Coach Dean Smith will try to accomplish that with a team that includes four starters from a year ago—forward George Lynch, a 6-8, 220-pound senior from Roanoke, Va.; center Eric Montross, a 7-0, 270-pound junior from Indianapolis, Ind.; guard Derrick Phelps, a 6-4, 181-pound junior from East Elmhurst, N.Y.; and forward Brian Reese, a 6-6, 215-pound junior from Bronx, N.Y. Lynch and Montross should be among the premier players in the country at their positions this season, while Phelps and Reese have also shown all-star potential during their first two seasons in Chapel Hill.

However, Carolina's lone missing starter will be difficult to replace. Davis, a 6-4 guard, had a brilliant senior season. He was best known for his great shooting ability as he led the team in scoring and ranked fourth in the ACC with a 21.4 average. But, he was also a solid defender whose outstanding all-around play resulted in his selection by the New York Knicks in the opening round of the professional draft. The second-team All-Atlantic Coast Conference selection also led the ACC a year ago in free throw percentage and was second in three-point field goal percentage.

"Offensively, we will miss Hubert's outside shooting," says Smith. "But, we will be capable in that area. Our other players will improve their shooting and their feel for when they should take the three-point shot. I don't think that will be a weakness.

"Even without Hubert, we should be an improved defensive team because everybody else is back. Usually, our most experienced teams are our best defensive ones."

In Lynch, the Tar Heels have a player who could develop into a defensive stopper up front. His defensive skills have improved every year he's been on campus and he's in a position to become Carolina's all-time leader in steals before he graduates.

In addition, he was the team's leading rebounder last season, averaging 8.8 a game, including 3.4 per contest on the offensive glass. That 8.8 figure ranked him fourth in the ACC in rebounding average. He trailed only Davis in the scoring department on the Carolina squad with a 13.9 average, while shooting 53.9 percent from the field, the sixth best mark in the league. He was outstanding in the pressure-packed ACC Tournament, averaging 18.7 points and 8.7 rebounds in three games there to earn first-team All-ACC Tournament honors.

"We will continue to depend on George for his rebounding," says Smith. "He has such a great work ethic on the boards for someone his size. He has proven he can be a scorer when we need that. His average might have been higher last year, but he's an unselfish player who's smart and won't force shots if they're not there."

Junior center Eric Montross came on like gangbusters at the end of last season, being named to the All-Tournament Team at the NCAA Southeast Regional. In 1991-92, Montross was Carolina's third-leading scorer at 11.2 points per game and second-leading rebounder at 7.0 boards per contest.

Junior Derrick Phelps, the returning starter at the point guard spot for Carolina, developed into one the nation's best defensive players and playmakers last season. He ranked second in the Atlantic Coast Conference last year in both assists and steals per game.

Montross showed great improvement during the course of last season, finishing with an 11.2 scoring average and a rebounding mark of 7.0. He shot 57.4 percent from the floor and averaged 3.0 offensive rebounds per contest. In Carolina's three NCAA Tournament games, he averaged 18.3 points and 10.3 rebounds, while making 24 of 32 field goal attempts, a percentage of .750. His outstanding play in the NCAA Tournament resulted in his being named to the All-NCAA Southeast Regional Team even though Carolina did not make it to the championship game of that event.

Montross also gained great experience this past summer when he was one of eight college players selected by USA Basketball to the USA Developmental Squad which practiced against the U.S. Olympic Team in preparation for the games in Barcelona.

"Eric came on strong at the end of last year," says Smith. "He seemed more comfortable and sure of himself. We hope we can build on that this season. I was afraid

Juniar forward Pat Sullivan is quickly developing into an all-around salid player for the Tar Heels. A great passer and defender, he scared at a 5.3 clip in his saphamare year and was second an the UNC team in free throw shooting at 80.9 percent. (Phato by Grant Halversan)

he might lose some confidence going against David Robinson and Patrick Ewing during the summer, but I believe it helped him playing against the best for a few days. It was simply a great honor to be chosen."

In starting point guard Phelps, Carolina has one of the most underrated players in the college game. In his first year as a starter last season, he did an outstanding job of directing the offense and proved to be one of the top defenders in the ACC. He finished the year with 207 assists and 78 steals and ranked among ACC leaders in several categories. He ranked second in the ACC in assists with 6.3 per game and was also second in steals with 2.4 per outing. In addition, he also averaged 9.2 points and 3.5 rebounds a game and made 71.2 percent of his free throws.

With the experience he gained last year, he should be one of the premier point guards in the country this winter.

"I thought Derrick had a sensational sophomore season," says Smith. "Defensively, he was outstanding. Offensively, he made some decisions that weren't always the best. But, he made many very good ones, too!"

Although trouble with asthma cut into his playing time last season, Reese finished with a 9.8 scoring average. He also grabbed 3.9 rebounds a game and shot 77.6 percent from the foul line. He made one of the most memorable plays of the year when he hit a last-second shot which gave Carolina an 80-78 win over Wake Forest, ending an incredible 22-point comeback.

"Brian has worked hard in the off-season and we hope he will be in better condition to give us more quality minutes," says Smith. "His asthma problem has slowed him in the past, but he's working to overcome that."

In addition to these four players, Carolina also returns six other recruited players who lettered last season. They are Henrik Rodl, a 6-8, 203-pound senior guard from Heusenstamm, Germany; Scott Cherry, a 6-5, 180-pound senior guard from Ballston Spa, N.Y.; Matt Wenstrom, a 7-1, 260-pound senior center from Houston, Texas; Kevin Salvadori, a 7-0, 224-pound junior center/forward from Pittsburgh, Pa.; Pat Sullivan, a 6-8, 216-pound junior forward from Bogota, N.J.; and Donald Williams, a 6-3, 194-pound sophomore guard from Garner, N.C.

One af Carolina's mast improved players a year aga, juniar center/forward Kevin Salvadari averaged 5.9 points and 3.7 rebounds a game while shooting 54.5 percent from the field and 74.2 percent from the line. In additian, he ranked secand in the ACC in blocked shats with an average af 1.9 per game.

Caralina seniar guard Henrik Rodl gained invaluable experience last summer as the starting point guard far the German Olympic Team in Barcelona. Last seasan, he was a key player far the Tar Heels as a backup at the big and paint guard slats.

Smith says the battle to fill the guard spot vacated by Davis is a wide open one. Rodl, Cherry and Williams will all get long looks at that position. Rodl had a fine junior season, splitting time behind Davis at the big guard slot and behind Phelps at the point. Although he averaged only 3.1 points per game, he shot 53.4 percent from the field and had 84 assists and 27 steals while committing only 38 turnovers.

Smith may try Reese at the big guard spot as well since he did play in the backcourt occasionally as a freshman and he is quick enough to play the opponent's guard on defense.

"Rodl really got the best experience of all our players during the summer since he was the starting point guard on the German Olympic Team," points out the Tar Heel head coach. "Scott Cherry also played on a team that traveled abroad and that will be a good experience for him, while Kevin Salvadori competed with the ACC All-Star team last summer in Europe."

Smith is counting on continued improvement from Salvadori and Wenstrom in the middle. In addition to backing up Montross, they give him the option to play two big men on the front line together as the Tar Heels did on occasion last year. Salvadori, in fact, was one of the ACC's top shot-blockers with 63 in 33 games. That 1.9 per game average ranked second in the ACC. Salvadori's other statistics were solid in his sophomore year as well as he scored 5.9 points per game, pulled down an average of 3.7 rebounds and shot 54.5 percent from the field and 74.2 percent from the line.

Sullivan adds versatility to the frontcourt as he can play either forward position. A fine passer and shooter, he's being counted on for a fine junior season. As a sophomore, he averaged 5.3 points per game and 2.8 rebounds an outing and was the team's second-best free throw shooter behind Davis with an 80.9 percent clip.

Added to this group will be four freshmen—6-4, 186-pound guard Dante Calabria of Beaver Falls, Pa.; 6-3, 184-pound guard Larry Davis of Denmark, S.C.; 6-9, 250-pound forward Ed Geth of Norfolk, Va.; and 7-3, 248-pound center Serge Zwikker of Maassluis, Holland—as well as non-recruited upperclass lettermanTravis Stephenson, a 6-7, 222-pound senior forward from Angier, N.C.

"I can't anticipate what the freshmen will do until we get them at practice." says Smith. "However, if any of them are more advanced, it may be the guards, Calabria and Davis.

"We always look harder at our seniors to give them the first opportunity. But, once we're on the court we always play the best people, whether they're seniors or freshmen. If you look at the final rankings over the years, we've started more freshmen than any other Top 10 team."

A top all-star candidate in 1992-93, power forward George Lynch is the lone senior amongst Carolina's corps of four returning starters. A tenacious rebounder, Lynch led the Tar Heels on the boards last year with 8.8 caroms a game and he was the squad's second-leading scorer with a 13.9 average. (Photo by Hugh Morton)

Overall strengths of this Carolina team figure to be experience, depth and height up front. All of that will be needed against a schedule which could include 21 games against teams which took part in postseason play last season.

Depending on what happens in two regular-season tournaments, the Diet Pepsi Tournament of Champions at Charlotte and the Rainbow Classic in Honolulu, the Tar Heels could play 17 games against NCAA Tournament teams from last year.

In Carolina's half of the Rainbow bracket are three other 1992 NCAA selections—Southwestern Louisiana, Michigan and Nebraska. NCAA entries Kansas and Fordham are in the other half of the draw.

The Tar Heels also play at defending Big Ten Conference champion Ohio State and at defending Big East Conference tri-champion Seton Hall. Houston, the 1992 Southwest Conference co-champion, visits Chapel Hill in December.

The ACC remains as tough as ever with Duke and Florida State among the Top 10 teams nationally in virtually all the preseason polls.

"We could be a very good team," says Smith. "We'll miss Hubert, but we're expecting our returning players to be better and more mature. Once again, one of our goals is to make the NCAA Tournament. We'll be capable of doing that, but we'll have to be at our best every night because of the difficulty of the schedule we're facing."

THE FACES OF CAROLINA ATHLETICS

ATHLETIC DIRECTOR JOHN SWOFFORD

John Swofford is in his 13th year as director of athletics at the University of North Carolina with a national reputation as being one of the best administrators in intercollegiate sports.

Swofford, a 1971 Carolina graduate, heads a Tar Heel program which is one of the biggest in the nation, fielding 26 varsity teams, and one of the finest in terms of success on and off the playing field.

In his 12 years as athletic director, Swofford has seen Carolina teams win 76 Atlantic Coast Conference championships and 16 national collegiate titles.

In 1991-92, the Tar Heels won the national championship in women's soccer, set the ACC record with nine league crowns, had a winning record in every one of the 26 sports and set a school record with 18 national Top 25 finishes.

Much of the credit for that success goes to Swofford. He has guided the UNC Athletic Department through a period of tremendous change which has left it both vastly different and vastly better than it was when he took its top job in 1980.

With Swofford in the lead, Carolina successfully completed a $34 million fund-raising drive to construct the Smith Center, a complex which includes a 21,572-seat basketball arena and one of the nation's top natatoriums. He was also the driving force behind the expansion of Kenan Stadium in 1988 and the building of a new press box there.

Swofford planned the construction of the Student-Athlete Development Center as an addition to Kenan Fieldhouse. That building, a one-of-a-kind facility, includes the most modern equipment to aid student-athletes in their studies and physical development.

A Morehead Scholar himself, Swofford has a special interest in the academic side of intercollegiate athletics. The academic center at Kenan is a prototype in its field. He has expanded the academic support staff to function better for the student-athletes who use its services.

Since Swofford became athletic director, a new indoor-outdoor tennis center has been completed and was dedicated this past September; Boshamer Stadium has been expanded and dressing rooms renovated for the baseball team; three new holes have been completed at Finley Golf Course; the football practice fields have been reconstructed and lighted; a new Astroturf playing field has been installed; a new track has been put down at Fetzer Field and the stadium there renovated; and the department has been computerized.

Nationally, Swofford was appointed to the NCAA Football Television Committee in 1982 and was named its chairman in 1984. A past chairman of the NCAA Communications Committee, he also is past chair of the NCAA Special Events/Post-Season Bowl Committee. He currently serves as chairman of the ACC Television Committee and is first vice president of the National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics. He also serves as the chair of the ACC committee on women's soccer.

Athletic Director John Swofford

These accomplishments have not gone unnoticed. In a 1986 Arizona Republic poll of athletic personnel across the country, Swofford was chosen one of the top three athletic directors in the nation. He has elected to turn down several other prominent athletic director positions, as well as inquiries regarding being a conference commissioner, to remain in Chapel Hill.

In May 1991, Swofford was honored with the North Carolina Scholastic Sports Unsung Hero Award for his strong support of high school sports in the Tar Heel state. Swofford was cited for his strong leadership at Carolina, for lending unprecedented access to campus facilities for prep championships and for being a leader in keeping ACC basketball games off television on Tuesday and Friday nights. Those evenings are filled with high school basketball games and Swofford was in the forefront of avoiding conflicts with those contests.

A native of North Wilkesboro, N.C., Swofford was a two-time all-state football player and a three-sport star at Wilkes Central High School. An honor student in high school, he majored in psychology and industrial relations at Carolina.

Swofford played quarterback and defensive back on Tar Heel football teams in 1969, 1970 and 1971. The 1970 team went to the Peach Bowl and the 1971 squad won the Atlantic Coast Conference championship and participated in the Gator Bowl. He tied a school record against Vanderbilt in 1969 by throwing three touchdown passes in one game.

He was named to the ACC Honor Roll and Who's Who in College Athletics. He also served as president of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes on campus.

In 1973, he earned a master's degree in athletic administration from Ohio University, which is often called the "Harvard" of sports management programs.

From 1973 to 1976, he was athletic ticket manager and assistant to the director of athletic facilities at the University of Virginia. He returned to Carolina in May 1976 as assistant athletic director and business manager, handling all the athletic department's business affairs.

Although he remained assistant athletic director, Swofford dropped the business manager title and was named assistant executive vice president of the Educational Foundation in January 1979. He then replaced Bill Cobey as athletic director on May 1, 1980.

Swofford is a member of the executive committee of the National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics and is on the alumni advisory board for the Ohio University Sports Administration program. He received the Distinguished Alumni Award from Ohio University in 1984. He has been inducted into the Order of the Golden Fleece, Carolina's highest honorary society.

In 1989, Swofford became the first athletic director ever added to the Chancellor's Administrative Council at Carolina. He was on the board of directors for North Carolina Amateur Sports which brought U.S. Olympic Festival—'87 to the Research Triangle area.

A regular jogger, Swofford enjoys reading, golf and tennis. He is married to the former Becky Owens of North Wilkesboro. They have two children, Autumn and Chad.

HEAD COACH DEAN SMITH

Choosing the greatest of University of North Carolina head basketball coach Dean Smith's accomplishments is not an altogether simple task. Now in his fourth decade as Carolina's head basketball coach, Smith has compiled a remarkable list of achievements which prove his program is one of the best in the history of the college game.

Just a sampling of his Tar Heels' accomplishments shows why it is so difficult to select one as the most significant.

• In the past 26 seasons, Carolina teams have finished in either one or both of the major polls' Top 10 at season's end on 20 occasions. UCLA, with 16 appearances, is second on the list. Four other times, the Tar Heels finished in the Top 15. In an era of remarkable competitiveness in the college game, Carolina has been a Top 15 team 24 of the past 26 seasons.

From 1981 through 1989 UNC was ranked in the Top 10 in the nation in both final polls. That's the second longest skein of Top 10 finishes in college basketball history, exceeded only by UCLA's 13-year string from 1967 to 1979.

Carolina Head Coach Dean Smith

• Smith has led the Tar Heels to 18 consecutive appearances in the NCAA Tournament, an NCAA mark for successive tourney bids. Carolina's current string of 12 straight appearances in the NCAA Final 16 is the longest in the nation by a wide margin. Atlantic Coast Conference rival Duke has the second longest current streak in the nation, but it is only seven years in duration. Amazingly, the third-longest streak is only two years by Seton Hall, Ohio State, Oklahoma State and Indiana.

• Smith is not only the winningest active NCAA Division I men's basketball coach, he is also the fifth winningest Division I coach of all-time. His 740 victories in 31 seasons at the helm of the Tar Heels rank him first among active coaches. UTEP's Don Haskins is second with 606. And only Kentucky's Adolph Rupp, Oklahoma State's Hank Iba, Western Kentucky's Ed Diddle and Kansas' Phog Allen rank ahead of Smith on the career coaching victory list.

• Another measure of Carolina's success over the past three decades is the manner in which the Tar Heels have been able to win on the road. It is in the hostile environment of a Reynolds Coliseum, a Cameron Indoor Stadium or a Cole Field House that the strength of a program is often measured. After all, it's often said in college basketball that you're supposed to win at home. Winning on the road is something far more difficult. Smith's teams have done quite nicely, however. Over the past 26 years, UNC is 190-80 overall away from Chapel Hill, a winning percentage of .704. UCLA is second at .664. And in the ACC, Carolina is 116-60 in regular-season road games since 1967, a percentage of .659. N.C. State has the second best league mark at .422 and no one else is over 41 percent in a minimum of 10 seasons in the league.

It is this astounding consistency on the court, coupled with a sparkling graduation rate among his Tar Heel lettermen of near 100 percent, which makes Dean Smith one of the most respected and admired coaches in the history of college basketball. Success, it seems, is forever in his grasp.

In Smith's 31 seasons as leader of Carolina's basketball fortunes, the Tar Heels have established a record that is unequalled in the game today. His teams have won 740 games and lost just 219, a staggering winning percentage of .772. That percentage is even more amazing given the fact the Tar Heels annually play the toughest non-conference schedule in the ACC and one of the toughest in the nation and also are the targeted school within the league, the rival which every other school wants most to beat. The fact that Carolina is the "big game" on everyone's schedule makes the Tar Heels' consistency under Smith an even more amazing feat.

Numbers, however, fail to fully tell the extent of Smith's respect in the coaching fraternity. The results of a 1986 Dallas Morning News poll of college head coaches reveal such admiration, however. In a survey of head coaches at that season's NCAA Final Four, Smith received 49 votes as the nation's top collegiate basketball coach. No other coach was named on more than 35 ballots.

▼ "You think basketball when you think Dean Smith. He's a legendary coach. It's great after watching him all these years to finally be facing him. You know, every child dreams of being in a North Carolina uniform."

Smith's Tar Heel teams have won at least 21 games for the past 22 seasons in succession and in 25 of the past 26 seasons. The 22 straight seasons of 20 or more wins is an NCAA record.

Over the past 26 years, Carolina also leads the nation in Final 16 appearances in the NCAA Tournament with 18. UNC has also made it to the Final 8 on 12 different occasions over that 26-year span. Kentucky and UCLA, with 16 apiece, rank behind the Tar Heels in trips to the Sweet 16.

Under Smith's guidance, the Tar Heels have made eight trips to the NCAA Final Four, second only to UCLA's John Wooden, who guided 12 of his Bruin teams in the 1960s and 1970s to the semifinals of the tournament.

Smith also ranks as the winningest coach in the history of the NCAA Tournament. With two victories in last year's NCAA Tournament, Smith passed Wooden's 47 for first place on the list with 49 career NCAA Tournament wins. Jerry Tarkanian, formerly of UNLV, ranks third with 37 career wins.

Smith also ranks as the winningest coach in ACC Tournament history. His 11 titles are seven more than were won by N.C. State's Everett Case and Duke's Vic Bubas, each of whom captured four. And in 31 ACC Tournaments, he has a coaching record of 48-20, an impressive winning percentage of .706. Those numbers are yet another indication of Carolina's incredible consistency and the kind of credentials which make his coaching peers rave.

At last year's NCAA Southeast Regional in Lexington, Ky., both Eddie Sutton of Oklahoma State and Randy Ayers of Ohio State were nearly in awe of Carolina's 12th

In 1991, Carolina won its 11th ACC Tournament championship during Coach Smith's tenure in Chapel Hill. Smith teams have compiled a tremendous 48-20 record in ACC Tournament games over the past 31 years, reaching 17 ACC Tournament championship games. (Photo by Keith Worrell) straight appearance in the Final 16.

"It's an unbelievable record, because things aren't like they used to be. They're tougher," said Sutton. "Their program allows them to do well during the year, but you get into the tournament and everybody's good and you have to win or it's time to pack your bags—it's just amazing."

Ayers looked at his own Buckeye team and then was effusive in his praise of what Carolina has accomplished over the past 20 years. "This year we'll lose five seniors, three managers and probably (all-American and likely NBA lottery pick) Jimmy Jackson, and then we have to try to get back next year," said Ayers. "That team will be completely different from this one, like this one was completely different from last year's.

"It's a challenge but that's what I like about the business, trying to put it together and keep it together...what Dean Smith has done..."

"I think he is the number one guy in America," said then Michigan coach and current Arizona State head mentor Bill Frieder after his Wolverines were beaten in the 1987 NCAA Tournament by Smith's Tar Heels. "He's always there. It isn't like Louisville or Villanova, where they win it all one year and they're way down the next. Even Indiana finished way down in our league a couple of years ago. But with Dean and Carolina, year after year, they're there."

California head mentor Lou Campanelli shares the same respect Frieder has for Smith. "When you play North Carolina and Dean Smith, that's the best," he said after his James Madison team lost to UNC in the 1983 NCAA Tournament's second round. "That's the epitome of college basketball. They represent everything you want—dedication, class, attitude. As we built our program at James Madison, we've paid a lot of attention to that. If that reflects in our style of play, that we resemble North Carolina, then I consider that a compliment."

Smith-coached teams have won championships at every level, including an NCAA championship in 1982, a National Invitation Tournament title in 1971 and a gold medal at the 1976 Summer Olympic Games in Montreal, Canada. He is one of only three coaches in history to accomplish that troika.

Smith, who played for the legendary Phog Allen at Kansas in the early 1950s, is also one of only two men to both play on and coach an NCAA championship team. Smith was a member of the Jayhawk squad that won college basketball's top prize in 1952. A year later, KU almost made it two straight, losing in the 1953 championship game to Indiana by a point.

During the past 26 seasons, Smith's Tar Heels have been amongst the most dominant teams in the history of the game. Carolina has a record of 674-172 in that span, winning 79.7 percent of its games—an average record of 26-6 per year. No school in America won more total games in that 26-year period than did Carolina. In fact, the second highest total belongs to UCLA with 630 wins, 44 behind UNC. Louisville was third with 599 victories. And only UCLA, at 80.8 percent, won a higher percentage of its games over that span than did Carolina.

Smith has had 18 seasons in which his teams have won at least 25 games, more than any other college coach in history. Tarkanian had 14 25-win seasons as a coach and Wooden retired in 1975 with 11 to his credit.

One of the highlights of Smith's coaching career came in the form of Carolina's NCAA championship in 1982. Smith's Tar Heels began that year ranked #1 in both polls, ended the regular season the same way and won the NCAA Tournament by beating Georgetown, 63-62, in the title game. Carolina's wire-to-wire first-place finish is one of the few times in college basketball history that has been accomplished. The championship game with Georgetown is considered one of the best-played and most exciting title contests in the 54 years of the post-season classic.

Smith's teams have also been the dominant force in the ACC over the past three decades. In 31 seasons as head coach, the Tar Heels under Smith have a record of 306-114 in ACC regular-season play, a winning percentage of .729. The Tar Heels have finished at least third in the ACC regular-season standings for 28 successive seasons. In that span, Carolina has finished first 15 times, second nine times and third four times.

In 31 years of ACC competition, Smith's teams have finished in the conference's upper division all but one time. That was in 1964 when UNC was fifth and had its only losing record in ACC regular-season play under Smith at 6-8. Contrast that 31-year record of league success with the fact that since 1977 every other ACC school has finished last at least once in the regular-season standings. Carolina's worst finish ever under Smith is fifth and only twice in 31 years has Carolina finished lower than third.

In the past 26 seasons, Carolina has won the ACC's regular-season championship a gaudy 15 times while also winning the ACC Tournament title on 11 occasions. In 19 of those 26 seasons, Carolina has won either the regular-season or tournament title. That level of consistency would be an amazing feat for any college basketball program, but it is particularly significant in a league as competitive as the ACC.

Carolina has now gone 26 successive years with a post-season tournament invitation. In 22 of those seasons, including the last 18 in succession, Carolina was invited to play in the NCAA Tournament. In 1970, 1971, 1973 and 1974, Carolina was invited to play in the NIT, winning the championship in 1971 and finishing third in 1973. But those appearances came before the NCAA opened its tournament in 1975 to admit more than one member from each conference. The 22 appearances by Smith teams in the NCAA Tournament makes him the most frequent coaching visitor to the tournament in history. Rupp took 20 of his Kentucky teams to the tourney from 1942 to 1972 and amongst active coaches, Denny Crum of Louisville, Bob Knight of Indiana and John Thompson of Georgetown are all tied for second with 16 tournament appearances each.

Sustained success like that was one of the many reasons Smith was inducted into the Naismith Basketball Hall of Fame in Springfield, Mass. in 1983. He was also inducted into the North Carolina Sports Hall of Fame in 1981.

Such tributes are nothing new to Smith, however. He regularly receives praise from his colleagues in the coaching fraternity.

Legendary UCLA Coach John Wooden told Caulton Tudor of The News & Observer of Raleigh last February. "In my opinion, he's [Smith] the best teacher of basketball I've ever seen ... He can teach his players so much that it's still remarkable to me."

Utah Head Coach Rick Majerus commented on Smith when one of Majerus' top recruits while he was coaching at Marquette, Joe Wolf, opted to sign a letter of intent with the Tar Heels instead of the Warriors. "Joe made a good choice. North Carolina may very well be the best program in the country and Dean Smith may very well be the best coach of all time."

A few years ago, former Virginia Head Coach and current Davidson Athletic Director Terry Holland spoke about Carolina's consistency in the ACC in similarly glowing terms. "Because of the league we're in, it's difficult to stay at the top every year," said Holland. "Only one team, North Carolina, has been able to do that. The rest of us have a couple of good years, then we have to fight to put it back together."

One of Smith's best-known accomplishments actually came somewhere other than at Carolina. In 1976, Smith was chosen by USA Basketball to be the head coach for the 1976 U.S. Olympic Team competing in Montreal. Smith promptly named his long-time assistant at Carolina, Bill Guthridge, as well as Georgetown Head Coach John Thompson to be his assistants on the Olympic Team. Smith faced the challenge of regaining the gold medal for the Americans after they had finished second to the Soviet Union in the controversial basketball competition at Munich in 1972.

Smith molded a group of college all-stars into a cohesive unit during a few short weeks in that summer of 1976 and led them to the gold medal, sweeping through the games undefeated and beating Yugoslavia in the gold medal game. Emphasizing a tough pressure defense and a fast-breaking, attacking style on offense, the Americans returned the U.S. to the top of the international game.

Four of Smith's Tar Heels played on that 1976 team—Walter Davis, Phil Ford, Mitch Kupchak and Tommy LaGarde. In fact, Smith has had at least one player on each of the last eight U.S. Olympic teams, dating back to the 1964 games in Tokyo when Larry Brown was named to the squad. In addition to the quartet in 1976, this group included Charlie Scott in 1968 in Mexico City, Bobby Jones in 1972 in Munich, Al Wood in 1980 (although the team boycotted the Moscow Olympics), Michael Jordan and Sam Perkins in 1984 in Los Angeles, J.R. Reid in 1988 in Seoul and Jordan again in 1992 in Barcelona. In addition, current Tar Heel player Henrik Rodl made the 1992 German Olympic Team.

Smith's Carolina teams have also had great success in competition against international teams. In fact, in his 31 years as head coach, the Tar Heels have a 39-3 record in games against teams from foreign countries. Many foreign coaches have become confidants of Smith, regularly visiting Chapel Hill to consult with the Carolina basketball staff on strategies and techniques. This group includes long-time Spanish national team coach Antonio Diaz Miguel and Italian national team coach Sandro Gamba.

Smith's accomplishments at Carolina and as an international coach have a common thread. They were done utilizing the tremendous rapport he has with his players, a masterful teaching ability and a style of play which produces victories.

Former Marquette Coach Al McGuire once said of Smith, "If anyone was born to be a coach, it's Dean Smith. He's the Jack Armstrong-type person."

Smith's teams in Chapel Hill have been characterized by their unselfish play, great teamwork and tenacious defense. Although the Tar Heels specialize in a fast-breaking offense, they also are comfortable in a more disciplined style of attack. Smith's teams are always amongst the best shooting squads in America. Only once since 1970 has Carolina failed to hit 50 percent from the field as a team.

Among Smith's many innovations are the run-and-jump defense, the scramble defense out of the man-to-man pressure defense, the point zone, team huddles at the foul line, the free-lance passing game, the four corners offense, backdoor plays and multiple screens against zone defenses.

"Dean is one of the most organized and brilliant minds that I've ever met in basketball," says Georgetown Head Coach John Thompson. "He shared ideas and thoughts and philosophies with me that people just don't share with people, and I will always be grateful and respect him for that. He did me a tremendous favor. One of the greatest gifts you can share with somebody is the knowledge that you have."

Smith has shared his secrets of the game with a talented group of assistants. Former Tar Heel player and assistant coach Larry Brown led Kansas to the 1988 NCAA championship and rejuvenated the fortunes of the San Antonio Spurs for three years as head coach before moving to the Los Angeles Clippers last year. When Brown left Kansas for the Spurs, KU plucked its new coach from the ranks of Smith's assistants, choosing Roy Williams, who in only his third year led the Jayhawks to the NCAA championship game. Two of Smith's former assistants, John Lotz and Kenny Rosemond, left Carolina to take head coaching jobs in the Southeastern Conference, at Florida and Georgia, respectively. Lotz currently serves as an assistant athletic director at Carolina. Eddie Fogler, like Brown both a player and an assistant coach under Smith at UNC, left Carolina in 1986 to take over the head coaching job at Wichita State. He quickly rebuilt the Wheatshockers' program to national respectability, taking them to the NCAA Tournament his first two seasons and the NIT the third. He moved to Vanderbilt three seasons ago, succeeding C.M. Newton as head coach, and in his first season with the Commodores, led them to the NIT championship, even after having been picked to finish eighth in the Southeastern Conference in the pre-season. In his second year there, the Commodores made a return to the NCAA Tournament field. Even Guthridge, Smith's assistant at Carolina the past 25 seasons, has received numerous head coaching offers during his stint at Carolina. Guthridge, however, has made a career decision to stay in Chapel Hill and not pursue head coaching positions.

Smith's talents do not lie solely in tutoring quality college coaches as is evidenced by the number of outstanding players who have gone on to professional careers after their days in Chapel Hill have ended. In Smith's 31-year tenure, 41 of his players have gone on to play pro basketball in the NBA or ABA and many more have played in professional leagues on other continents.

After playing in Smith's program at Carolina, most Tar Heels have made a smooth transition to the rigors of the professional game. Five of Smith's players have

Former Chicago Bulls Coach Kevin Loughery, who coached the Bulls when Jordan came into the league in 1984-85, credits Smith for the manner in which Jordan handled his rather instant and incredible popularity as a pro player. "Michael has had the most media hype I've ever seen in professional basketball, and I was around Dr. J for three years," said Loughery. "He has handled it all extremely well. It is a tremendous tribute to the way Dean Smith, who is one of the greatest coaches of all time, handled this guy. You can see his training. We are very fortunate that he has had that coaching background."

Pat Riley, who coached three world champion teams in the 1980s on which James Worthy played, paid Smith similar accolades. "I think James' success is based directly on how he was coached in college," Riley said. "We always look for players from North Carolina. If we could draft players every year from North Carolina, we'd do it. You know they know how to play. The players are so full of character like James and Michael Jordan. I have a lot of respect for Coach Smith. I'm the beneficiary of a man who has taught all these guys how to play the game. When they come to the pros, they're refined. They're ready to step right in."

Bobby Jones, who was named to the NBA's All-Defensive Team nine times in his career, once gave Smith credit for the success of his professional career in an interview with the New York Times.

"If I had gone to any other school, I would probably not have been in pro basketball," said Jones. "I was a shy and gangly kid, not very well coordinated when I started playing basketball in junior high school. At North Carolina, they gave me the tools to play in the pros and I don't want to forget it."

Born February 28, 1931 in Emporia, Kan., Dean Edwards Smith grew up as the son of public school teachers. He graduated from Topeka High School in 1949 and went to the University of Kansas on an academic scholarship. He played varsity basketball and baseball and freshman football for the Jayhawks. He was a member of Jayhawk basketball teams which won the NCAA championship in 1952 and finished second to Indiana in 1953.

After he graduated from Kansas, Smith served as an assistant coach at his alma mater and then served in the U.S. Air Force as a lieutenant. While in the service, he played and coached basketball in Germany. Smith had served for three years as an assistant basketball coach under Bob Spear, recognized by his peers as one of the outstanding coaches in the history of the game, and one year each as head baseball and golf coach at the United States Air Force Academy when in 1958 Frank McGuire asked him to join his staff at Carolina as an assistant coach. Smith served as an assistant under McGuire for three years before McGuire resigned to become head coach of the NBA's Philadelphia Warriors in the summer of 1961. At that time, Carolina Chancellor William Aycock tapped the 30-year-old Smith to become UNC's head coach. The rest, as they say, is history.

Smith is a great goodwill ambassador for the University and the sport of basketball worldwide. He is called upon to give lectures at basketball clinics all over the globe. Smith is a past president of the National Association of Basketball Coaches and was the only basketball coach among a group of college presidents and administrators who served on the NCAA Select Committee, which is credited with many legislative improvements in college athletics, in the early 1980s. The committee was called upon by the NCAA membership to study many of the problems facing intercollegiate athletics in the modern era.

Smith is also the author of Basketball: Multiple Offense and Defense which has been translated into several languages and is the best-selling technical basketball book in history.

Smith has won the prestigious Golden Plate Award from the American Academy of Achievement, which honors people from all fields. The only other coaches to ever win the award have been John Wooden of UCLA, Bud Wilkinson of Oklahoma, the late Bear Bryant of Alabama, Joe Paterno of Penn State and Tom Landry of the Dallas Cowboys.

After taking Carolina to the NCAA championship game in 1977, Smith was named National Coach-of-the-Year by the NABC. He received similar honors from the U.S. Basketball Writers Association and Basketball Weekly in 1979 and from Medalist in 1982. He has been named Atlantic Coast Conference Coach-of-the-Year by the Atlantic Coast Sportswriters Association on seven occasions—1967, 1968, 1971, 1976, 1977, 1979 and 1988.

Smith has received honorary doctorates from Eastern College in St. Davids, Pa. and Catawba College in Salisbury, N.C. In 1984, he was cited by his alma mater, Kansas, with the Distinguished Service Citation. This honor is the highest KU can bestow upon an individual to acknowledge outstanding achievements for the betterment of society and on behalf of mankind.

In his spare time, Smith enjoys golf, music and reading. He has a special interest in theology.

Smith's wife, Linnea, is a physician. He has five children. Daughters Sandy and Mrs. Sharon Kepley and son Scott are Carolina graduates. He has two younger daughters, Kristen Caroline and Kelly Marie. Coach Smith also has three grandchildren. Tim and Sharon Kepley have a son, Drew, and a daughter, Megan. Scott and Kelli Haynor Smith have a daughter, Morgan Kay.

ASSISTANT COACH BILL GUTHRIDGE

Beginning his 26th season on Dean Smith's staff at North Carolina, Bill Guthridge is considered one of the premier coaches in all of college basketball.

As Smith's chief assistant coach, Guthridge is involved in every aspect of the North Carolina program. He has a thorough knowledge of all aspects of his profession—teaching, organizational skills, motivation, on-bench decision making, practice plans, recruiting, you name it—Guthridge is thought of as one of the top men in his field in all areas of expertise.

When a major college has a head basketball coaching vacancy, Guthridge's name is usually mentioned even though he has indicated publicly his great love for Carolina and his desire to stay with the Tar Heel program in Chapel Hill. He has turned down several top-flight coaching offers during his 25 seasons at UNC and withdrawn his name from consideration for many others.

"Bill has made a decision to stay in Chapel Hill and not seek head coaching positions," says Smith. "I personally feel he should have taken several of the excellent opportunities he has had, but he's decided that's not what he wants. By staying here, he has certainly given great stability to our program. He's one of the top coaches in America and I'm including head coaches as well as assistants. His record as an assistant, first at Kansas State, and then here, has been tremendous. He has made great contributions to both programs."

Guthridge is a 1960 alumnus of Kansas State University. While an undergraduate there, he was the starting point guard on Wildcat teams which won Big Eight Conference championships in 1958, 1959 and 1960. In his sophomore year, KSU made the NCAA Final Four after winning the Midwest Regional championship.

After playing on several excellent teams, he has been a part of some of the greatest teams in both Kansas State and North Carolina history as an assistant coach. In fact, Guthridge has been involved with nine teams which have reached the Final Four—the aforementioned year as a player at Kansas State, as an assistant coach with the Wildcats in 1964 and as a Tar Heel assistant coach in 1968, 1969, 1972, 1977, 1981, 1982 and 1991.

Carolina has been invited to play in a post-season tournament in every season Guthridge has served on the staff, including 21 appearances in the NCAA Tournament and four in the National Invitation Tournament. The Tar Heels have finished third or higher in the Atlantic Coast Conference regular-season standings in each of his 25 seasons, including 14 first-place finishes and another eight second-place finishes. In 18 of his 25 years as an assistant, Carolina has either won the ACC Tournament or finished first in the regular-season standings or done both. He was on a staff which led Carolina to the NCAA championship in 1982 and the NIT title in 1971.

Assistant Coach Bill Guthridge

Guthridge was also a key factor in the United States' ability to win back the Olympic gold medal in 1976 at the Summer Games in Montreal. Smith named Guthridge and Georgetown Coach John Thompson to his staff for the Games. Besides practice and bench coaching duties at the Olympics, Guthridge was also responsible for scouting the Americans' opponents during the two-week competition.

In his 25 seasons at UNC, Guthridge has worked with both the team's offensive and defensive schemes. He is currently the Tar Heels' shooting instructor. It is no coincidence that Carolina has shot at least 50 percent from the field in 21 of the last 22 seasons. The only season that Carolina failed to accomplish that feat was 1989-90, but its .498 percentage was still good enough to lead the ACC in field goal percentage.

A native of Parsons, Kan., Guthridge played high school basketball for Harold Johnson, one of two brothers who innovated the zone press in the 1930s. Besides his basketball exploits at Kansas State, Guthridge was also chosen as one of the University's 13 most outstanding all-around seniors in 1960 based on leadership qualities, extracurricular activities and academic record.

After graduating from Kansas State, he coached at Scott City High School in Kansas for two seasons before returning to his alma mater as an assistant coach for Tex Winter. In five years on Winter's staff, Guthridge helped lead the Wildcats to a 93-43 record, to a pair of Big Eight Conference crowns and to the aforementioned 1964 NCAA Final Four.

Guthridge came to Carolina prior to the 1967-68 season. He replaced Larry Brown on Smith's staff after Brown left to play for the New Orleans Buccaneers in the newly-founded American Basketball Association. He came to Carolina as freshman coach and co-assistant varsity coach with John Lotz. In his first six seasons at UNC he coached the freshman team, leading the novice Tar Heels to a 72-25 record and a quartet of Big Four championships, quite an outstanding feat in those days.

Besides working with Smith and Winter, two of the great names in the history of coaching, Guthridge also coached in the Puerto Rican AAU Summer Leagues twice, earning Coach-of-the-Year honors. So impressive was the job he did on the island, he was invited to coach the 1968 Puerto Rican Olympic Team.

But, of course, Guthridge's greatest fame has come from his work with the Tar Heels. Smith gives Guthridge much of the credit for helping develop the players who have kept Carolina at the top of the college game over the past three decades.

"Bill is highly respected by the players who have been through our program," says Smith. "He is sincere in his recruiting and I think that has made him a favorite of prospective student-athletes and their families. He is a man of great integrity."

Unlike many coaches, Guthridge says he actually enjoys the recruiting part of the job.

"Some people say recruiting is undesirable, that it's the worst part of being a college coach," says Guthridge. "But my experiences have been very enjoyable. I think that has had a lot to do with the type of young man which our university attracts."

Guthridge, whose Bachelor of Science degree from Kansas State is in mathematics, received a master's degree in education from KSU in 1963. He has also taken courses towards a Ph.D. at Carolina.

His excellent sense of humor makes him one of the most popular after-dinner speakers in the Carolina athletic department.

Bill and his wife, Leesie, have two sons, Jamie and Stuart, and a daughter, Megan.

ASSISTANT COACH PHIL FORD

Phil Ford, a three-time first-team All-America point guard during his playing days at North Carolina and the 1978 National Player-of-the-Year, begins his fifth year on Dean Smith's staff as an assistant coach.

Assistant Coach Phil Ford

"It's a dream come true to coach at my alma mater and a great thrill to work with Coach Smith," says Ford. "He has played a very important role in my life and there is no one better with whom I could begin my coaching career."

Besides the obvious wealth of practical basketball knowledge and innate talent Ford brought to his job as an assistant coach, he has also proven himself to be a very valuable addition as a recruiter in his first four years on the job. Ford and chief assistant coach Bill Guthridge join Smith as the three designated representatives of the Tar Heel basketball program who can go on the road and visit with prospective players.

Ford has also warmed very quickly to the task of educating, a crucial role in any coach's job. "Sometimes great players are not patient enough in teaching young players," explains Smith. "However, Phil Ford has demonstrated a tremendous ability to teach the guard position to our players. They respect him so much and he has brought out tremendous improvement in our guards in his four years on our staff."

Ford, a native of Rocky Mount, N.C., will always be known as one of the greatest players in college basketball history. Ford graduated from Rocky Mount High School in 1974, where he was both an outstanding basketball player and a National Honor Society member.

The 6-2 backcourt star played on Carolina teams which won 99 of 124 games in his four years and went to the NCAA Tournament four times, advancing to the championship game in his junior year. He won the coveted John Wooden Award as a senior and was also named the National Player-of-the-Year in 1978 by the United States Basketball Writers Association, the National Association of Basketball Coaches and The Sporting News.

During his senior season, he became the Tar Heels' all-time leading scorer with 2,290 career points, a record he still holds today. He saved what was perhaps his greatest career performance for his final home game in Carmichael Auditorium, scoring a career-high 34 points in leading the Tar Heels to an 87-83 win over Duke, clinching the 1978 Atlantic Coast Conference regular-season championship for the Tar Heels.

Ford also held UNC's single game, season and career records for assists for close to a decade until Kenny Smith and Jeff Lebo broke those records in the late 1980s.

Although freshmen became eligible to play varsity sports under NCAA rules during the 1972-73 school year, Ford was actually the first freshman during Smith's tenure to start in the first game of his Carolina career. He capped an outstanding freshman year by leading the Tar Heels to the 1975 ACC Tournament championship. In the process, Ford became the first freshman in league history to win the Everett Case Award as the Most Valuable Player in the ACC Tournament.

Ford was named first-team All-ACC in 1976, 1977 and 1978. He was first-team All-ACC Tournament in 1975, 1976 and 1977 and second-team in 1978. He was named to multiple All-America teams in earning first-team status in 1976, 1977 and 1978.

He was voted the Atlantic Coast Conference Player-of-the-Year in his senior season and in both 1977 and 1978 he was the recipient of the Anthony J. McKevlin Award as the ACC Athlete-of-the-Year.

Ford was chosen to play on the 1976 U.S. Olympic Team which competed in Montreal, winning the gold medal. Ford started on that team and was named one of its co-captains. Two of his coaches on that Olympic Team were gentlemen he now shares offices with in the Dean Smith Center—Smith and Guthridge.

After finishing at Carolina in 1978, Ford was taken as the second player in that year's NBA draft, a pick of the Kansas City Kings. He had a magnificent first year in Kansas City, being tapped the 1979 NBA Rookie-of-the-Year. That year, he was also named to the NBA All-Rookie Team and to the All-NBA second team. Ford spent a total of four seasons with the Kings and also played one year each with the New Jersey Nets and Milwaukee Bucks and two seasons with the Houston Rockets.

After leaving professional basketball, Ford worked for North Carolina National Bank and for Jefferson-Pilot Teleproductions. He had been named as the color commentator for the radio network organized by the Charlotte Hornets NBA franchise in 1988, but resigned that post after being named that summer to his position at Carolina.

Ford has come a long way from his backyard basketball court in Rocky Mount where he learned to play the game in the late 1960s and early 1970s. The middle child of school teacher parents, Ford has a brother who is a doctor in Greensboro and a sister who teaches in Durham.

Family ties have always been important to Ford. During his senior year at Carolina, he told a reporter from the Washington Post what he considered his greatest thrill.

"When someone tells my parents I'm a nice guy," Ford said.

Ford was married in July 1988 to the former Traci Vample, a Salem College graduate and native of Durham, N.C. The Fords have a daughter, Tyler, and a son, Mitchell.

ASSISTANT COACH RANDY WIEL

Fresh off the experience of coaching the 1992 Dutch Olympic basketball team, Randy Wiel begins his seventh year on the Carolina staff as an assistant varsity coach and the head junior varsity coach. His ties to UNC date back to the mid-1970s when he came here as a player. He also served as a graduate assistant coach in the mid-1980s.

Assistant Coach Randy Wiel

Wiel was selected to coach the 1992 National Team for the Netherlands in early 1991. He led the Dutch team into the pre-Olympic qualifying tournament in Badagoz, Spain last summer and the team finished third out of six teams, barely missing a spot in the Olympics in Barcelona (the top two teams qualified). However, the Dutch team did accomplish a landmark goal, beating a realigned Russian team for the first time ever. Tar Heel freshman center Serge Zwikker was the 12th man on Wiel's Dutch team.

"To be selected as the national team coach of one of the better basketball countries in Europe was a tremendous honor," says UNC Head Coach Dean Smith. "Randy is a Dutch citizen and I'm glad the basketball people there recognized his ability in this way."

A native of Curaçao in the Netherlands Antilles, Wiel played on Carolina teams from 1975-79, earning four varsity letters. He graduated from Carolina in 1979 with an A.B. degree in education. He went on to receive a Master of Science degree in education from UNC in 1987.

After graduating from Carolina, Wiel played professional basketball for six years in Europe. In the Netherlands, Wiel was considered one of the best defensive players ever to play in the Dutch Basketball Federation. In 1980-81, he was the league's third-leading scorer with 765 points.

In the early 1980s, Wiel played 53 games over six seasons for the Dutch National Team. At the 1983 European Championships in France, the Dutch team which included Wiel finished fourth, the best Dutch showing ever. The Dutch team Wiel played on in the European "B" Championships in 1982 in Portugal finished first and went unbeaten.

An accomplished all-around athlete, he participated in the sprint events in track and field and also swam on a competitive basis. He represented the Netherlands Antilles in the Pan American Games at Winnipeg, Canada in 1967 as a swimmer and in the Olympic Games in Mexico City in 1968 in track and field.

Wiel is also an accomplished linguist. He speaks no less than six languages fluently—English, Dutch, Spanish, French, Portuguese and Papiamentoe, the native language of the Netherlands Antilles.

Smith is effusive in his praise of the work Wiel has done with Carolina's junior varsity program.

"Randy has done an amazing job as head coach of the junior varsity program," he explains. "His teams are consistently overmatched in size, speed and quickness, but somehow they're in every game. They are able to win with consistency over junior colleges who give scholarships.

"It's a real credit to Coach Wiel and the type of young men on our junior varsity team that we're able to compete as well as we do. Furthermore, Coach Wiel always has the team playing very hard. They play a smart game and they play together. We're proud of the junior varsity program and feel it represents the University well."

Wiel married the former Connie Hicks in the summer of 1986. She is also a UNC graduate with a master's degree in education. The Wiels are expecting their first child in December of 1992.

ASSISTANT TO THE ATHLETIC DIRECTOR DAVE HANNERS

Dave Hanners, a former University of North Carolina backcourt player, is entering his first season as an Assistant to the Athletic Director at Carolina after spending the previous three seasons as a Tar Heel assistant coach. Hanners joined the Carolina staff in 1989 after Dick Harp retired to his native Kansas.

Assistant to the Athletic Director Dave Hanners

Hanners moved into his new position after the NCAA voted at its latest convention to cut basketball coaching staffs to four individuals. In his new position, Hanners handles a whole host of administrative duties relating to the basketball program and the athletic department and acts as the basketball office's liaison with other offices within the UNC athletic program.

A native of Columbus, Ohio, Hanners graduated from Walnut Ridge High School where he played with Brad Hoffman and Ed Stahl, both Tar Heel teammates in the mid-1970s. That trio played together on a state championship team at Walnut Ridge. A guard at Carolina, Hanners earned four letters and was a tri-captain of the 1976 team with Mitch Kupchak and Bill Chambers. As a senior, he led the team to a 25-4 overall mark and a 13-1 record in the Atlantic Coast Conference. He also played on UNC's ACC Tournament championship team in 1975.

Hanners earned a Bachelor of Arts degree in education from Carolina in 1976. Following graduation, he worked on the Tar Heel staff for two years as a graduate assistant coach, helping Eddie Fogler with the junior varsity program. Hanners earned his Master of Arts degree in education from UNC in 1978.

He then worked two years as a high school head coach—in 1978-79 at the University School in Milwaukee, Wis. and in 1979-80 at Westover High School in Fayetteville, N.C.

Hanners then entered the collegiate coaching ranks, serving as an assistant coach at UNC-Wilmington for three years, at Furman University for one year and at East Tennessee State University for four years.

His work at ETSU truly helped Les Robinson, now the head coach at N.C. State, build his program there. Hanners headed up the Buccaneers' recruiting efforts and in 1988-89, ETSU won the Southern Conference championship and came within one point of knocking off NCAA Southeast Regional top seed Oklahoma in the first round of the tournament.

"Coach Hanners headed up the great recruiting effort at ETSU," says Tar Heel Head Coach Dean Smith. "That helped them with their near upset of Oklahoma in the NCAA Tournament. Dave takes great pride in picking out so-called sleepers in high school recruiting. He surely did this at UNC-Wilmington and Furman before the amazing job he did at East Tennessee.

"In Dave, we have one of the most hard-working and organized people I have ever been associated with. It's good to have him on our athletic department staff."

Hanners echoes Coach Smith's words about his return to his alma mater three years ago.

"I enjoyed my time at East Tennessee a great deal," says Hanners. "However, I could not pass up the opportunity to come back to North Carolina and work for Coach Smith. Any coach in the country would love to spend time with him and Coach Guthridge. This will be a great learning experience for me and I hope I can make an important contribution."

OFFICE AND SUPPORT STAFF

Harley Dartt

Strength, Fitness and Video Operations Coordinator

Formerly serving as the assistant strength coach at the University of North Carolina for all 26 varsity intercollegiate sports from 1982-88, Harley Dartt now is in his fifth year as the strength, fitness and video operations coordinator for the men's basketball program at the University.

A native of Wilmington, N.C., the 35-year-old Dartt received his A.B. degree from Carolina in 1978 and he was awarded a Master of Science degree from the University in 1980.

Dartt was named Region II National Strength and Conditioning Association Director-of-the-Year in 1987. He is also an NSCA certified strength and conditioning specialist.

Dartt started working specifically with the men's basketball program in 1988. His duties involve being at practice to assist with the strength and fitness part of the players' workouts, coordinating off-season and in-season fitness programs for the entire team and coordinating the program's entire film needs, including filming duties during games and keeping up-to-date files on films of other teams for scouting purposes.

Dartt, a bachelor, is an avid guitarist and also enjoys fishing.

Marc Davis

Head Basketball Trainer

Marc Davis serves as the head trainer for North Carolina's men's basketball team, a position he has held since the 1977-78 school year.

Davis received his Bachelor of Science degree in physical therapy from the University of North Carolina in 1974. After graduating from Carolina, he worked as a physical therapist at Danville Memorial Hospital in Danville, Va. from October 1974 to May 1975. He began his current tenure on the sports medicine staff at Carolina in July 1975.

The 41-year-old Davis, a native of Wilmington, N.C. and alumnus of New Hanover High School, is a member of the American Physical Therapy Association and the National Athletic Trainers Association.

Davis' duties at Carolina consist of providing physical therapy and athletic training services to Carolina athletic teams. In addition to the men's basketball team, he also works closely with the football team and he serves as head trainer for the men's and women's swimming and diving teams. He also provides similar services to members of the general student body who are recommended to him by Student Health Service physicians. Davis also works with the basketball coaching staff to coordinate team travel.

Davis is married to the former Paula Gee.

ASSOCIATE ATHLETIC DIRECTORS

Dick Baddour

Senior Associate Director of Athletics

A former Carolina student and an employee at the University since 1967, Dick Baddour currently serves as Senior Associate Director of Athletics.

In this role, Baddour, 48, oversees departmental personnel, handles compliance matters with the NCAA and the Atlantic Coast Conference, supervises the UNC drug education and grant-in-aid programs and serves as the departmental contact with the admissions, financial aid and academic support offices.

In 1966, Baddour received his A.B. degree in economics from Carolina. In 1975, he was awarded a Master of Arts degree in education with a major in student personnel administration and a minor in business administration from UNC.

The Goldsboro, N.C. native and 1962 Goldsboro High School alumnus served as Assistant Dean of Men at the University from 1967-71. He then moved on to be Assistant Director of Undergraduate Admissions from 1971 to 1983. Before coming to the athletic department, Baddour served as Assistant Dean of the UNC School of Law from 1983-86. He was named an associate AD at Carolina in April 1986 and was promoted to Senior Associate AD in July 1990.

The East Chapel Hill Rotary Club presented Baddour with a Paul Harris Fellowship in recognition of his service to the Rotary Club and the community.

Baddour's wife Lynda is a first grade teacher at Durham Academy. The Baddours have two sons, Allen, 21, a senior at Carolina, and David, 19, a sophomore at UNC, and a daughter Jennifer, 18, a freshman at UNC-Greensboro.

Jeff Elliott

Associate Athletic Director and Director of the Smith Center

Jeff Elliott serves as Associate Athletic Director and Director of the Smith Center at the University of North Carolina. Elliott took over his current duties in July 1990 after coming to UNC in the summer of 1988 as Assistant Athletic Director and Director of the Smith Center.

In his role at UNC, Elliott schedules, supervises and directs all operations of the Smith Center and oversees the use of all UNC athletic facilities, including the planning and construction of new facilities. He also coordinates all concession operations and supervises the areas of games operations, business and finance, tickets and Finley Golf Course.

Elliott, 44, received a Bachelor of Science degree in business administration in 1969 from Louisiana State University and an M.B.A. in 1972, also from LSU. At LSU, he was selected for membership in Omicron Delta Kappa, a national leadership society, in 1979.

Prior to working at Carolina, the Farmerville, La. native served as an administrative assistant in the LSU athletic department for two years. He also served as business manager of the LSU Assembly Center from 1973-76 and as the Center's assistant director from 1976-81. From 1981-88, Elliott was the director of the LSU Assembly Center.

Elliott is a member of the National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics, the International Association of Auditorium Managers, the Carolina Building Managers Association and the East Chapel Hill Rotary Club. Elliott is married to the former Karen McCarter, past captain of the LSU women's tennis team and formerly the head women's tennis coach at her alma mater. They have two children, Jeremy, 10, and Ashley, 8.

Beth Miller

Associate Athletic Director for Non-Revenue Sports

Beth Miller was promoted in July 1990 to the position of Associate Athletic Director for Non-Revenue Sports at Carolina. In her present capacity, Miller is responsible for supervising the successful 24-sport non-revenue program at UNC. She has handled similar duties under different titles since 1985.

Miller is a 1968 alumna of Appalachian State University with a B.S. degree in health and physical education. She also earned an M.A. from ASU in the same field a year later. She went on to receive a Doctor of Arts degree in physical education from Middle Tennessee State University in 1974.

From 1969-72, she served as head volleyball and head women's basketball coach at ASU. She came to Carolina in 1974 as an assistant professor of health and physical education and an assistant women's basketball and assistant volleyball coach. She was named head volleyball coach in 1975 and led the Tar Heels to four successive Atlantic Coast Conference titles from 1980-83 and five post-season tournament appearances. She also coached softball at Carolina for one year.

In 1979, she took on added duties as athletic business manager at Carolina. She retired from coaching volleyball after the 1983 season, but continued to handle all financial affairs for the department through 1987. In 1985, she was also put in charge of the non-revenue program.

Miller is a member of the the National Association of Collegiate Women Athletic Administrators, National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics, UNC Housing Advisory Board and the Division I-A Women Athletic Administrator's Steering Committee.

Miller formerly served six years on the NCAA Division I Women's Volleyball Committee.

Bob Savod

Associate Athletic Director and Director of Marketing

Bob Savod, a native of New York City and CCNY alumnus, serves as Associate Athletic Director and Director of Marketing at the University of North Carolina. He has been with the Athletic Department since 1976.

Savod's duties involve designing major marketing campaigns for the sale of UNC football and basketball tickets. He is also responsible for corporate sponsorships, coordinating radio and TV affairs and he serves as departmental liaison with the Tar Heel Sports Network, Carolina Blue and the University trademark licensing program. Additional duties include serving as sales and marketing director for the Dean Smith and Mack Brown television and radio shows, coordinating halftime shows and negotiating media contracts.

Savod recently coordinated the athletic department's ambitious "Multi-Media" Bid Project, which in 1993 will incorporate all the department's radio and TV properties, game programs and other sponsorships into a major "one-stop shopping package."

Savod was one of the first full-time sports marketing directors in intercollegiate athletics, introducing the concept of multi-media blitz to market football tickets. He designed the "Carolina Fever" campaign in the late 1970s which helped double season ticket sales and sell out Kenan Stadium 12 consecutive years. In 1981, the UNC athletic department was named North Carolina "Marketing Organization of the Year" by the American Marketing Association.

Savod and his wife, Judy, have two children, Suzanne and Jason.

ASSISTANT ATHLETIC DIRECTORS

Willie Scroggs

Assistant Athletic Director for Game Operations

Willie Scroggs is in his 12th year as the Assistant Athletic Director for Game Operations at the University of North Carolina. Scroggs, who retired in May 1990 after 12 years as Carolina's head lacrosse coach, oversees all game operation functions for Carolina's 26-sport athletic program as well as supervising outdoor facilities and the athletic dining hall.

The Baltimore, Md., native came to Carolina in 1978 as head lacrosse coach after being an assistant football and assistant lacrosse coach at his alma mater, Johns Hopkins University, for six seasons. At Carolina, Scroggs worked as assistant business manager and assistant to the athletic director for three years before accepting his present position.

But it is in coaching that Scroggs gained his greatest fame. His 12 teams compiled a record of 120-37, a winning percentage of .764. He led Tar Heel teams to their first NCAA and Atlantic Coast Conference championships in the sport, winning national crowns in 1981, 1982 and 1986 and ACC titles in 1981, 1982, 1985, 1988, 1989 and 1990. Eleven of his 12 teams finished in the national Top 10. The 1981 National Coach-of-the-Year, Scroggs led his Tar Heels to 11 NCAA Tournament appearances and his teams reached at least the semifinals of the NCAA Tournament nine times.

Scroggs served on the NCAA Men's Lacrosse Committee for six years, including as chairman in 1987-88. He recently began another tenure as chairman of the same committee this fall.

Scroggs is married to Karen Shelton, UNC's head field hockey coach. The couple have a son, William Alexander, born in March 1990. Scroggs also has two daughters, Betsy, 18, a freshman at Johns Hopkins, and Emily, 15, from a previous marriage.

John Lotz

Assistant Athletic Director for Campus and Community Relations

John Lotz is now in his 14th year as an assistant athletic director at the University of North Carolina. He presently serves in the role of Assistant Athletic Director for Campus and Community Relations. He was an assistant AD in charge of UNC's men's non-revenue sports from 1980-85.

In his present role, he coordinates a speaker's bureau for the UNC athletic department. Lotz, who speaks at banquets and basketball camps, including Dean Smith's Carolina Basketball School, throughout the United States, has been called one of the nation's foremost motivational speakers.

Lotz received both his bachelor's and master's degrees from East Texas State University. He has long been associated with successful athletic programs. On the college level, Lotz began his career serving as the top assistant basketball coach at Carolina to Smith for eight years.

In 1972, the Flushing, N.Y. native was named head basketball coach at the University of Florida. In 1973, he was named Southeastern Conference Coach-of-the-Year in his rookie season with the Gators. In 1977, his Florida team went 17-9 and he was honored with the SEC Coach-of-the-Year award from United Press International, while his fellow coaches also voted him the prestigious Adolph Rupp Award given to the league's top coach.

Lotz attended Baylor University before transferring to ETSU. Lotz and his wife, Vicki, have two daughters, Corrie and Laci, and they reside in Chapel Hill.

Martina Kendrick Ballen

Assistant Athletic Director for Business and Finance

Martina Kendrick Ballen is in her sixth year as Director of Athletic Business and Finance at the University of North Carolina and her second season as an assistant athletic director. She was promoted to Assistant Athletic Director in June 1991.

Previously, she had served as Director of Athletic Business and Finance at Carolina for four years beginning in 1987. In her position at the University, she is responsible for developing and implementing basic operating procedures pertaining to appropriate financial controls for the athletic department. She supervises the development and control of departmental budgets as well as the paying and receiving of all departmental funds.

In addition, Ballen supervises departmental purchasing, oversees the departmental insurance programs, approves travel advances and expense reports, oversees departmental investments with university-pooled accounts and supervises the business office staff.

Ballen, 34, earned her Bachelor of Science degree in business administration from the University of North Carolina in 1980 and her Master of Business Administration degree from the Babcock School of Management at Wake Forest University in 1984.

Ballen worked as a credit analyst at North Carolina National Bank in Raleigh in 1984 and then was a commercial branch manager at the Chapel Hill office of NCNB from 1985-87.

The Southern Pines, N.C. native is married to Dwayne L. Ballen, a sportscaster for WTVD-TV, the ABC affiliate in Durham, N.C.

Monk Tomlinson

Assistant Athletic Director

Monk Tomlinson is in his second full year as an assistant athletic director and his third as an administrative assistant on Mack Brown's football staff. In his role as assistant athletic director, Tomlinson oversees management of the football office operations and its budget, football travel, supervision of the strength and conditioning program and organization of Carolina's high school football coaching clinic.

Tomlinson moved into his administrative position prior to the 1990 football season after he served for two years as interior line coach for the Tar Heels. He was one of five assistant coaches Brown brought to Chapel Hill when he was hired in December of 1987. He had been a member of the Green Wave staff for three seasons.

A 1959 graduate of the College of William & Mary, he began his coaching career at Maryville College in Tennessee. He was the offensive line coach there from 1959 to 1963. He then served as the school's head coach until 1971.

From 1971 to 1973, Tomlinson was offensive backfield coach at Tennessee Tech. He then spent 10 years at Northeast Louisiana University before moving to Tulane.

A native of Norfolk, Va., Tomlinson was a three-year starter at William & Mary at offensive guard and linebacker. He received a master's degree from the University of Tennessee in 1971.

Tomlinson is married to the former Shirley Ann Burgess. They have two children, Julie Ann and John Curtis.

SPORTS INFORMATION AND PUBLIC RELATIONS STAFF

Rick Brewer

Assistant Athletic Director for Sports Information and Public Relations

Rick Brewer is in his 25th year in the Carolina Sports Information Office and his 18th as its director.

Brewer is a native of North Carolina, growing up in Winston-Salem and Greensboro. He is a 1971 Carolina graduate with a degree in journalism. In July 1991, he was inducted into the College Sports Information Directors of America Hall of Fame and he currently serves as third vice president of that organization.

A student assistant in the sports information office for three years, Brewer was named the school's first assistant SID upon graduation. He held that position for four years and then was named sports information director in 1975. He was promoted to assistant athletic director for sports information and public relations in July 1990.

Brewer is directly in charge of publicity for Carolina's football and men's basketball teams.

In 1984, Brewer served as a press officer for the United States Olympic Committee at the Summer Olympic Games in Los Angeles. In that role, he served as a liaison between the media covering the Games and the American athletes and coaches.

For the past nine years, Brewer has been a member of the Media Coordination Committee which assists the media at the Final Four of the NCAA Men's Basketball Championships.

Brewer, a bachelor, is regarded as one of the world's finest parallel parkers and worst dancers.

Dave Lohse

Associate Sports Information Director

Dave Lohse is in his 16th year as a member of the Carolina sports information staff, having been promoted to his current position of associate sports information director in July 1990.

Lohse's major responsibilities at UNC include editing the men's basketball brochure and game programs, assisting in the publicizing of the men's basketball and football teams and handling publicity for the sports of men's soccer, men's and women' swimming and diving, men's and women's fencing, men's tennis, lacrosse and women's golf.

He has won 38 national and district editing and writing awards from the College Sports Information Directors of America. His 1990, 1991 and 1992 Carolina lacrosse media guides and his 1991-92 Carolina men's basketball game programs were all judged Best in the Nation by the College Sports Information Directors of America.

The U.S. Olympic Committee picked Lohse to serve as a press officer at the 1988 Summer Olympics in Seoul, South Korea, working with the American diving team.

A 1977 graduate of Purdue University with a B.A. in political science, Lohse, 37, was inducted into Phi Beta Kappa there and worked in the Boilermaker sports information office for three years as a student assistant. The Griffith, Ind. native and valedictorian of the Class of 1973 at Griffith High School spent two years as a graduate assistant in the UNC sports information office before being named assistant SID in 1979.

A bachelor, Lohse is a diehard Chicago Cubs fan, an outspoken liberal Democrat and a classic movie buff. In what little spare time he has, he enjoys playing golf and trivia games and reading almanacs.

Steve Kirschner

Assistant Sports Information Director

Steve Kirschner is in his third year as the Assistant Sports Information Director at North Carolina.

Kirschner's major responsibilities include handling the publicity needs of the women's soccer, track and field, wrestling and baseball teams. In addition, he edits the football game programs and the football media guide and assists with the day-to-day publicizing of UNC's men's basketball and football teams.

A 1988 graduate of the University of Connecticut, Kirschner, 26, earned a Bachelor of Arts degree in sports studies with an emphasis in sports marketing and management. He worked in the Huskies' sports information office for four years as a student assistant before serving as sports information intern at Carolina during the 1988-89 school year. In 1989-90, Kirschner was the assistant sports information director for men's spring sports at the University of Florida.

A native of Bristol, Conn., Kirschner has won several publications awards from the College Sports Information Directors of America, including two Best in the Nation certificates. His 1991 Carolina football game programs were chosen fifth-best in the nation.

During his career, he helped host two NCAA men's basketball subregionals at UConn and was the media coordinator for the 1988, 1990 and 1991 NCAA Women's Soccer Championships at UNC and the 1990 NCAA Men's Golf Championships at Florida.

Kirschner, who is single, is a member of CoSIDA and from 1977-88 served as clubhouse and equipment manager for the Boston Red Sox's AA franchise in New Britain, Conn. He is a hapless Boston Red Sox fan in his spare time.

Sheri West

Assistant Public Relations Director

Sheri West is in her third year as the Assistant Public Relations Director at the University of North Carolina.

A 1988 Clemson University summa cum laude graduate with a Bachelor of Science degree in management, West, 26, assists Athletic Director John Swofford and Assistant Athletic Director for Sports Information and Public Relations Rick Brewer in planning and implementing publicity campaigns and overall departmental public relations. She also handles all publicity needs for the sports of volleyball, field hockey, women's basketball, gymnastics, women's tennis and softball as well as assisting Brewer with the day-to-day publicizing of football and men's basketball.

West, a native of Columbus, Ga., worked as a student assistant in the IPTAY office at Clemson for a year and then was a student assistant and graduate assistant in the Tigers' sports information office for two years. She also worked on a master's degree in recreation management at her alma mater. West went on to work at the Atlantic Coast Conference Office in Greensboro, N.C. as the service bureau intern in 1989-90.

West's 1989-90 ACC women's basketball media guide was judged Best in the Nation by the College Sports Information Directors of America in the conference publications contest.

West, who is single, is a member of CoSIDA and is a national member of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes. She serves as an advisor to the University of North Carolina chapter of FCA. She also serves as the District 3 women's university division coordinator for the CoSIDA Academic All-America committee. West is an avid tennis and golf player.

CAROLINA SPORTS MEDICINE STAFF

Joe DeWalt

Director of Sports Medicine

Dr. Joseph DeWalt is responsible for the delivery of medical care to the 26 intercollegiate athletic teams at the University of North Carolina in his position as Director of Sports Medicine.

DeWalt, a 1950 graduate of Carolina with a B.A. degree in chemistry, also sees students from the general student body with orthopaedic injuries. He has been associated with the Student Health Service at the University since 1963, has worked in the area of sports medicine since 1965 and was named to his present position in 1971. He was awarded the C. Knox Massey Distinguished Service Award in June 1992 for "superior contributions to UNC."

After serving in the infantry at Fort Bragg, N.C., DeWalt, 65, was in the first four-year graduating class from the UNC School of Medicine in 1954. He began his medical career as a post-doctoral trainee for four years in internal medicine and a year in fellowship. He then worked in private practice in Sea Level, N.C. for five years before assuming his role with the Student Health Service.

A native of Aberdeen, S.D., DeWalt is married to the former Mollie Hood. They have three daughters—Mollie DeWalt Keller, whose husband is a gastroenterologist in Eustis, Fla.; Susan DeWalt Brown, married to former Carolina soccer letterman Chris Brown, now a space biologist with NASA in Titusville, Fla.; and Paula DeWalt Symanski, whose husband is a resident in internal medicine at UNC Hospitals in Chapel Hill.

DeWalt is an avid golfer in his spare time.

Tim Taft

Director of Orthopaedic Sports Medicine

Dr. Timothy Taft serves as the team orthopaedic surgeon and Director of Orthopaedic Sports Medicine at the University of North Carolina. Taft has worked at Carolina for the past two decades.

Taft, 50 and a native of St. Louis, Mo., received his A.B. degree from Princeton University in 1964 and his M.D. from the University of Missouri in 1969. He completed his residency in orthopaedic surgery at Carolina in 1974.

Taft holds one of only two endowed professorships in sports medicine in the United States, the Max Novich Distinguished Professor of Sports Medicine chair. He is a member of the American Orthopaedic Society for Sports Medicine, the American Academy of Orthopaedic Surgeons, the Committee on the Medical Aspects of Sports for the North Carolina Medical Society and is an examiner for the American Board of Orthopaedic Surgery.

Taft served as team physician for the 1979 U.S. Pan American Games Team and the 1980 U.S. Olympic Team and as head physician for the 1981 U.S. World University Games Team. He has served as a team physician for U.S. basketball teams which have competed in the 1980 Olympics, 1981 World University Games, 1982 FIBA International Tournament, 1986 Men's World Championships and 1990 Women's World Championships.

Taft and his wife, Judy, have two children—Todd, 18, and Becky, 13. Todd is a freshman at Carolina.

REVIEWING THE 1991-92 SEASON

1991-92 SEASON REVIEW

By Jacqui Steadman
Sports Information Student Assistant

There are very few collegiate basketball teams that could finish a season with 23 wins and a trip to the NCAA Sweet 16 and not be considered an exceptional squad by its adoring fans.

However, that is just what the 1991-92 Carolina basketball team did. The incredible Tar Heel basketball tradition has established a standard that renders average what most would consider outstanding. Therefore, a tremendous 1991-92 Carolina basketball team probably didn't get the credit it deserved from both pundits and fans alike.

After opening their season with a 97-58 win over The Citadel in Chapel Hill, the Tar Heels travelled to Texas to take on a talented Houston Cougar squad. The young brigade from Chapel Hill faced a 15-point halftime deficit. But a 17-point second half contribution from senior leader Hubert Davis and a strong defensive effort that held Houston to a 25.9 second-half shooting percentage combined to produce the first of the season's many second-half comebacks.

Carolina returned home to improve its record to 4-0 with a 98-88 win over a feisty Towson State team and a 109-66 victory over Cornell.

The fifth-ranked Tar Heels were then off to the Meadowlands to face the sixth-ranked Pirates of Seton Hall in the ACC/Big East Challenge. Carolina handed Seton Hall its worst home loss in 17 years. Davis, George Lynch, Eric Montross and Derrick Phelps all scored in double figures to contribute to the 83-54 victory.

The Tar Heels returned home to extend their record to 6-0 with a 101-72 rout of Central Florida. With an untarnished record under their belts, the hoopsters prepared to open the ACC season with a battle against conference newcomer Florida State. Despite a definite height advantage, Carolina could not catch the speedy Seminoles. Employing three guards and a specially designed defensive scheme, Florida State dominated the contest. Davis hit seven three pointers, tying a UNC record set by Jeff Lebo in 1987. However, the rest of the Tar Heels were only 22 for 54 from the field and only one for 15 from three-point range. Carolina got as close as 71-67 with 3:34 left to play, but UNC was not able to score again until Montross' field goal with 42 seconds remaining. Meanwhile, the Seminoles were seven of 10 from the line in the closing minutes. In the end, Carolina was on the short end of an 86-74 score.

With an unexpected blemish on its record, Carolina headed to Jacksonville, Fla. for a matchup against the Dolphins. Montross turned in an outstanding performance with 21 points and 12 rebounds while Lynch notched 24 points of his own. Davis came off the bench to score 20. Despite an impressive 28-point performance from Jacksonville's James Fuller, UNC went home for Christmas with a 98-87 win.

The beginning of the new year proved fruitful as the Tar Heels enjoyed a three-game homestand. The Boilermakers of Purdue were the first to come to town.

Carolina started slowly, experiencing a five-minute scoring drought, but UNC rallied and scored 13 unanswered points to take a 38-23 halftime lead. Outrebounding the Boilermakers 39-25 and holding them to a 35.1 shooting percentage, Carolina ran away with a 78-50 victory.

Two days later, the Tar Heels defeated the Buffaloes of Colorado 85-64. They rounded out their stay in Chapel Hill by dominating an ACC confrontation with Clemson. UNC led from start to finish in the contest, thus denying the Tigers their first ever win in Chapel Hill.

Having evened their conference record at 1-1, the Tar Heels suffered another unexpected loss. This time it was to Notre Dame in Madison Square Garden. While the Tar Heels managed to stay within five to eight points most of the way, the young squad suffered its second defeat of the season, 88-76.

The Heels then headed into the heart of their ACC season. Maryland and Wake Forest were the first two victims of UNC's rebound from the Notre Dame loss.

The intensity of ACC competition was exemplified when the Terrapins came to town. However, the Tar Heels outscored the Terrapins by 10 each half and recorded their 11th win of the season.

Carolina went on to defeat Wake Forest 90-79 in Winston-Salem and the Heels sent the Wildcats of Villanova home with a 76-64 loss. However, that was where the predictability of the 1991-92 season ended.

The 10th-ranked Tar Heels headed into Reynolds Coliseum, but the Carolina squad hit one major road block. Wolfpack leader Tom Gugliotta was on fire. He hit eight of 14 three pointers, scored 36 points and contributed eight rebounds, five assists and four steals. UNC fell to 13-3 overall and 3-2 in the ACC with a 99-88 loss to Gugliotta and company.

Things seemed to be headed in much the same direction in Carolina's subsequent contest with Virginia. The Tar Heels found themselves trailing the Cavaliers by two at the half. UNC rose to the challenge and played a strong defensive second half to take control. Carolina held the Cavaliers to mere 28 percent field goal shooting and forced 12 turnovers in the second 20 minutes. Virginia only managed 22 points in the second half and Carolina ran away with a 77-56 victory.

After taking the show on the road in an 86-76 win over Georgia Tech, UNC prepared for its toughest test yet. The top-ranked, undefeated Duke Blue Devils came to Chapel Hill on February 5.

The game was surrounded by all the eager anticipation and intensity of a post-season battle. A crowd that had been criticized all season for apathy was energetically enthralled throughout the contest. An upset was in the making and an incredible sense of excitement filled the air.

The Blue Devils were ahead by one at the half, but the Tar Heels responded with a 10-0 run coming out of the locker room. Duke's Christian Laettner, who had averaged 21.3 points per game, was held to a 12-point performance. Carolina starters Brian Reese, Montross and Davis and substitute Kevin Salvadori all recorded double digit scoring efforts.

The fierceness of the competition was literally written on Montross' face as he was twice forced to leave the game because of gashes to his head. Phelps won the battle of the point guards, forcing an uncharacteristic six turnovers from Blue Devil Bobby Hurley.

Phelps finished two for three from the charity stripe. His free throw results may seem insignificant next to his nine points, five assists and four steals. However, Phelps sunk those two free throws with 44.5 seconds left to play and gave the Tar Heels their winning margin. Laettner missed two field goal attempts in the final seconds and Carolina defeated the #1 team, 75-73.

For the first time ever, Tar Heel faithful fled onto the court at the Dean E. Smith Center in vivacious celebration. It was a celebration that continued into the wee hours of the morning amidst an exuberant Franklin Street crowd.

Three days later, Carolina scored another victory that went down in the books as one of the most exciting finishes ever.

The Demon Deacons led by as many as 22 points and outrebounded UNC 33-25. Yet, Davis would not allow the Deacons to prevail. Turning in a 23-point second half, Davis led an amazing Tar Heel comeback.

With less than 15 minutes to play, Carolina faced a 20-point deficit. Holding Wake Forest to one field goal in the last 6:17, the Tar Heels closed the gap. Pat Sullivan hit his only two free throws of the game with 0:38.6 left on the clock to tie the game at 78.

With 10 seconds to play and the ball, Carolina mounted its last effort. The ball was in the hands of sophomore Reese. Grabbing the rebound of his own missed attempt and double pumping, Reese scored the game-winning basket. The Deacons, who had been in control so much of the way, lost their 11th straight game against Carolina, 80-78.

The winning streak was extended to five as UNC defeated Clemson, 80-72. With a record of 18-3 and March only a few weeks away, Carolina's season took an unaccustomed turn.

For the first time since 1965, Carolina lost four games in a row.

The first defeat came in Charlottesville at the hands of a Virginia team that had lost its last two games. Cavaliers Junior Burrough and Cory Alexander scored 22 and 24 points, respectively, and standout Bryant Stith added 30. With three hot hands on the Virginia squad and a plethora of fouls on Carolina, the Tar Heels ended up on the short end of an 86-73 score.

Carolina then returned home to try to avenge its earlier loss to rival N.C. State. The Wolfpack had not scored a victory since its win over the Tar Heels exactly one month earlier.

UNC centered its defensive efforts on Gugliotta, who had played such an incredible game in the first meeting. Mark Davis and Kevin Thompson picked up the slack for the Wolfpack. The duo combined to contribute 54 points to the Wolfpack effort. Carolina was ahead by 10 with 14 minutes left to play, but a bevy of State three pointers closed the gap. The lead shifted back and forth, culminating in a 99-94 win for the Wolfpack and its first season sweep of the Tar Heels since 1974.

Having lost the momentum gained in the Duke and Wake Forest victories, Carolina travelled down to Florida State to face the speedy team that had handed it its first loss of the season back in December.

Despite a record-setting contribution of eight of 11 three pointers by Davis, the Seminoles prevailed again. Five players from Tallahassee scored in double digits and the smaller Seminoles outrebounded the Tar Heels.

Carolina then travelled to Maryland with a three-game conference losing streak. The Terrapins dominated the first 20 minutes, shooting 71.4 percent and accumulating a 22-point lead by the half. Opening the second half with a 9-1 run, it appeared that the Tar Heels were engineering another Wake Forest style comeback. Davis scored 17 of his 24 points in the second half to boost Carolina within striking distance. UNC took its only lead of the game on a three-point play by Davis with 18.5 seconds on the clock. Hopes of another breathtaking comeback win were shattered as Walt Williams tipped in the winning Terrapin field goal with less than two seconds to play.

Three days later, the losing streak was ended with a home court win over Georgia Tech.

The Tar Heels came out for their last home game of the season looking much the way they had appeared in their last four defeats. Once again, Carolina was on the short end of the score at the half. But, strong performances from Davis and Lynch kept UNC in contention. Davis led all scorers in his last home game, recording 27 points, and Lynch notched 15 points, 13 rebounds, seven assists and four steals.

Swept up in the emotion of Carolina's 75-73 win over #1-ranked Duke on February 5, 1992, Tar Heel center Eric Montross and UNC fans celebrate the victory on the court of the Dean E. Smith Center. It was the first time since the Smith Center opened in 1986 that the fans had spilled out onto the court to celebrate a Carolina victory. (Photo by Scott Sharpe)

An eight-point Carolina lead with 5:07 left to play dwindled to two with 27 seconds on the clock. It looked as if loss number five in a row could be on the way as the Yellow Jackets gained possession in the waning seconds. However, a turnover by Tech's Malcom Mackey and subsequent free throws by Phelps, Davis and Reese sealed the 79-75 victory for UNC.

The traditional regular season-ending game between Carolina and Duke was all that was left to be played. As tradition dictates, the contest was filled with emotion and intensity.

Davis led the Tar heel effort with 35 points. He made 13 of 19 field goal attempts and six of eight from three-point range. In the end, UNC could not keep up with the #1-ranked Blue Devils. Duke finished the game on an 18-6 run and defeated Carolina, 89-77.

UNC finished the regular season with a record of 19-8 overall and 9-7 in conference play. The team headed to Charlotte as the third seed in the ACC Tournament.

Lynch and Montross combined for 35 points and 17 rebounds to boost the Tar Heels past their first round confrontation with Wake Forest. Carolina moved on to face a Florida State team that had swept it during the regular season.

This time, the game plan and the outcome were different. Carolina turned to a zone that shut down the flashy Seminole offense. Lynch turned in one of his finest performances all season with 21 points and 14 rebounds. He kept the Tar Heels alive, scoring nine straight Carolina points in the second half. The combination of Lynch's short range jumpers and Davis' 28 points from all over the court led UNC to an 80-76 win.

Once again, Carolina and Duke faced one another. This time, the Atlantic Coast Conference championship was on the line.

The Blue Devils appeared to be a team on a mission. Every Duke starter scored in double figures and Grant Hill came off the bench to add 20 points of his own. Hurley set an ACC finals record with 11 assists and the Blue Devils took the top ranking in the ACC with a decisive 94-74 victory.

A second-place finish in the ACC Tournament earned Carolina the fourth seed in the Southeast Region of the NCAA Tournament. The Tar Heels travelled to Cincinnati and defeated Miami of Ohio 68-63 and Alabama 64-55 to earn their 12th consecutive trip to the Sweet 16.

Carolina went on to face the top-seeded Ohio State Buckeyes in the regional semifinals in Lexington, Ky. A trip to the regional finals looked like a legitimate possibility as UNC controlled the first half. However, Ohio State's Jimmy Jackson came alive in the second half to rally the Buckeyes back into contention. Twenty-one point performances from Davis and Montross were not enough to send the Tar Heels to the Final 8 as Ohio State prevailed 80-73.

UNC finished the season with a record of 23-10 overall and 9-7 in the ACC. The 1991-92 campaign marked Carolina's 22nd consecutive 20 win season. Salvadori finished as the second best shot blocker in the ACC and Phelps finished second in the ACC in steals. Davis, the senior backbone of this Carolina basketball team, was named a second-team All-ACC performer while Lynch was named to the third team.

THE FACTS & FIGURES OF CAROLINA BASKETBALL

By Dave Lohse

Carolina's basketball team has been considered the nation's best team on five occasions in its history. The 1924 team was voted the national champion by the Helms Foundation, the 1957, 1982 and 1984 squads were voted #1 in the nation in the final Associated Press and United Press International polls, the 1957 and 1982 teams won NCAA titles and the 1971 squad captured the NIT crown. The bus carrying the 1982 national champions back to the Carolina campus in Chapel Hill was mobbed by adoring fans and over 25,000 were on hand at Kenan Stadium to welcome the Tar Heels home on March 30, 1982. There is probably no greater compliment that can be paid by a student than to praise his mentor long after the student has made the long trek to adulthood. A mature individual can oftimes reflect back on the positive effect a particularly favorite teacher made in his life with much greater ease than someone still actively involved in the learning process.

If there is one thing that has been consistent about the basketball program at the University of North Carolina, it is the quality of the educational experience. Coach Dean Smith and his staff are not merely involved with the business of winning basketball games. Their greatest strength is in helping mold complete people. Their vehicle of achieving this is intercollegiate athletics.

In an interview with Basketball Weekly last year, Michael Jordan of the two-time defending world champion Chicago Bulls, possibly the best known sports figure in the world today, looked back on his years as a player at Carolina from 1981-84 and talked about the benefits he reaped from being involved in Coach Smith's program.

"Coach Smith's practices and everything are so precise," says Jordan. "It's the program and he sticks to the program and no one is above the program. That is a proven fact. The program at the University of North Carolina still stands. That catapulted my dream and career tremendously and it has done that for other players."

Jordan's words, coming from a true superstar in the world of sports, could not ring more true. Smith's program is simply the best in the nation. There is no question about it. It is a program which not only wins basketball games at one of the best rates in the country over the past quarter of a century, but also looks out for the best academic interests of its student-athletes, operates in an atmosphere of complete class and integrity and is the best good will ambassador the University of North Carolina has going for it.

Adhering to these same basic philosophies since Carolina first fielded a basketball team in the 1910-11 season, the University of North Carolina has consistently upheld a tradition of greatness unparalleled in the sport.

Here are some of the numbers to prove it:

7 Number of National Players-of-the-Year who have worn Carolina uniforms, the latest being Kenny Smith in 1987.

8 The number of Atlantic Coast Conference opponents against which the Tar Heels have winning series records. That translates to everybody in the league. The ACC was founded in 1953 and has been college basketball's best conference over the past four decades. Carolina has dominated play in the conference since the beginning. In fact, the closest series Carolina has with any league foe is against Duke. Beginning with the ACC's founding prior to the 1953-54 season, the Tar Heels are 66-42 against the Blue Devils, a winning percentage of .611.

8 (Again) Number of NCAA regional championships won by Smith's teams. Exceeded only by UCLA Coach John Wooden's 12 titles.

10 Number of times Carolina has reached the NCAA Final Four in its history. Only UCLA, with 14 appearances, has been to the Final Four more often.

11 UNC has won 11 ACC Tournament championships under Smith. That's the most in league history. Everett Case of N.C. State and Vic Bubas of Duke rank second with four each.

12 Number of successive times North Carolina has made the Final 16 of the NCAA Tournament. That's the second-longest streak in NCAA history, topped only by UCLA's 14 straight Final 16 appearances from 1967-80. Duke has the second-longest current streak with seven. Ohio State, Seton Hall, Indiana and Oklahoma State all share the third-longest streak with two Final 16 appearances in a row.

12 (Again) Times Carolina has reached the Final Eight of the NCAA Tournament over the past 26 years. Trails only UCLA which has made 13 Final Eight appearances in the 26 years.

15 Number of times Carolina has won the ACC regular-season championship under Coach Smith. Frank McGuire's six regular-season titles in coaching stints at North Carolina and South Carolina ranks as the second most.

18 Number of consecutive trips to the NCAA Tournament made by North Carolina, a skein still going strong. That's the longest streak in NCAA Tournament history. UCLA had the second-longest streak of 15 years from 1967-81. Georgetown has the second-longest current streak with 14.

18 (Again) In 31 years as head coach at Carolina, Dean Smith has led his team to 25 or more wins in a season 18 times. That is an NCAA record for 25-win seasons by a coach. Former UNLV and Long Beach State coach Jerry Tarkanian ranks second with 14 25-win seasons and former UCLA Coach John Wooden is third with 11.

20 Number of times Carolina has finished in the Top 10 of a major wire service poll (writers or coaches) in the last 26 seasons. Kentucky is second with 16 appearances. In addition, Carolina has been in at least one Top 10 in 16 of the last 19 seasons and in both Top 10 rankings in 10 of the last 12 campaigns. Smith leads all coaches in the number of times his teams have posted Top 10 finishes. Adolph Rupp of Kentucky is second with 18.

22 Number of consecutive years in which Carolina has won at least 20 basketball games. That is an NCAA record.

22 (Again) Number of times Dean Smith has taken the Tar Heels to the NCAA Tournament. That's the most in tournament history. Rupp took his Kentucky teams 20 times between 1942 and 1972 for second on the list.

26 Number of post-season tournament bids Carolina has garnered in the last 26 seasons. Twenty-two of those trips have been to the NCAA Tournament and four were to the NIT. The four NIT trips and four of the NCAA appearances came in an era when only the winner of the ACC Tournament was eligible to receive an NCAA bid.

28 Number of times in a row that Carolina has finished at least third in the ACC regular-season standings, a streak still intact. In those 28 seasons, Carolina has finished first 15 times, second nine times and third four times.

30 Number of times in history that Carolina has finished the season ranked in one of the major wire service's Top 20. That includes 23 Top 10 finishes. The writers poll began in 1949 and the coaches poll in 1951.

30 (Again) Total number of Carolina players who have been named All-Americas, the latest being Rick Fox in 1991.

41 Number of Dean Smith-coached players who have played professional basketball in either the NBA or ABA.

49 Number of all-time wins by Smith in NCAA Tournament play. That is a record. UCLA's John Wooden is second with 47.

65.9 The percentage of ACC regular-season road games UNC has won over the past 26 seasons, based on a record of 116-60. The second best percentage is N.C. State at 42.2 and no one else is over 40 percent.

70.4 Carolina's overall winning percentage on the road in the last 26 seasons. UNC is 190-80 away from home in that time.

73.3 Carolina's all-time winning percentage in the sport of college basketball. Based on an 82-year record of 1,536-560-0. Percentage ranks third in history of college basketball. UNLV is first at 76.8 and Kentucky second at 75.3.

78.6 UNC's winning percentage over the past 10 seasons (1982-83 through 1991-92). That's the second-best in the country. Only UNLV, at 88.0, has done better.

79.2 Carolina's winning percentage in the last 20 seasons (1972-73 through 1991-92). That's second in the country over the past two decades. Nevada-Las Vegas ranks first with a winning percentage of 81.2. Carolina has accomplished this feat playing annually what is one of the most difficult schedules in the country.

96.8 Percentage of basketball lettermen under Dean Smith who have earned a college degree (180 of 186).

265 Number of ACC regular-season games Carolina has won in the last 26 seasons. N.C. State ranks second during the same period with 188 victories.

In 1992, Tar Heel Head Coach Dean Smith became the winningest coach in the history of the NCAA Tournament. The Tar Heel head mentor has now won 49 games in the tournament during his illustrious coaching career, two more than UCLA's John Wooden. (Photo by Hugh Morton)

523 Number of basketball games Carolina has won in the last 20 seasons. That's the most in the country in that period of time. UNLV ranks second with 522 wins in the past 20 years.

the fifth winningest of all time.

1,536 Number of victories Carolina has compiled in its 82 seasons of intercollegiate basketball competition. That's the most in the history of college basketball. Kentucky is second with 1,530 wins in 89 seasons.

Needless to say, that is quite an impressive array of numbers. But numbers don't even begin to paint the complete picture of Carolina basketball. What they can tell you is that Carolina's program is the most consistent in the nation, year-in and year-out.

That consistency begins with Carolina's domination of the ACC over the past four decades. In the league's 39-year history, Carolina has won the regular-season championship 20 times, or 51 percent of the time in a nine-member league. That includes 13 outright championships and three undefeated seasons. Carolina's 12 ACC Tournament titles are also the most in league history.

Since the conference was founded in the 1953-54 school year, Carolina has a 390-139 league record for a .737 winning percentage. Second-place Duke is more than 60 victories behind at 323-203, a winning percentage of .614. One has to go back to 1963-64 to find a season in which Carolina finished lower than third place in the ACC standings. Carolina has never finished lower than fifth in the regular-season standings, has had only two losing conference seasons in 39 years and has finished in the upper division of the ACC standings 37 of 39 times. Simply defined, that is being dominant.

Perhaps Wilt Browning, a columnist for the Greensboro News & Record put it best when he wrote the following on January 17, 1992:

"It must be written somewhere that the Carolina Tar Heels hold the rite of passage in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

"This is the team against which Duke, last season's national champions, had to earn its stripes and this is the last team to defeat those Blue Devils.

"This is the team and the coach that has still been standing year after year when others such as N.C. State and Virginia and Georgia Tech have risen to prominence and then fallen back."

But league dominance is only the beginning of a basketball tradition which predates the ACC's founding by over 40 years. Carolina goes into the 1992-93 season as the all-time winningest college basketball program with 1,536 victories. The Tar Heels have also won their share of titles. The 1924 team went 26-0 and was voted the national champion by the Helms Foundation. Carolina also won NCAA championships in 1957 and 1982 and the NIT title in 1971. Carolina has also won 10 NCAA regional championships and is one of only six schools in the country to have won both the NCAA and NIT titles. The 1957, 1982 and 1984 teams were also voted #1 in the final national wire service polls.

In post-season play, Carolina has won 56 NCAA Tournament games in 26 appearances and has an additional seven NIT wins in four appearances. The 56 NCAA Tournament wins ranks second in that event's history behind UCLA's 62 and equal to Kentucky's 56. Forty-nine of those victories have come under Dean Smith, making him the winningest coach in tournament history. UCLA's Wooden is second with 47 tourney wins.

Winning conference championships has been a big part of Carolina's successful basketball tradition. Carolina's 12 Atlantic Coast Conference Tournament titles and 20 regular-season crowns are the most in league history. The 1977 team defeated Virginia 75-69 in the ACC tourney finals and then seniors Walter Davis, John Kuester, Woody Coley, Bruce Buckley and Tommy LaGarde accepted the hardware symbolic of the triumph.

Carolina continued adding to those numbers with an NCAA-record 18th successive tournament trip in 1991-92. UCLA has the second longest streak of appearances with 15 (1967-81). Carolina's string would be longer but for the fact that prior to 1974-75, only one team from each conference was eligible to appear in the tournament. Thus in 1970, 1971, 1973 and 1974, some outstanding Carolina teams had nowhere to go but the NIT. Under the current setup, all four of those teams would have been "locks" for at-large bids to the NCAA Tournament. It is interesting to note that since the NCAA opened up its tournament to more than one team from each league in 1974-75, Carolina has made the tournament field each and every year, the only school in the country to do so.

Carolina's prominence and consistency is probably best reflected by the fact the Tar Heels have finished in the Top 10 of at least one of the two major polls in 20 of the past 26 seasons, including 10 of the last 12 years and 16 of the last 19. Eleven times in those 26 seasons, Carolina finished ranked amongst the top four teams in the country. In four of the six seasons when Carolina didn't make a Top 10, it was still ranked in the Top 15.

UNC achieves this kind of success by simply playing basketball well. Twenty-one of the past 22 teams have shot at least 50 percent from the field for the year. The major key, however, to Carolina's success lies not with its offense, but with its stifling defense. The Tar Heels combine the innovative scramble defense with powerful man-to-man matchups which can suffocate opposing offenses. And the famous saying that "the best offense is a good defense" certainly holds true for the Tar Heels. Steals, easy layups and breakaway dunks often account for a significant percentage of the Tar Heel points.

North Carolina basketball teams have been to the NCAA Final Four 10 times in their history. Only UCLA, with 14 trips, has been there more often. The latest Final Four trip came in 1991 when a Tar Heel team led by senior tri-captain Rick Fox captured the East Regional crown and Fox then participated in the traditional net-cutting ceremonies. (Photo by David Minton)

Other reasons for Carolina's success are the discipline, unselfishness and maturity UNC players have exhibited over the course of the years. Carolina is actually often criticized for actually passing the ball too much in an effort to get the best, highest percentage shot available. Sometimes this will result in a turnover. But the criticism is invalid. Yes, it may on occasion lead to a lost possession, but in the long run, it promotes good team basketball, something for which the North Carolina program is famous.

College basketball is often referred to as a "tournament sport," the assertion being that tournament performance is the strongest indicator of overall success. Whether that is the case or not, Carolina has always excelled in tournament settings. Including post-season and regular-season play, Carolina has won over 60 tournaments in its illustrious history. The 1971-72 team won five by itself. Carolina has won such prestigious regular-season tournaments as the Great Alaska Shootout, the Rainbow Classic, the ECAC Holiday Festival, the Far West Classic, the Cable Car Classic and the Diet Pepsi Tournament of Champions.

Carolina has had the distinction of placing at least one player on every U.S. Olympic basketball team since 1964. Beginning with Larry Brown that year in Tokyo, Carolina Olympians have included Charlie Scott in 1968, Bobby Jones in 1972, Mitch Kupchak, Walter Davis, Phil Ford and Tommy LaGarde in 1976, Al Wood in 1980, Sam Perkins in 1984, Michael Jordan in 1984 and 1992 and J.R. Reid in 1988. In addition, Henrik Rodl played for the 1992 German Olympic squad.

Chapel Hill has been home to many All-America players, 20 in the Dean Smith era alone. Players who have been named to All-America teams in the last 30 years have included Billy Cunningham, Bob Lewis, Larry Miller, Charlie Scott, Dennis Wuycik, Bill Chamberlain, Robert McAdoo, Bobby Jones, Mitch Kupchak, Tommy LaGarde, Phil Ford, Mike O'Koren, Al Wood, James Worthy, Sam Perkins, Michael Jordan, Brad Daugherty, Kenny Smith, J.R. Reid and Rick Fox.

Carolina has also had seven players named as National Players-of-the-Year, four during the Dean Smith era. This illustrious group includes Jack Cobb in 1926, George Glamack in both 1940 and '41, Lennie Rosenbluth in 1957, Phil Ford in 1978, James Worthy in 1982, Michael Jordan in 1983 and '84 and Kenny Smith in 1987.

The Tar Heels also have a great place in which to practice and play basketball, a key element in any successful basketball program. In 1986, the University christened the 21,572-seat Dean E. Smith Center with a thrilling 95-92 victory over Duke when the Tar Heels were ranked #1 and the Blue Devils #3 in the nation. The multi-purpose facility was built because ticket demands had far exceeded the 10,000-seat capacity of Carmichael Auditorium for many years. Legendary Carmichael was UNC's home from 1965-86 and the Tar Heels won an astounding 169 of 189 games played there.

But the need for a new arena was evident. Now, twice as many people as before can see the Tar Heels play their home basketball games in one of the premier sports edifices in the country. Members of the Educational Foundation who had contributed money to the athletic program for years, but who couldn't get a seat in Carmichael, now have the opportunity to see UNC play in person. In addition, seating allotments for the University's faculty and staff and student body were greatly increased with the move to the new building. Carolina has a seven-year record of 75-11 in the $34 million structure, all of which was raised through private donations.

Even those fans who aren't lucky enough to get a ticket in the Smith Center still have a good chance to see the Tar Heels play. Carolina is one of the top television attractions in the entire country. This season, Carolina has 10 regular-season games on national television and another 11 on the regional ACC network. In addition, all games in the ACC Tournament are televised nationally on ESPN and if Carolina advances to the NCAA Tournament, those games will be shown on CBS. Last year, 26 of Carolina's 33 games ended up being telecast on either broadcast channels or cable networks.

Carolina basketball is also carried over a 56-station network in the Eastern United States, broadcast under the auspices of the Tar Heel Sports Network. Woody Durham, now in his 22nd year as the "Voice of the Tar Heels," brings the play-by-play of every Carolina basketball game to thousands of listeners each winter. Several times each season Carolina games are also carried on the Armed Forces Radio Network, carrying the news of Carolina basketball worldwide.

Carolina is also unequaled in its production of successful professional basketball players. In Smith's 31 seasons, 41 players have gone on to play professionally in either the NBA or the ABA. Some of those include such modern day superstars as Worthy, Perkins, Daugherty and the incomparable Jordan.

However, those players who haven't gone on to careers in basketball have graduated to success in other professions. Equipped with an all-important college degree, Smith graduates include doctors, military officers, businessmen, lawyers, bankers, you name it. Carolina's sterling record of graduating its basketball lettermen is virtually unequaled in all of college sports.

Perhaps former Villanova and current UNLV Head Coach Rollie Massimino summed it up best at the 1985 NCAA Southeast Regional in Birmingham as his team was preparing to play the Tar Heels in the championship game.

"North Carolina has a great team and a great tradition," noted the veteran mentor. "North Carolina is what college basketball is all about, academically and athletically."

Just another in the long list of compliments so richly deserved and generously heaped on the entity called Carolina Basketball.

TAR HEEL BASKETBALL: A TOURNAMENT SUCCESS STORY

By Matt Bowers
Sports Information Student Assistant

No matter where you go in the United States, when college basketball fans reflect on their favorite time of the year, most would give an instinctive answer: Tournament Time. That's certainly true for fans of the University of North Carolina. Whatever tournament you consider, be it a holiday classic, the Atlantic Coast Conference post-season affair or the battle for an NCAA championship, for Dean Smith's Tar Heels, tournaments are just another part of the phenomenal success story written in Chapel Hill.

No Atlantic Coast Conference program has won more NCAA post-season basketball games or captured more ACC tournament titles. And no coach has had near the success that Smith has achieved during his 31-year tenure on the Hill.

The zenith of Carolina's hardwood success is undoubtedly shown in the trophy case in the memorabilia room of the Dean E. Smith Center.

Carolina's first of three national championships came in 1924 as the Helms Foundation tabbed the Tar Heels as its top team following Carolina's unblemished 26-0 campaign.

It took 33 years before the Tar Heels were again atop the college basketball world, but that time it took a tournament victory to turn the trick.

The NCAA Tournament had begun in 1939 and Carolina had been a participant just twice. The Tar Heels' inaugural NCAA appearance came in 1941 under Coach Bill Lange, but it was two and out for Carolina, losing by six points to Pittsburgh and a point to Dartmouth. Then, in 1946, Ben Carnevale's Carolina team disposed of NYU and Ohio State to reach the NCAA championship game, where it was defeated by Oklahoma State 43-40.

Eleven years later, a multi-talented Carolina squad led by Lennie Rosenbluth rolled to a 32-0 record and the NCAA title. Carolina's semifinal game against Michigan State and the title matchup against Wilt Chamberlain and the Kansas Jayhawks each were triple overtime affairs.

Carolina won that semifinal showdown with the Spartans 74-70 and then defeated Kansas 54-53 on a pair of Joe Quigg free throws with six seconds remaining in the third overtime session.

In 1981-82, with one of the finest collections of college basketball talent ever assembled, the Tar Heels went 32-2 en route to their second NCAA Tournament championship. Freshman Michael Jordan's jumper with 15 seconds to play and junior forward James Worthy's steal with five seconds left finished off Georgetown, 63-62. Worthy scored 28 points and was named the Final Four's Most Valuable Player. The other starters on that NCAA championship team included all-time Carolina rebounding leader Sam Perkins, Matt Doherty, the consummate role player, and point guard Jimmy Black.

It was the first NCAA title for Smith, but the trip to the Final Four certainly was not a new experience for Smith's Tar Heels.

In fact, Smith stands second only to legendary UCLA coach John Wooden in Final Four appearances and he is the all-time leader in total tournament victories. Wooden led his dynastic Bruin program to 12 Final Fours and his teams won 47 games in NCAA competition.

Smith has led eight different Tar Heel squads to the Final Four and his teams have won 49 tournament games. From 1967-69, Smith's first three ACC Tournament championship teams each went on to the NCAA Final Four. The 1968 Tar Heels beat Ohio State in the semifinals and then lost to UCLA and the great Lew Alcindor in the championship game at the Los Angeles Sports Arena. That game marked the first of four trips to the NCAA championship game by a Smith-led Carolina team.

Most recently, Carolina returned to the NCAA Final Four in 1991 for the first time in nine years. Ranked fourth in the final polls, UNC was seeded first in the East Regional, where it beat Northeastern and Villanova at the Carrier Dome in Syracuse and Eastern Michigan and Temple at the Brendan Byrne Arena in East Rutherford, N.J. to claim the regional championship. Carolina's hopes for a fourth national championship stood unfulfilled, however, as a Kansas team coached by former Carolina assistant Roy Williams eliminated the Tar Heels in the national semifinals at the Hoosier Dome in Indianapolis.

After a seven-year championship drought, Carolina won its 11th Atlantic Coast Conference Tournament title in history in 1989. J.R. Reid led the Tar Heels to an exhilarating 77-74 championship game triumph over Duke and was named the winner of the Everett Case Award as tourney MVP. (Photo by Curtis Compton)

Carolina now has advanced to at least the Final 16 of the NCAA Tournament 12 successive years—the second-longest streak in NCAA Tournament history and the longest active streak in college basketball. Only the Bruins of UCLA appeared in more consecutive Sweet 16s. The Bruins' record streak of 14 trips was set from 1967-80. Duke is second in active streaks at only seven years.

The Tar Heels have also qualified for the NCAA Tournament a record 18 consecutive times dating back to 1975. That is three more seasons than UCLA's previous tourney record of 15 and four more than Georgetown's second-longest active streak. When you say "March Madness," Carolina is traditionally a part of it.

conference represented its league in the NCAA Tournament prior to 1975. To qualify for the NCAA's, an ACC team had to fight through America's toughest conference tournament, something the Tar Heels accomplished five times from 1954-1974.

Since the NCAA Tournament expanded in 1975 and the ACC began placing more than just the tourney champion in the big show,

North Carolina has been in every single NCAA Tournament—an achievement of which no other program in the nation can boast.

In its 26 overall NCAA appearances, Carolina has won a total of 56 games. The 26 appearances are the third most in NCAA history behind Kentucky's 33 and UCLA's 27. North Carolina's 56 victories are tied for the second-most in tourney history behind UCLA's 62 and equal to Kentucky's 56.

Smith's Tar Heel teams have qualified for 22 NCAA Tournaments, giving him the most tourney appearances by a coach in college basketball history. Legendary Kentucky coach Adolph Rupp ranks second. He took 20 of his Wildcat teams to the NCAA Tournament.

Carolina has not limited its post-season success to the NCAA Tournament as the Tar Heels have participated in four National Invitation Tournaments and won seven NIT games.

Carolina's four NIT appearances came in a span of five years in the early 1970s—the era when only one ACC team represented the conference in NCAA Tournament play. In 1971, Smith led the Tar Heels to the NIT championship by posting wins over Massachusetts, Providence, Duke and Georgia Tech. Interestingly, the semifinal win over Duke in Madison Square Garden in New York City was the first time in that storied rivalry that Carolina had met the Blue Devils outside the state of North Carolina. The Tar Heels won that NIT title with a convincing 84-66 victory over Georgia Tech and forward Bill Chamberlain was selected as the tourney's Most Valuable Player.

Carolina's tournament triumphs have been more far-reaching than even NCAA and NIT play, however. As a member of the Southern Conference from 1922 through 1953, Carolina won eight Southern Conference Tournament championships, not an easy feat since most of those years saw 16 or more teams compete in the event. Carolina's Southern Conference titles came in 1922, 1924, 1925, 1926, 1936, 1937, 1940 and 1945.

The Tar Heels also rank as the winningest program in the history of the Atlantic Coast Conference Tournament. Now a four-day event which ranks as one of the most elusive tickets in sports, the ACC Tournament is a measuring stick for success, and the Tar Heels have certainly graded out well.

North Carolina has won 12 ACC Tournament crowns, more than any school in tourney history. The Tar Heels have won 57 games and lost just 26, also more wins than any other ACC school. Carolina's 20 appearances in the championship game is five more than N.C. State, which has the second most. Carolina's 25-8 record and .758 winning percentage in quarterfinal contests is the best of any program in league tourney lore. The Tar Heels are also the last team to win back-to-back ACC Tournament championships, taking titles in 1981 and 1982. It is a measure of the difficulty of winning this tournament that no team has repeated in the last decade.

Smith has led Carolina to 11 of its 12 ACC Tournament titles. In addition to the title won in 1957 under Frank McGuire, Carolina also has won ACC Tournament titles in 1967, 1968, 1969, 1972, 1975, 1977, 1979, 1981, 1982, 1989 and 1991. Smith's 11 titles are seven more than any other coach has won in league history. N.C. State's Everett Case and Duke's Vic Bubas each won four titles for the next best bench mark. Smith's Tar Heels have won 11 of the last 26 championships and, in the last 13 years, Carolina's 23-9 record in the tournament is tops in the league.

Since the Everett Case Most Valuable Player Award was established in 1965, 11 different players in Carolina Blue have earned the honor. Larry Miller was a two-time winner in 1967 and '68 and is joined on that list by Charlie Scott (1969), Lee Dedmon (1971), Robert McAdoo (1972), Phil Ford (1975), John Kuester (1977), Dudley Bradley (1979), Sam Perkins (1981), James Worthy (1982), J.R. Reid (1989) and Rick Fox (1991).

There have been many memorable moments for Carolina fans in ACC Tournament play. The 1957 national champions almost didn't even make the NCAA tournament field, playing one of their most trying games versus Wake Forest in the ACC semifinals. Rosenbluth and Pete Brennan combined to score 39 of Carolina's 61 points, though, in a two-point Tar Heel victory.

Dean Smith's first ACC tourney title in 1967 included a three-point, 56-53 win over N.C. State in the first round. Miller scored 31 versus Wake Forest in the semis and pumped in 32 more in the finals versus Duke for the win. The following year, Miller scored 31, 24 and 21 points for his second straight MVP trophy and Carolina's second consecutive ACC title. An 82-79 overtime win over South Carolina in the semifinals was Carolina's toughest game in the tourney. The next day, Carolina routed State 87-50 in the finals.

The Heels made it three in a row in 1969 behind the dead-eye aim of guard Charlie Scott, who pumped in 40 points in the 85-74 championship game win over the Blue Devils. Scott made 17 of 23 shots from the floor, scoring 29 second-half points as Carolina rallied from an 11-point halftime deficit.

In 1975, Carolina won three thrillers en route to Smith's fifth title in nine years. First, Carolina beat Wake Forest 101-100 in overtime behind Walter Davis' 31 and Phil Ford's 25 points. Carolina had to rally from an eight-point deficit in the final 50 seconds to force overtime against the Deacons. In the semifinals, Ford scored 29 to lead the Heels to another overtime win, this one a 76-71 victory over Clemson. Then, in the finals, Ford rang up 24 more points and Carolina defeated defending NCAA champion N.C. State, 70-66. In the process, Ford became the first freshman to win the Case Award.

Virginia upset Carolina in the '76 finals, but the Heels got revenge a year later when Kuester led a 75-69 championship game win over the Cavaliers. Two years later, in 1979, Dudley Bradley led a 71-63 win over Duke in the finals and earned MVP honors. Interestingly, Kuester and Bradley earned MVP honors without any large point-producing outings. Kuester scored just 13 and 14 points in the two games in '77 and Bradley had just nine and 16 in the 1979 tourney. However, Kuester hit 11-of-12 free throws in the two games, including six-of-six in the finals and led the four corners offense each night after Ford fouled out. Bradley scored 16 against Duke in the finals on 7-of-11 shooting and had seven steals.

Perkins tallied 53 points and had 25 rebounds over three games en route to the '81 MVP award. Carolina easily defeated State in the first round, but then just squeaked by Wake Forest 58-57 in the semis and Maryland 61-60 in the title game. The Tar Heel frontcourt—Al Wood, Worthy and Perkins—combined for 50 of Carolina's 61 points in the final game.

In 1982, en route to the national championship, Carolina edged Ralph Sampson and Virginia 47-45 in the ACC finals at Greensboro. Leading 34-31 at the half, Carolina slowed the game down in the second half to force the Cavaliers out of their zone defense. The Wahoos never budged and Matt Doherty sealed the win with a pair of free throws in the waning seconds.

In 1989, Carolina again hoisted the title plaque high. Steve Bucknall hit a pair of crucial three-point plays and King Rice sank key free throws down the stretch as Carolina won its 11th tournament title and its 10th for Coach Smith with a 77-74 win over Duke. J.R. Reid averaged 16.0 points a game in the tourney and earned Case Award honors.

Carolina's most recent Atlantic Coast Conference Tournament championship was a sweet one. Carolina had to survive tough games with Clemson and Virginia in the first two rounds to meet a well-rested Duke team, which had received a bye in the first round, in the finals. After losing to the Blue Devils twice during the regular season, the Tar Heels exacted a measure of revenge by embarrassing Duke 96-74 before NBC's national TV cameras. Leading at the half by 13, the Tar Heels shot 56 percent for the game and got 25 points from tournament MVP Fox and 17 more from Hubert Davis in the 22-point thrashing.

Carolina's tournament success is not bound by the post-season only. Through the years, Carolina has won 29 regular season tournaments. The Tar Heels were three-time winners of the popular Dixie Classic in Raleigh in the late '50s. In 1971-72, Carolina won five tournament championships in a single season, including the Big Four in Greensboro, the International Christmas in Madrid, Spain, the Sugar Bowl in New Orleans, the ACC in Greensboro and the NCAA East Regional in Morgantown, W.Va.

The Tar Heels' win in the Madrid International in December 1971 featured an 83-77 win over Real Madrid in the finals. That game, on Christmas Day, was televised live throughout Europe.

Carolina has won several other tournaments outside the continental U.S. The Tar Heels have three Rainbow Classic titles to their credit as well as a pair of Great Alaska Shootout championships, the 1983 Greece Invitational crown and the 1987 World Invitation Club Tournament title in London.

In short, Carolina's record speaks for itself: two NCAA Tournament, 12 ACC Tournament, eight NCAA Regional and 29 regular-season tournament championships—and counting.

A CAROLINA SPECIALTY: THE COMEBACK VICTORY

By Jared Forman
Sports Information Student Assistant

Last season in Chapel Hill, Carolina rallied from 22 points behind to defeat Wake Forest 80-78 on Brian Reese's jumper at the buzzer. The Tar Heels had trailed by 20 with only 15 minutes remaining in the game before staging the biggest come-from-behind victory in Carolina history. The incredible comeback and last-second heroics of that game epitomized the amazing buzzer-beaters and improbable wins Carolina has pulled off through the years. Chronicled below are some of the classic comebacks, last-second thrillers and fantastic finishes in Tar Heel history.

March 2, 1974— In perhaps the most famous comeback in Carolina history, the Tar Heels rallied from eight down with 17 seconds remaining against Duke to win in overtime. And remember, this was before the days of the three-point shot. Trailing 86-78, Bobby Jones connected on both ends of a one-and-one with just 17 ticks on the clock. John Kuester cut the deficit to four with a layup when Duke threw away the inbounds pass, but there were still just 13 seconds left. Again, the Blue Devils lost the inbounds pass. Jones then cut the Duke lead to two on a rebound put-back of an Ed Stahl miss. Six seconds remained. With four seconds left, the Tar Heels fouled Pete Kramer, who missed the front end of the one-and-one. Stahl grabbed the rebound and called a timeout with but three ticks left. Mitch Kupchak inbounded the ball to Walter Davis, who launched a 28-foot prayer as time expired. The prayer was answered as Davis' shot kissed off the glass to tie the score at 86-86. Carmichael Auditorium erupted and Carolina went on to win 96-92 in overtime.

January 19, 1974—Earlier that season, Carolina had defeated Duke on another last second shot at Cameron Indoor Stadium in Durham. After the Tar Heels had rallied to tie the score at 71-71, Duke had the ball at halfcourt with four seconds left. But Bobby Jones stole the inbounds pass and hit a spinning, off-balance layup with a second left to give Carolina a 73-71 win.

February 10, 1983—Carolina trailed Ralph Sampson and second-ranked Virginia by as many as 16 points and was down 63-53 with just 4:12 on the clock. Jimmy Braddock hit a long three-pointer from the right side to cut the margin to seven and Matt Doherty made both ends of a one-and-one to close the gap to five. Sam Perkins also converted his one-and-one shots to trim the Cavalier lead to 63-60 with 2:54 remaining. Terry Holland then had Virginia stall, and Perkins was forced to foul Sampson with 1:20 left. The All-America center missed the front end of his one-and-one, and then Michael Jordan took over the game. Braddock missed a three-pointer, but Jordan was there to put in the rebound. As Rick Carlisle dribbled the ball up the court for the Cavaliers, Jordan stole it and dunked it home for a 64-63 Tar Heel lead. Carlisle missed a potential game-winning shot, and Jordan grabbed the rebound to seal the win as Carmichael exploded in celebration.

March 6, 1975—In the opening round of the ACC Tournament in Greensboro, Carolina trailed Wake Forest 90-82 with only 50 seconds remaining. A 20-footer by Phil Ford cut the deficit to six with 43 ticks left. After the Demon Deacons turned the ball over in their delay offense, Mitch Kupchak scored on a driving basket to pull the Tar Heels within four with 34 seconds to go. Wake Forest's inbounds pass grazed the scoreboard, turning the ball over to Carolina. Walter Davis quickly capitalized on the mistake, scoring to pull the Tar Heels within two with 29 seconds left. Two Deacons failed to convert their one-and-one opportunities, and Carolina called timeout with nine seconds on the clock. Brad Hoffman drove the base line and nailed a 12-footer to tie the game at 0:02. The Tar Heels pulled out the 101-100 win in overtime and went on to win the ACC title two days later.

December 29, 1967—In the semifinals of the Far West Classic in Portland, Ore., Carolina faced unbeaten Utah. The Utes sprinted out to a 54-41 halftime lead, and with 14:34 left in the contest they had extended their lead to 67-50. But led by Charlie Scott and Larry Miller, the Tar Heels staged a furious comeback. With just 2:00 left, Dick Grubar scored his first basket of the game and tied the score at 82-82. Then with the score tied at 84 apiece, Charlie Scott hit the game-winning shot with a mere eight seconds to go. Both Scott and Miller finished with 24 points, and Carolina went on to defeat Oregon State the following day to win the tournament title.

November 24, 1989—In Carolina's season opener against James Madison at the Maui Classic, the Tar Heels trailed 79-70 with less than a minute to play. Rick Fox started the Carolina surge with a rebound basket with 51 seconds remaining. Hubert Davis stole the ball three seconds later and canned a three-pointer to cut the margin to 79-75. The Dukes' Billy Coles missed the front end of a one-and-one with 18 seconds left and Pete Chilcutt drilled a trey to cut the deficit to one with 10 ticks remaining. Steve Hood also missed a one-and-one attempt for James Madison, but Jeff Denny's pass upcourt was stolen by the Dukes' William Davis. However, Davis stepped out of bounds, giving Carolina one last shot. King Rice threw up an off-balance runner from the top of the key and the ball banked in as the buzzer sounded. Final score, 80-79 Carolina. It was not the first time James Madison coach Lefty Driesell had been the victim of a Tar Heel miracle.

January 12, 1983—Trailing 52-45 in the second half at Carmichael, Carolina rallied and engaged in a thrilling see-saw battle down the stretch with the Maryland Terrapins. After Michael Jordan connected on both ends of a one-and-one with 42 seconds left, the score stood at 69-69. Herman Veal hit a layup at 0:32 to put the Terps up by two. But Jimmy Braddock hit a long three-pointer with just nine ticks left to give the Tar Heels a 72-71 lead. Each team called two timeouts in the next four clicks of the clock. Lefty Driesell inserted his son Chuck into the game for the first time with just five seconds left. Maryland ran a play for Driesell, who seemed to have a lane for the game-winning score. But Michael Jordan soared to swat away Driesell's attempted layup with one second left to preserve the Carolina victory.

January 9, 1985—Once again, Maryland seemed poised to knock off Carolina at Carmichael Auditorium. The Terps led 72-69 with only 23 seconds left and star guard Keith Gatlin on the line for a one-and-one opportunity. The 83 percent shooter missed the front end and Kenny Smith rushed up the court and sank a jump shot with 16 seconds left. Steve Hale fouled Adrian Branch, a 78 percent shooter, on the inbounds pass. Branch also missed. Dave Popson provided the winning points with a high-arching jumper over Maryland defender Derrick Lewis from 16 feet away. The swish at 0:09 gave the Tar Heels a 73-72 lead. Curtis Hunter's steal and free throws secured the win as Carolina prevailed, 75-74.

March 16, 1985—In the second round of the NCAA Tournament, the Tar Heels were forced to play Notre Dame at South Bend. The score was tied 58-58 with 1:38 to go when the Irish's Donald Royal went to the foul stripe. Royal missed, but Jim Dolan grabbed the rebound and the Irish decided to hold for the last shot. As the clock wound down, point guard David Rivers lost control of the ball, enabling Carolina's Curtis Hunter to scoop it up and make a lead pass to Kenny Smith. Smith slammed it home for the game-winning shot and then proceeded to steal the inbounds pass to seal the win.

March 15, 1969—Charlie Scott put on one of his amazing performances, almost single-handedly carrying the Tar Heels to victory. This time the opponent was Davidson, and the setting was the NCAA East Regional finals in College Park. Ironically, Davidson was coached by Lefty Driesell, who would soon return to Cole Field House to coach Maryland. Scott was dazzling in the second half, connecting on 10 of 14 field goal attempts. Dick Grubar was out of action with a knee injury, but Carolina stayed close. With the score tied 85-85 and 1:05 remaining, Davidson had the ball. Gerald Tuttle drew a charge for the Tar Heels, setting up the final possession of the game. Carolina ran a play for Scott, who took the ball at the top of the key, soared above a defender and launched a 20-footer with three seconds left. The ball sailed through the hoop, the buzzer sounded and the Heels were off to their third consecutive Final Four.

March 8, 1969—Just a week earlier, Charlie Scott had provided the heroics in Carolina's ACC Tournament Championship win over Duke in Charlotte. Dick Grubar missed most of the game with a knee injury and Bill Bunting played the game in foul trouble before fouling out with 9:26 left. The Tar Heels trailed by nine at the half before Scott put on one of the greatest individual performances in Carolina history. He connected on 12 of his 13 second half field goal attempts, many of which were long jumpers, and scored 28 points in the half. Scott's game-high 40 points led the Tar Heels to a come-from-behind 85-74 win and their third consecutive ACC crown.

Walter Davis (#24) watches the flight of one of the most famous shots in Atlantic Coast Conference basketball history. On March 2, 1974, Carolina trailed Duke by eight points at Carmichael Auditorium with 17 seconds remaining in the game. The furious comeback which ensued was capped by this 28-foot shot by Davis that banked in to send the game to overtime, where UNC eventually prevailed 96-92.

November 30, 1982—Coming off their 1982 national championship, the Tar Heels had opened the season with losses to St. John's and Missouri before returning to Carmichael for the home opener. The opponent was the Green Wave of Tulane, who had taken Carolina to the wire several times over the years. With the score tied at 49-49, Tulane's John Williams hit a layup with 1:29 remaining to put the Wave up by two. With just 36 seconds left, Michael Jordan scored on an offensive rebound to tie the game. But with eight seconds left, Williams made two free throws to give Tulane a 53-51 edge. Jordan was whistled for an offensive foul with four seconds remaining, and it appeared the Heels would be 0-3 on the season. However, Jordan came up with the Green Wave's inbounds pass and hit a spinning 24-foot prayer at the buzzer to tie the game. Carolina finally prevailed 70-68 after three chilling overtime periods.

January 4, 1978—Playing in Littlejohn Coliseum, one of the toughest arenas in college basketball, the Tar Heels pulled another rabbit out of the hat against the Clemson Tigers. Clemson led 72-70 with 21 seconds left, and Carolina sent the Tigers' Chubby Wells to the line for a one-and-one. Wells missed the front end and with eight seconds left Geff Crompton hit a basket in the lane to tie the score. Clemson's Stan Rome fired a jump shot at the buzzer that seemed to go in the basket, spin around the rim and then hop back out. In the overtime period, the Tar Heels once again found themselves behind. Trailing 77-76 with 10 seconds on the clock, Tom Zaliagiris tried to draw a foul in the lane. He did, but he also hit his twisting, falling shot off the glass to give Carolina a one-point lead. He converted the free throw to give the Tar Heels an unlikely 79-77 win.

January 4, 1967—Playing in Winston-Salem, Carolina was engaged in one of its many classic battles with the Wake Forest Demon Deacons. It seemed as though this was the Deacons' game to win, however, when Tom Gauntlett missed a 23-foot jumper that would have tied the game for Carolina at 0:15. But the Tar Heels' Rusty Clark was there for the tap-in, and the score stood at 74-74. Wake Forest brought the ball upcourt for their game-winning attempt, but Larry Miller came up with a steal at halfcourt. Miller drove to the basket, made an off-balance layup and just kept on running straight to the Carolina locker room. The Tar Heels ran out of Winston-Salem with another last-minute victory, 76-74.

January 7, 1967—Three days later, Carolina traveled to Durham to face the Blue Devils. Duke trailed 56-54 with 16 seconds to play, but Bob Verga launched a 30-footer that tied the game at 56-56. But then it was deja vu for the Tar Heels as they looked to Larry Miller for his last-second heroics. Miller took a pass from Rusty Clark and the lefty put up a driving, off-

In another one of Carolina's patented thrilling finishes, the Tar Heel bench erupts in joy at the sight of Charlie Scott's shot which clipped Davidson 87-85 at the buzzer in the 1969 NCAA East Regional championship game at Cole Field House in College Park, Md. Scott's shot sent Carolina packing for its third straight Final Four.

balance layup reminiscent of the Wake Forest game. Once again, the shot hit its mark and Carolina was victorious. A technical foul shot provided the final margin of 59-56.

1957 Season—In Carolina's incredible 32-0 national championship season, the Tar Heels had to pull out several nailbitors to preserve their perfect record. In the fourth game of the season, South Carolina took the Heels to overtime in Columbia before UNC prevailed 90-86. The 17th win was a double overtime contest, this time against Maryland in College Park. The Tar Heels trailed by four with just two minutes left in regulation before emerging as the 65-61 victors. The next game was at home in Woollen Gym against Duke, and the score was tied with a minute to play. Tommy Kearns' free throws provided the winning margin in the 18th consecutive win, 75-73. Win number 23 was one of Carolina's many battles with Wake Forest that season. Trailing by four with just three minutes remaining in Winston-Salem, the Tar Heels pulled out a 69-64 win. Only three games later, the Heels met the Deacons again in the ACC Tournament semifinals in Raleigh. Carolina trailed with less than a minute left, but squeaked out a 61-59 win for its fourth victory over Wake Forest of the 1956-57 season. In the NCAA Tournament, the close contests continued. In the national semifinals, the Spartans of Michigan State went three overtime periods with Carolina before falling 74-70. Pete Brennan hit a jump shot with only three seconds left in the second overtime to force the third extra frame. The NCAA Championship game also went three overtimes when Carolina took on Wilt Chamberlain and the Kansas Jayhawks. Tar Heel star Lennie Rosenbluth fouled out of his last college game in regulation, but the rest of the team picked up the slack and battled the Jayhawks. Joe Quigg hit two free throws with only six seconds remaining in the final overtime period to give Carolina a 54-53 win.

January 17, 1979—Playing at Reynolds Coliseum on the campus of N.C. State, it looked as though the Tar Heels would finally have the tables turned against them. Carolina charged out to a 40-19 halftime lead and was seemingly in control of the game. With 10:30 to play, the Heels still led by 17, but then the Wolfpack hit a torrid streak. State had cut the Carolina lead to three with 43 seconds to play when Hawkeye Whitney went to the line for the Wolfpack. Carolina's Jimmy Black was whistled for a technical foul, and Whitney hit two of the three free throws to make the score 68-67 UNC. After the inbounds play, Kenny Matthews hit a long-range jumper with 32 seconds left that gave State a 69-68 lead. Reynolds erupted. Carolina tried to regain the lead, but Dudley Bradley missed a long jump shot and State grabbed the rebound with 16 seconds left. Reynolds celebrated. But Bradley atoned for his miss when he stole the ball from State's Clyde Austin at midcourt and drove in for the game-winning dunk. A Wolfpack desperation shot bounded off the glass, and Carolina escaped with a 70-69 triumph.

November 21, 1987—Carolina was pitted against top-ranked Syracuse in the Hall of Fame Tipoff Classic at Springfield, Mass. The Tar Heels were without standouts J.R. Reid and Steve Bucknall, and were seemingly undermanned against the powerful Orangemen. Indeed, with 15:39 left in the game, Syracuse had built a 14-point lead. But Carolina stormed back, and Syracuse led only 85-83 when the Tar Heels took the last possession of regulation time. Freshman Pete Chilcutt hit a bouncing, turnaround jumper at the horn to send the game to overtime. Carolina prevailed 96-93 in OT to complete the upset of the Orangemen.

March 17, 1990—Facing the top-ranked team in the country in the NCAA Tournament second round, Carolina was in jeopardy of not advancing to the Sweet 16 for the first time since 1980. The Tar Heels trailed the Oklahoma Sooners 74-73 with 55 seconds to play when Rick Fox nailed a three-pointer from 25 feet away with the shot clock winding down. The Sooners countered with a conventional three-point play and led 77-76 when King Rice was fouled with 10 seconds left. Rice hit the first shot, but missed the second. The rebound hit off the Sooners out-of-bounds and Carolina had the ball with eight seconds to go and a 77-77 score. Fox took a pass from Hubert Davis and drove the right baseline. His kiss off the glass as the buzzer sounded gave the Tar Heels a 79-77 win and a 10th consecutive Final 16 berth.

January 12, 1991—Carolina engaged the Cavaliers of Virginia in a classic battle in Charlottesville, but the game became a one-on-one contest between King Rice and John Crotty at crunch time. Trailing 69-64 with 2:10 left in regulation, the Heels came back and tied the score at 71-71 on Rice's drive with 31 seconds left. In the first overtime, the Cavaliers led 74-71, but Carolina took a 76-75 lead on another Rice bucket. Virginia trailed 78-75 when Crotty hit a three-pointer with 12 seconds to play to force a second overtime. With Carolina leading 86-84 in the second OT, Crotty evened the score with a pair of free throws at 0:26. But Rice came back and rattled in a shot over Crotty with one second left. A technical foul shot provided the final margin, 89-86 Carolina.

The above is not even an all-encompassing list of great Carolina finishes. It is truly remarkable how the Tar Heels always seem to pull out the close games, and Carolina basketball has thus earned the title, "The Boys of Poise." Chubby Wells, a former Clemson player, expressed the frustration felt by countless teams over the years:

"When the games are close at the end, the North Carolina players know they're going to win. They know they're going to win because they're supposed to win. They're North Carolina. The bad thing is the players on the other team know it, too. That gives Carolina a great psychological edge."

And the tradition continues.

THE HISTORY OF CAROLINA BASKETBALL

By Dave Lohse
Associate Sports Information Director

The University of North Carolina is known worldwide for producing basketball teams laden with talent which compete at the game's highest level. From the merely casual fan to the basketball connoisseur, the Tar Heel moniker evokes thoughts of outstanding players and coaches, thrilling comebacks and a litany of championships.

Carolina's 82 seasons in the intercollegiate ranks have produced an overall record of 1,536 victories and 560 losses, making the Tar Heel program the winningest of all-time in terms of total victories. The University of Kentucky ranks second on the list with 1,530 victories in 89 seasons. Carolina also ranks third all-time in winning percentage amongst schools which have played at least 25 seasons at the NCAA Division I level. The University of Nevada at Las Vegas leads that chart with an all-time winning percentage of .768 in 32 seasons, while Kentucky is second at .753 and Carolina third at .733.

Only nine of the 82 Tar Heel teams have suffered through losing seasons and no Carolina coach has ever left the position with a cumulative losing mark while the head mentor of the Tar Heels. The closest to the .500 mark was Nat Cartmell, Carolina's first coach, who went 25-24 in four seasons. From 1911 through 1952, the UNC program had 13 different head coaches with none staying for more than six seasons. Since then, the program has been the model of stability with only two head coaches—Frank McGuire for nine years and Dean Smith for the past 31 campaigns. Each has a career winning percentage of over 70 percent and each has led North Carolina to an NCAA championship.

Carolina's 1956-57 team was something truly special. Under the direction of Head Coach Frank McGuire, Carolina finished 32-0 and won the Atlantic Coast Conference and NCAA championships. The members of that historic team are seen here celebrating their 63-55 victory over Wake Forest in the title game of the Dixie Classic played midway through that memorable season in Raleigh, N.C.

The Roots of a Successful Program

The first varsity team played at North Carolina during the 1910-11 season. Basketball clubs had originally been a part of physical education classes at the University, but student Marvin Ritch led the drive with school officials to start an organized varsity team. Nat Cartmell, UNC's track and field coach who was internationally known in his own right as a sprinter, coached that first team in 1911.

By the time the team got organized, Carolina did not schedule its first game until January 27, 1911 when it defeated Virginia Christian 42-21 in Chapel Hill. The team played its games in Bynum Gymnasium, now the site of the University cashier's office. Carolina went 7-4 that first season, playing the likes of Tennessee, Virginia, Wake Forest, Davidson, the YMCA teams from Durham and Charlotte and the Woodberry Forest School of Virginia. At the time, a crowd of 50 spectators for a game was considered enormous.

Cartmell ended up coaching the Tar Heels for four seasons. His 1912 squad finished only 4-5, but several thousand fans came to see the Tar Heels play Virginia Tech at the Raleigh Auditorium, a sign that interest in and fan support of the game was growing in the Carolinas.

Charles Doak became the program's head coach in 1915. His 1916 team recorded a 12-6 ledger, the best record for any team during the first decade of the sport on campus. Doak had served as the Tar Heels' baseball coach before being assigned to take over the basketball coaching duties as well.

In 1917, Carolina recorded its first victory over then arch-rival Virginia after eight previous losses. That Tar Heel team was led by George Tennent, who captained both the 1917 and 1918 teams. Luther Hodges, who later served as governor of North Carolina from 1957-61 and was the Secretary of Commerce under President John Fitzgerald Kennedy, was a substitute player on the 1917 team. Beginning with that 1917 season, Howell Peacock coached the team for three years, compiling a 23-14 mark.

In 1920, Fred Boye took over as the head coach at Carolina, staying two years and compiling a 19-17 ledger as head coach. The 1922 squad played without an official head coach, but nevertheless compiled a 15-6 record. Carolina went to Atlanta that season and swept the first-ever Southern Conference Tournament championship, winning five games in five days. The Heels captured the title with a 40-26 win over Mercer in the finals. The Southern Conference had been founded the previous summer with an initial membership of 22 schools. The 1922 squad was led by Cartwright Carmichael, who was then a sophomore. He went on to become one of Carolina's all-time great players. He became UNC's first All-America in any sport in 1923 and 1924 and he was an All-Southern Conference pick from 1922 through 1924.

Celebrating Carolina's First National Championship

The five-year period beginning in 1922 was actually a glorious one for Carolina despite the fact the Tar Heels played with no coach during the 1922 and 1923 seasons and with a different head coach in each of the following three years. Carolina went 96-17 in that five-year span and won four of five Southern Conference championships as well as the national championship in 1924.

The 1923 team set the stage for that magnificent '24 squad by going 15-1, losing only a 34-32 thriller to Ole Miss in the Southern Conference tourney final.

The '24 team proved to be something very special indeed. Led by Jack Cobb, Carmichael and Bill Dodderer, it rolled to a 26-0 record and was named the national champion by the Helms Foundation. Carolina beat Kentucky, Vanderbilt, Mississippi State and Alabama to capture the Southern Conference championship.

Carolina's eight-man 1924 squad played for the first time in the Indoor Athletic Center, better known around campus as the Tin Can, a structure which existed until the late 1970s. It was razed to clear land for what is now Fetzer Gymnasium on the UNC campus. Norman Shephard coached the Tar Heels in 1924 in what would be his only season as head coach. He left the following year to pursue business ventures abroad.

After being an All-Southern Conference selection in 1924, Monk McDonald took over as the team's head coach the following season. Led again by the magnificent Cobb, the Tar Heels finished 20-5 and won another Southern Conference crown by whipping Tulane 36-28 in the finals. A year later, Carolina had yet another new head coach in Harlan Sanborn as the '26 team compiled another 20-5 mark. That team was led by Cobb, who was named the National Player-of-the-Year by the Helms Foundation, and by Dodderer, who was named All-Southern Conference for the third year in a row. Cobb, who averaged 15 points per game, a total practically unheard of in that day, was named an All-America for the third successive year. One of the highlights of the year was the crowd of thousands which gathered at Memorial Hall to hear a telegraphic play-by-play of the Southern Conference championship game from Atlanta as UNC downed Mississippi State, 38-23.

James Ashmore began an impressive five-year coaching stint with the Tar Heels in 1927. His teams were led by players like Billy Morris, Puny Harper, Bunn Hackney and Rufus Hackney. Ashmore's teams combined for an 80-37 mark during his tenure, but they never won the Southern Conference championship—in fact never reached the finals.

The Southern Conference Realigns

Norman Shepard's brother, George "Bo" Shepard, took over as head coach in 1932. He brought Carolina back into national prominence quickly. The "Charlotte Connection" provided many of the best players for UNC at the time because of the strong high school and YMCA programs in that part of the state.

Guard Tom Alexander and forward Virgil Weathers, both All-Southern Conference choices, led the '32 team to a 16-5 mark as Carolina lost 26-24 in the Southern Conference final to Georgia at Raleigh, the new site of the conference tournament. After that '32 season, the Southern Conference lost 13 schools which went on to form what is now the Southeastern Conference. That left 10 schools in the Southern Conference.

In 1933, Shepard needed a big man for rebounding purposes and to control the jump ball after each score. He found his man in Jack Glace, who hadn't even made his high school squad. The Heels went 12-5 that season and lost a double overtime thriller to South Carolina, 34-32, in the semifinals of the Southern Conference Tournament.

The 1934 Carolina team finished 18-4, being upset by Duke in the Southern Conference tourney after beating the Blue Devils twice in the regular season. Dave McCachren was the captain of that Carolina squad and was the first of four McCachren brothers to play at UNC from 1931-43. Each brother captained the Tar Heel team his senior year and each was elected president of the UNC athletic association. Besides Dave, Jim, a three-time All-Southern Conference selection, captained the '36 team, Bill captained the '39 squad and George, better known as "Toad," captained the '43 unit.

The 1935 team won the conference championship and compiled a gaudy 23-2 mark in Shepard's last year as head coach. After that season, Shepard stepped down because of health reasons and Walter Skidmore became held coach. Skidmore continued the winning ways in Chapel Hill, leading the 1936 team to a 21-4 record and a Southern Conference title. That 1936 unit was led by Pete Mullis and Andy Bershak, who was also an All-America in football at Carolina.

Carolina had good years in 1937 and '38, but failed to win the Southern Conference title either time. However, in 1938, Carolina inaugurated a new home base for its basketball operations as the 5,000-seat Woollen Gymnasium opened and Carolina left the Tin Can to track meets and campus social functions. Then, in 1939, Carolina suffered its first losing campaign in 19 years and Skidmore stepped down as coach. He was replaced for the 1940 season by Bill Lange, then an assistant football coach under Ray Wolf.

Carolina Earns its First NCAA Bid

The 1940 Carolina team proved to be an outstanding one. Led by George Glamack, nicknamed the "Blind Bomber," UNC went 23-3. The 6-6 junior from Johnstown, Pa., could barely see the basket because of impaired vision, but his foul line hook shot was lethal. Glamack became only the third player ever designated as the National Player-of-the-Year by the Helms Foundation on two occasions, winning the honor in both 1940 and '41.

Other stars on the teams of the early 1940s were Paul Severin, a two-time All-America in football, and Bob Rose, an All-Southern Conference player in both 1941 and '42. Glamack averaged 20.6 points per game for the Tar Heels, an amazing statistic given the fact teams only scored in the 40s and 50s during that era.

As in other sports, the World War II years in college basketball were unsettled in nature. The Carolina team lost many players to service obligations during this time—in fact, only one letterman was available for the 1943 team. In 1944, the Tar Heels played 11 contests against service teams. Lange stepped down as coach after the 1944 season and his five-year record was an impressive 85-41. Lange's 1941 team was also the first at Carolina to make the NCAA Tournament field.

Ben Carnevale took over as head coach in 1945 and the Tar Heels motored to an outstanding 22-6 ledger and the Southern Conference championship. The star of that team was Jim Jordan, who was named a second-team All-America that season.

A Near National Championship for the Heels

The 1946 team was a truly outstanding one. Led by first-team All-Americas Jordan and John "Hook" Dillon and 6-6 Horace "Bones" McKinney, Carolina made it all the way to the NCAA championship game before losing to Coach Henry Iba's Oklahoma State team, 43-40, at Madison Square Garden. McKinney had attended N.C. State before going into the military in World War II, and he resumed his education at Chapel Hill, helping lead the Heels to their 30-5 mark in 1946. Carnevale left after the season was over to take the coaching job at the U.S. Naval Academy. He was replaced by Tom Scott.

At this time, basketball in the South was enjoying unprecedented popularity. North Carolina State was becoming a formidable rival for the Tar Heels and the Southern Conference Tournament was moved to Duke's Indoor Stadium so more fans could attend the post-season classic.

Scott's first team, in 1947, was led by Jim Hamilton and Bob Paxton. It posted a 19-8 record and lost in the conference finals to N.C. State, then coached by the legendary Everett Case. Unfortunately, that would be the second of 15 consecutive losses to the Wolfpack over a six-year period.

Scott produced 20-win seasons in both 1948 and '49, but lost thrice to N.C. State each of those campaigns, including heartbreakers in the league tournament.

Tar Heels Turn to New York Native to Improve Basketball Fortunes

The next three seasons produced a trio of mediocre records and Scott resigned following the 1952 season. He was replaced by Frank McGuire, a 38-year-old native of Greenwich Village in New York City. Formerly the coach at St. John's University in Jamaica, N.Y., McGuire was successful at luring many outstanding New York basketball stars to Chapel Hill through his connections to the area, the first of whom was Jerry Vayda.

McGuire's first team, in 1953, proved to be a scrappy unit. It didn't have great talent, but ended up 17-10 and beat N.C. State in Raleigh, breaking the aforementioned six-year losing streak to the Pack. During the off-season, Carolina and seven other schools left the Southern Conference to join what has become America's finest intercollegiate athletic league, the Atlantic Coast Conference. The next two years produced average records—11-10 in 1954 and 10-11 a year later—but McGuire was building a foundation for future greatness.

Lennie Rosenbluth, from New York City, debuted for the Tar Heels in 1955 as a sophomore and averaged 25.5 points per game. In 1956, a great new class joined holdovers Rosenbluth, Vayda, Tony Radovich and Bob Young. The new sophomore class included Pete Brennan, Tommy Kearns, Joe Quigg, Bob Cunningham and Roy Searcy. That '56 team went 18-5, setting the stage for what happened a year later.

Heels Work Overtime to Claim Second National Title

In 1957, McGuire had a lineup that consisted of the 6-6 Brennan, 6-5 Rosenbluth and 6-9 Quigg on the front line with Cunningham and Kearns in the backcourt. En route to its 32-0 record, Carolina had to avoid a couple of close calls in the regular season—against Duke at home and a double overtime contest with Maryland in College Park. The closest call of all may have come in the ACC Tournament semifinals when the Heels edged Wake Forest, 61-59. Because of the way in which the NCAA Tournament was organized in those days had the Tar Heels lost to the Deacons, they would not even have been allowed to compete in the national tournament. Once in the NCAA's, however, Carolina swept past three opponents to set up a meeting with Michigan State in the semifinals.

It took three overtimes, but Carolina finally vanquished the Spartans, 74-70. That set up a showdown with Dick Harp's Kansas Jayhawks, led by the great Wilt Chamberlain. At Kansas City's old Municipal Auditorium, UNC needed another three overtimes to subdue Kansas, 54-53, on Quigg's two free throws with six seconds to play in the third extra session. Thousands turned out at the Raleigh-Durham Airport to welcome their conquering heroes home the next day. Rosenbluth concluded his brilliant career by being named an All-America, All-ACC for the third straight year and the Helms National Player-of-the-Year.

In 1958, a Carolina team led by All-America and ACC Player-of-the-Year Brennan finished 19-7. Lee Shaffer and Dick Kepley, soon to be Carolina stars in their own right, joined the squad as sophomores. With the exception of the 1957 national championship team, McGuire's 1959 squad may have been the next best amongst the nine he coached during his time at UNC. Doug Moe, York Larese and Lou Brown joined the team and Carolina finished 20-5 and qualified for the school's fourth NCAA Tournament appearance.

A year later, Carolina had another outstanding season under McGuire. The Heels finished 18-6 overall and Shaffer was named a first-team All-America.

The 1961 season yielded a good team and a 19-4 record. It was the senior year for Moe, Larese and Kepley. Moe was an All-America that season and together with Larese, they were called the L&M twins. McGuire chose to accept a head coaching offer from the Philadelphia Warriors of the National Basketball Association after the season concluded. His nine-season record at Carolina was a brilliant 164-58. Under McGuire, Carolina went to the NCAA Tournament twice, won five ACC regular-season titles, one ACC Tournament title and the aforementioned national championship.

Chancellor Aycock Makes the Personnel Decision of a Lifetime

The man who stepped into the coaching void was a native Kansan by the name of Dean Edwards Smith. He had been lured to Carolina in 1958 from the U.S. Air Force Academy to be McGuire's top assistant. Carolina Chancellor William Aycock was charged with the duty of finding the successor for the popular McGuire. He entrusted the post to the 30-year-old Smith, who has since built a program that is a model for integrity and success in college athletics.

Coach Smith's first team in 1962 compiled an 8-9 record, his only losing season as a head coach. But his players did give him a victory in his first coaching outing, 80-46 over Virginia on December 2, 1961. It would prove to be a harbinger of things to come. After that victory, Smith said, "I've never been as scared in my life."

In 1963, Billy Cunningham, affectionately known as "The Kangaroo Kid," joined the varsity and became an immediate star.

Averaging 22.7 points and 16 rebounds a game, he helped lead the Tar Heels to a 15-6 record, which included road victories against both Kentucky and Notre Dame. A year later, Cunningham was still awesome, but the Tar Heels' record dipped to 12-12. Help for the future arrived, however, in the form of highly-touted frosh Bob Lewis.

Lewis moved up to the varsity in 1965 and with the All-America Cunningham, the two combined for 46.4 points per game as Carolina went 15-9. Cunningham left Carolina as its all-time leader in rebounds and as one of the most prolific rebounders and scorers in conference history. A two-time All-America and three-time All-ACC selection, he went on to a great professional playing and coaching career, mainly with the Philadelphia 76ers.

For 1966, Cunningham was gone, but Lewis was now joined by soon-to-be superstar Larry Miller. The Tar Heels moved out of Woollen Gymnasium and into 8,800-seat Carmichael Auditorium, which would evolve into one of the most famous arenas in college basketball history. The '66 squad finished only 16-11, but it was obvious greatness was just around the corner.

Three Straight ACC Championships, Three Straight Final Fours

The 1967 team proved to be Coach Smith's first truly great squad at Carolina. Lewis and Miller were joined on the varsity by sophomores like 6-11 Rusty Clark, Bill Bunting, Dick Grubar and Joe Brown. The season resulted in a 26-6 ledger and the Tar Heels finished third in the final United Press International poll and fourth in the Associated Press rankings. The '67 campaign marked the beginning of a string of three successive first-place finishes in the ACC regular-season standings, three straight ACC tournament titles and three consecutive NCAA East Regional championships for Smith and his troops. The '67 squad was characterized by an enthusiastic, gambling defense that has become a trademark of Smith teams.

Lewis graduated after '67, but the great Charlie Scott arrived to take his place in the Carolina lineup as the Heels prepared for the 1968 season. Scott was the first black player on the Carolina varsity and he started from the beginning of his sophomore year. The '68 team was an outstanding one and made it all the way to the NCAA finals before losing to UCLA and Lew Alcindor. The Heels' final record that year was 28-4, best yet under Smith's tutelage. Miller was both an All-America and the ACC Player-of-the-Year for the second straight year.

Heading into 1969, Miller was gone but the remaining core of those great teams returned. Carolina went 27-5, won the ACC championship for the third straight year and was again in the Final Four, the school's fifth such visit since the NCAA Tournament began in 1939. Scott, Bunting, Clark and Grubar led that team as well as junior guard Eddie Fogler.

The 1970 squad entered that season decimated by graduation. The tremendous seniors of the previous year—Bunting, Clark and Grubar—had graduated. Carolina finished 18-9, buoyed by the addition of sophomores Dennis Wuycik, Bill Chamberlain and Steve Previs, all solid players. Scott was named All-ACC for the third successive year and was a first-team All-America for the second time. Carolina accepted the first of its four NIT bids in history and the 18-9 record marked the last time Carolina failed to win 20 games in a season.

The 1971 team was not expected to do much in the pre-season ratings. But it rolled up a 26-6 record and won the ACC regular-season title and the NIT championship. Sophomore George Karl moved up to the varsity and formed a great backcourt with Previs. Wuycik was a first-team All-ACC choice and Chamberlain the Most Valuable Player of the NIT as Carolina downed Georgia Tech 84-66 in the finals.

Carolina returned to the NCAA Final Four in 1972 with a 26-5 record. Robert McAdoo, a junior college transfer from Vincennes University, was outstanding for the Heels along with returnees Wuycik, Chamberlain, Karl and Previs. Sixth man Bobby Jones, a 6-8 sophomore, showed great promise for the future. Carolina won five different tournament championships during the course of the season, including the ACC Tournament and NCAA East Regional championships. The Tar Heels were eliminated in the NCAA Final Four by Florida State in the semifinals, 79-75. After the season, McAdoo became the first of four players under Smith to declare himself eligible for the NBA draft following his junior season. A year later, he was the NBA Rookie-of-the-Year with the Buffalo Braves.

Carolina returned to the NIT in 1973 and reached the semifinals after losing in the first round of the ACC Tournament. The 25-8 squad was led by the play of Karl and, in the first year freshmen were again eligible to play under NCAA rules, Mitch Kupchak showed signs of greatness inside.

A Remarkable Comeback Against Duke

The 1974 team was led by All-America and All-ACC player Jones. It compiled a 22-6 record but was relegated to a return trip to the NIT even though it was ranked eighth in the final UPI poll. That team featured a freshman class of Walter Davis, Tommy LaGarde and John Kuester, which would lead Carolina back to the Final Four three years later. That season will also be remembered for the astounding comeback the Tar Heels made against Duke in the final regular-season game at Carmichael Auditorium. Trailing by eight points with 17 seconds to play, the Heels rallied to tie the contest on a half-court shot by Davis as time expired. UNC went on to win in overtime, 96-92. The 1974 season also marked the last time Carolina failed to make the NCAA Tournament field, a streak now numbering an NCAA record 18 years.

In 1975, the wonderous Phil Ford arrived on campus as a freshman and he had an immediate impact on Carolina basketball fortunes. He became the first freshman under Smith to start the first game of his career, a feat since matched only by Mike O'Koren, James Worthy, Michael Jordan, Kenny Smith, J.R. Reid, Pete Chilcutt and Rick Fox. As a frosh, Ford won the Everett Case Award as most valuable player of the ACC Tournament as Carolina beat defending national champion N.C. State in the finals, 70-66. The Tar Heels had to survive overtime games with Wake Forest and Clemson in the first two rounds of the tourney just to get into the final game. Overall, that Carolina team finished 23-8 and was eliminated in the NCAA East Regional semifinals by Syracuse, which went on to the Final Four.

A year later, in Kupchak's senior season, the Tar Heels had one of their best teams ever under Smith, but it was undone by injuries and bad luck at season's end. First-team All-Americas Kupchak and Ford led the team to a 25-4 mark and a 13-1 ACC slate. But Carolina was upset in the ACC finals by Virginia, giving the Cavaliers their only ACC championship ever, and then lost to Alabama in the first-round of the NCAA's with Ford sidelined with a badly sprained ankle.

The 1977 campaign marked a return to the Final Four for the first time in five years as UNC posted a 28-5 mark. Mid-season knee surgery on LaGarde ended his college career prematurely and then Davis broke his thumb in the ACC Tournament semifinals against N.C. State. Led by Kuester, the Tar Heels persevered and beat Virginia in the tournament finals, 75-69. Carolina used its up-tempo style to perfection in conjunction with the famed four corners offense in scoring NCAA wins over Purdue, Notre Dame, Kentucky and UNLV. All were of the comeback variety save the win over the Wildcats. Ford suffered a hyperextended elbow in the waning moments of the Notre Dame game and played the remainder of the tourney at less than 100 percent. After freshman O'Koren helped the Heels into the finals with 31 against Vegas, the Tar Heels fell to Marquette, 67-59, in the championship contest.

The 1978 team had to play minus LaGarde, Davis and Kuester—no easy task. It was Ford's senior year and the Rocky Mount, N.C. native was tapped for National Player-of-the-Year honors by four organizations as UNC finished 23-8. In an emotional Carmichael Auditorium farewell, Ford scored a career-high 34 points as UNC beat Duke 87-83 in one of the most memorable games played in the building, clinching the ACC regular-season championship in the process. Ford finished his career as a three-time first-team All-America and Carolina's all-time leading scorer and assist man.

The 1979 squad was not ranked highly in the pre-season, but won Smith ACC and National Coach-of-the-Year honors after finishing 23-6. O'Koren, senior defensive wizard Dudley Bradley and sophomore sharpshooter Al Wood led that team. During the regular season, UNC upset eventual national champion Michigan State 70-69 at Carmichael and scored an infamous 70-69 win at N.C. State on Bradley's last-second steal and dunk. Carolina tied for the ACC regular-season championship with Duke and then beat the Blue Devils 71-63 in the ACC Tournament finals. Carolina was upset in the NCAA second round by Penn, which went on to play in the NCAA Final Four.

The 1980 squad was led by a senior class which featured O'Koren, a first-team All-America in 1979 and 1980. The Tar Heels finished 21-8. Other graduating seniors were guards Dave Colescott and John Virgil and centers Rich Yonakor and Jeff Wolf. One of the season's highlights was a 61-57 win at Indiana in the homecoming game for Colescott, a Marion, Ind., native and former Mr. Basketball in the Hoosier State.

The 1981 team would initiate a string of 12 straight Carolina squads which have advanced to the Final 16 of the NCAA Tournament, a streak still active. Led by Wood and sophomore power forward James Worthy, UNC finished 29-8 and won the ACC Tournament title with one-point wins over Wake Forest and Maryland in the semifinals and finals, respectively. After winning the NCAA West Regional crown, UNC returned to the Final Four where it avenged two regular-season defeats to conference foe Virginia in the semifinals behind Wood's astounding 39-point performance. Two days later, on the day President Ronald Reagan survived an assassination attempt, UNC was beaten by Indiana in the national championship game.

Worthy's MVP Performance Keys Carolina's Third National Championship

The 1981 team proved to be only a prelude to the greatness of the 1982 squad which won it all. Pre-season rated #1, the Tar Heels finished the regular season that way and went on to win the NCAA championship. The squad's 32-2 record equaled the school record for victories in a season as the Tar Heels swept through the ACC Tournament and the NCAA East Regional. There were many heroes on the '82 team. Worthy was named the co-National Player-of-the-Year and he scored a career-high 28 points in UNC's pulsating 63-62 win over Georgetown in the championship game. Center Sam Perkins was a first-team All-America and he was joined in the lineup by point guard Jimmy Black, small forward Matt Doherty and a freshman guard by the name of Michael Jordan. Jordan hit the 16-foot jump shot with 15 seconds remaining that provided the winning points in the title game and Worthy sealed the victory with a steal of a Fred Brown pass with five seconds left.

Worthy opted to make himself available for the NBA draft after his junior year and he was chosen as the first pick by the Los Angeles Lakers. Even without Worthy, the Tar Heels returned a strong cast in 1983 with a nucleus featuring Jordan and Perkins. Both players earned first-team All-America honors that year and Jordan was named National Player-of-the-Year by the Sporting News. The Tar Heels finished 28-8 after starting 0-2, the worst-ever start for a Smith-coached team at Carolina. Carolina recovered from the slow start to be the nation's #1-ranked team for several weeks in January and February. After tying for the ACC regular-season championship, the Heels made it to the finals of the NCAA East Regional before being upset by Georgia. The highlight of the year was an improbable 64-63 victory over Virginia on February 10, 1983 as #1-rated Carolina rallied from 16 points down with 8:43 to play to beat second-ranked Virginia at Carmichael Auditorium.

In 1984, Smith had one of his best teams ever before it fell victim to a late-season injury bug. At 28-3 overall, the Tar Heels became only the sixth team in ACC history to go through the league regular-season round-robin undefeated at 14-0. Jordan was named the consensus National Player-of-the-Year and Perkins was named first-team All-ACC and first-team All-America for the third straight year. Starting point guard Kenny Smith suffered a broken wrist in the LSU game on January 29 and never fully recovered that season. Center Brad Daugherty also suffered a hand injury during the ACC Tournament that hampered his play the rest of the way. That Tar Heel team did finish #1 nationally in both final polls, however.

The 1985 team was another of Smith's overachieving teams. Ignored in the pre-season Top 20 polls for the first time in recent memory, UNC went 27-9 that year after losing Perkins and Jordan from the lineup. Carolina tied for the ACC regular-season championship as Daugherty and Smith had superb years for the Tar Heels. Carolina was eliminated in the finals of the NCAA Southeast Regional at the hands of eventual national champion Villanova.

The Opening of the Dean E. Smith Center

The 1986 unit, led by first-team All-America Daugherty, won its first 21 games en route to a 28-6 mark. The Tar Heels were devastated at season's end by injuries to starters Steve Hale and Joe Wolf and backup center Warren Martin. For the second straight year, UNC was eliminated from the NCAA Tournament by the eventual national champion, Louisville. The season was also highlighted by the opening of the Dean E. Smith Center on the Carolina campus on January 18, 1986. The #1-ranked Tar Heels celebrated the move into their new 21,572-seat arena by beating #3-rated Duke 95-92 that day.

The 1987 squad proved to be another of Smith's best teams. Led by a strong senior nucleus which featured All-ACC players Smith and Wolf, UNC tied the school record for victories in a season with 32 while completing a 32-4 ledger and being ranked #2 in the final AP poll. For the second time in four years, UNC finished the ACC regular season a perfect 14-0. UNC advanced to the NCAA East Regional finals before falling to eventual NCAA finalist Syracuse. Smith capped a brilliant Tar Heel career by surpassing Ford as the school's all-time assist leader and being named Basketball Times' National Player-of-the-Year.

Going into the 1988 campaign, many experts viewed the Tar Heels as an inexperienced bunch that might struggle more than some of Carolina's previous great squads. Smith again confounded the experts as he took a team with only one senior and molded it into a 27-7 unit that won the ACC regular-season championship outright. The season was highlighted by the play of first-team All-America forward J.R. Reid. Among the 27 wins was a thrilling 96-93 win over pre-season #1-ranked Syracuse in the Hall of Fame Tipoff Classic at Springfield, Mass.

While the 1988 team was inexperienced, the 1989 team was a veteran unit, led by a tremendous starting backcourt of seniors Jeff Lebo and Steve Bucknall. Carolina won its first ACC Tournament championship in seven years as it beat arch-rival Duke 77-74 in the championship game at Atlanta. Carolina went on to the Final 16 of the NCAA Tournament before losing to eventual NCAA champion Michigan. Carolina's 29-8 record marked the ninth successive season in which Carolina had won as many as 27 games. Carolina finished the season ranked fourth in the final United Press International poll.

After the 1989 campaign, Reid opted to forgo his final year of eligibility to enter the NBA draft and was chosen as the fifth selection of the draft by the Charlotte Hornets. With Reid, Lebo and Bucknall all gone, Smith's 1990 unit was his youngest in recent memory. In an "off" year by Carolina standards, UNC still finished a solid 21-13. The 13 losses were the most by a Carolina team since the 1952 squad finished 12-15. Despite the double digit losses, Carolina tied for third in the ACC standings, won at least 20 games again and was invited to the NCAA Tournament. The Tar Heels made the most of their opportunity there. Carolina pulled off a stunning upset of top-ranked Oklahoma 79-77 in the second round of the NCAA Midwest Regional at Austin, Texas. Carolina was seeded eighth in the region, while the Sooners were the entire tournament's top seed. Fox hit an off-balance bank shot in the lane as time expired to provide Carolina with the winning points.

A 10th Final Four for Carolina Basketball

Carolina returned to national prominence again in 1991 as Smith led his team to its eighth NCAA Final Four during his tenure and the school's 10th trip overall. Carolina was ranked fourth nationally in the final AP and UPI polls as UNC finished 29-6. The Tar Heels won the 12th Atlantic Coast Conference Tournament championship in school history, a league record, by embarrassing arch-rival Duke 96-74 in the championship game at the Charlotte Coliseum. It was Smith's 11th tourney title in his 30th season at the helm of the Tar Heels.

A strong senior nucleus of All-ACC forward Rick Fox, center Pete Chilcutt and point guard King Rice led Carolina to its 21st straight 20-win season and its 17th successive bid to the NCAA Tournament. During the course of the season, UNC passed Kentucky as college basketball's all-time winningest team. In NCAA play, Carolina beat Northeastern, Villanova, Eastern Michigan and Temple to win the NCAA East Regional before being edged by Smith's alma mater, Kansas, in the NCAA semifinals at the Hoosier Dome in Indianapolis.

The most recent edition of the Carolina Blue & White put together another solid season in 1991-92. The Tar Heels, led by senior guard Hubert Davis, finished 23-10 overall and reached the Final 16 of the NCAA Tournament for an amazing 12th successive season. UNC also finished third in the Atlantic Coast Conference standings, the 28th successive season in which Carolina has finished at least third in the conference regular-season wars.

CAROLINA'S GREATEST PLAYERS

By Beth McNichol

Sports legends conjure up myriad images in our minds. They represent dreams born in school yards and chased through years of practice; athletes whose shots sink confidently into the net as time ticks off; champions with upraised arms and fists clenched in moments of glory; players who are forever etched in our minds as ideals of youth and integrity, class and sportsmanship.

Carolina basketball is richly steeped in a tradition of such legends. Their feats, their accomplishments, their characters, are timeless. They belong, not to a short span of four collegiate years, but to all generations that follow. Indeed, the fire of those greats who have worn Carolina Blue continues to burn brightly in every school yard where future legends begin to dream.

Athletes whose finesse and skills have made Carolina, with 1,536 victories, the most successful program in college basketball history, have long lifted Chapel Hill and Tar Heel fans to new heights. Just witness the results: three national championships, 20 regular-season ACC titles, 12 ACC Tournament championships, seven National Players-of -the-Year, 30 All-Americas and an NCAA-record 22 consecutive seasons with 20-plus victories.

Although basketball in Chapel Hill began in 1911, the unmatched legacy of Tar Heel cagers truly made its debut in 1924 when Norman Shepherd took over the helm. Carolina basketball has never looked back. Shepherd's 1924 team had many accomplishments, including a perfect 26-0 record, the Southern Conference Tournament prize and the declaration of national champions by the Helms Foundation.

That team struck its unforgettable chord in hearts on the Hill through names like Cartwright Carmichael, Jack Cobb and Monk McDonald. The versatile Carmichael, who became Carolina's first All-America in any sport in 1923, was also an excellent baseball player. But it was from the sport of basketball that Carmichael drew his deepest athletic talents, and the superb shooter was awarded All-America honors again in 1924.

Cobb, a three-time All-America and three-time member of the All-Southern Conference Team, earned the nickname "Mr. Basketball" and in 1926 was named National Player-of-the-Year by the Helms Foundation. Showing signs of the future of the sport, Cobb averaged an incredible 15 points per game at a time when the entire Tar Heel squad tallied an average of only 35. McDonald was a standout as well, earning All-Southern Conference Team and Tournament distinctions.

The most valuable player of the ACC Tournament, NCAA East Regional and NCAA Final Four in 1982, James Worthy has gone on to lead the Los Angeles Lakers to a troika of world championships.

The 1930s ushered in yet another crop of talented North Carolina stars. Ivan "Jack" Glace, Earl Ruth, Virgil Weathers and Tom Alexander all garnered All-Southern Conference Team accolades. Joining these four cagers in that category were Jim McCachren and Stewart "Snooks" Aitken, who as team captains also led their respective teammates to Southern Conference Tournament championships in 1935 and '36.

The appropriately-nicknamed George "The Blind Bomber" Glamack made his presence known in the early 1940s. Possessing a great feel for the basketball court, Glamack perfected a precision-tuned hook shot despite the fact he could barely see the basket when standing underneath it. A two-time All-America and Helms National Player-of-the-Year in 1940 and 1941, Glamack surprised fans in Chapel Hill and throughout the country with his instinctive talent for the game.

In 1946, the Tar Heels narrowly lost to Oklahoma State in the NCAA final; however, the starters on that team were certainly worthy of that elusive championship title. John "Hook" Dillon and Jim Jordan were All-Americas, and Horace "Bones" McKinney, Jim White and Bob Paxton contributed as well.

North Carolina's first NCAA championship title team was ignited by Lennie Rosenbluth, the star of the '57 Tar Heels. Widely believed to be the greatest team ever assembled in Chapel Hill, this squad emerged victorious from a triple overtime contest with Wilt Chamberlain and Kansas in the NCAA championship tilt. Rosenbluth, who averaged an impressive 28 points per game and edged out Chamberlain for the Helms Foundation's National Player-of-the-Year award, was joined by Tar Heel greats Bob Cunningham, Tommy Kearns, Joe Quigg and future All-America Pete Brennan in amassing one of the best records ever on the college basketball scene. Although Rosenbluth was clearly the team's headliner, Quigg put the Tar Heels over the top in '57 when he sank two free throws with six seconds left in the NCAA championship game, clinching a 54-53 title victory and a faultless 32-0 season.

Carolina fans were all smiles during the 1960s, when they were treated to one great playmaker after another. Lee Shaffer was ACC Player-of-the-Year and a first-team All-America in 1960. He was taken in the first round of the NBA draft by the Syracuse Nationals, where he turned in some remarkable performances. The 1961 season saw the emergence of Tar Heel free throw ace York Larese, who had set a school record in his specialty at .796 after his senior year at Carolina. Larese still ranks 10th in that statistic in the Tar Heel record books.

Doug Moe also was a standout on a 1961 team that featured so many Carolina greats. Moe was a team co-captain along with Larese and helped elevate the squad to a first-place standing in the ACC regular season. Under Head Coach Frank McGuire, Moe led the team in rebounding both his junior and senior years.

Also during that era, spectacular playmaker Larry Brown burst upon the hoops scene at North Carolina, etching his name onto the career leader charts in the free throw shooting and assists categories. Brown made his mark outside Tar Heel country as well, garnering Olympic gold in 1964 at the Games in Tokyo. After playing in the professional ranks, he coached the University of Kansas to the 1988 NCAA title and is presently is in his second season as head coach of the Los Angeles Clippers.

During the early part of his tenure, Coach Dean Smith found one of his greatest players in Billy Cunningham. Nicknamed "The Kangaroo Kid" for his incredible rebounding skills, Cunningham led the ACC in that statistic three consecutive years despite measuring just under 6-6. Leaping wasn't his only specialty, however. Cunningham also averaged 26.0 points per game in 1964 and 25.4 in 1965—good enough to lead the ACC in the scoring column for those seasons. He was awarded All-America honors for his feats in 1964 and 1965, and he was an All-ACC player three years in a row.

Bob Lewis' name can be found throughout Carolina's individual records pages, but he is perhaps best remembered for a single game during his junior year. On December 16, 1965, Lewis set the Tar Heel record for most points scored during a game with 49 against Florida State. The record still stands today, and no one since has threatened that mark.

Following on the heels of Lewis was two-time All-America Larry Miller, who helped continue Carolina's winning tournament tradition into the late '60s. Miller and his teammates on the 1967 and '68 teams steered the Tar Heels to the NCAA Final Four, the first two of eight such trips with Coach Dean Smith at the helm. Miller dazzled crowds with his multi-talented athleticism, showing off a wide variety of shots and fearless driving layups.

A trio of Tar Heel cagers also shared a piece of the championship pie in the late 1960s. Bill Bunting, Rusty Clark and Dick Grubar headlined teams that won three ACC championships, three NCAA East Regional titles and made three appearances in the NCAA Final Four. As a senior in 1969, Bunting capped off an impressive season and career with a first-team All-ACC spot. Known for his ability to create big plays as well as for his defensive skills, Grubar's name still appears on the Carolina all-time assist leaders chart. Clark, who led the Tar Heels in field goal percentage in 1967, was known as much for his academics as he was for his basketball abilities. He was a Morehead Scholar who exhibited tenacious defensive talents as well as excellent rebounding skills.

An underrated player throughout his collegiate career, Pete Chilcutt led the Tar Heels to the NCAA Final Four in 1991 and was chosen in the first round of the NBA draft the same year by the Sacramento Kings.

Carolina's career leader in field goal percentage, Brad Daugherty has gone on to have a highly successful career with the Cleveland Cavaliers, making the NBA All-Star Game on several occasions.

One of the greatest all-around cagers to play at Carolina filled the 1968-70 seasons with repeated shows of basketball achievement. Charlie Scott was a two-time All-America as a junior and senior and represented the United States in the Summer Games in Mexico City, contributing to the Red, White and Blue's 1968 gold medal performance. Averaging 27.1 points a game in 1970, he led the ACC in scoring and collected honors as the ACC Athlete-of-the-Year and a College Sports Information Directors of America Academic All-America.

Carolina's front court was home to some of Chapel Hill's finest in the early 1970s with such stars as Bill Chamberlain, Dennis Wuycik and Robert McAdoo. The 1971 National Invitation Tournament prize went to the Tar Heels with Chamberlain winning Most Valuable Player honors at the tournament. Wuycik was known for his fine shooting ability and aggressive rebounding. McAdoo shared Wuycik's skills, averaging 19.5 points and 10.1 rebounds a game during his only season with the Tar Heel team. In 1972, this trio led the Carolina basketball program to another Final Four appearance.

The '70s also were graced by All-ACC performer George Karl. Spending three seasons at point guard for the Tar Heels, Karl was always a crowd pleaser at Carmichael Auditorium. He was unafraid of bruising his frame in rescuing loose balls, and this aggressive style on defense easily endeared him to Carolina fans.

Bobby Jones, another Dean Smith standout, combined an incredible spirit of endurance with the natural quickness and superlative rebounding talents that characterize the total college basketball player. Before retiring in 1986, Jones completed an outstanding professional career with Denver and Philadelphia in the NBA.

Another superb all-around player, Mitch Kupchak, is perhaps best remembered for the key leadership role he logged as a senior at Carolina, marching the Tar Heels to a brilliant 25-4 record in 1976. Kupchak took his talents to the '76 Olympics as well, playing alongside fellow Tar Heels Phil Ford, Walter Davis and Tommy LaGarde. The 1976 Carolina Olympic Summer Games connection continued into the coaching column also as Dean Smith and Bill Guthridge headed up the coaching contingent. Kupchak later went on to help the Washington Bullets win the 1978 NBA championship and the Los Angeles Lakers do likewise in 1985.

The threesome of Davis, LaGarde and John Kuester all were considered great shooters and excellent defensive players, but one of the most impressive attributes of these Tar Heels was the statistics they amassed. Playing on teams from 1974-1977, they won 98 games and lost only 23.

One of the best clutch players to ever don Carolina Blue, Davis went on to make his mark in the NBA, winning Rookie-of-the-Year honors in 1978 with the Phoenix Suns. Davis announced his retirement from professional basketball in September 1992 following a 15-season career patterned by excellence throughout his years in the NBA. LaGarde received All-America status during his stay in Chapel Hill, and it is widely believed that his mid-season injury in 1977 may have cost the Tar Heels the national championship that year. Kuester was voted MVP in both the ACC Tournament and NCAA East Regional en route to Carolina's Final Four trip in 1977.

Phil Ford is remembered by basketball experts and fans alike as being one of the greatest players to ever step into point guard shoes. He was the National Player-of-the-Year in 1978 and still claims Carolina's career scoring record as well as ranking second in career assists. As a Kansas City King in 1979, Ford was named NBA Rookie-of-the-Year, becoming the second consecutive North Carolina star to win that honor. In 1988, he returned to the Hill to work under his former mentor, Dean Smith, as an assistant coach.

It's easy to recognize the unmatched pool of talent that Carolina cager fans have been treated to over the years. However, loyal Tar Heels in the late '70s and early '80s found out even more about Coach Smith's superb coaching talents and recruiting flairs. Enter Mike O'Koren, Al Wood and James Worthy, for starters. O'Koren is one of the few players to rank among the school's career leaders in scoring, rebounding and assists. He also was the sixth overall pick in the 1980 NBA draft, taken by the New Jersey Nets.

Al Wood was the epitome of the total basketball player during his years at Carolina, leading the Tar Heels into the 1981 national championship contest. A superb shooter, Wood still ranks high on the North Carolina career field goal percentage charts. Pro scouts realized his talents as well, as Wood was the first senior chosen in the 1981 NBA draft.

The jersey that hangs in the Dean E. Smith Center for James Worthy signifies an incredible legacy of achievement in Chapel Hill. Worthy took the NCAA by storm in the 1982 tournament, sharing the National-Player-of-the-Year award for his performance in leading the Tar Heels to a 32-2 record. In the NCAA final against Georgetown that gave North Carolina a second NCAA championship, he capped off his career with a 28-point outing. He was named MVP for the ACC Tournament, the NCAA East Regional and the NCAA Final Four in '82. After three years at Carolina, he left Chapel Hill for Los Angeles, where he has played on three Laker NBA championship teams.

Jimmy Black was an excellent point guard and team leader for the Tar Heels in 1982, blazing the way for one of the best North Carolina seasons ever. Black also was known for his defensive abilities, and readily created show-stopping plays that gave him the fifth-highest spot on the Carolina career assist tally.

So many great names made up the 1982 national championship squad's roster, but none were more instrumental in that quest than Matt Doherty, Sam Perkins and Michael Jordan. Doherty was the all-purpose man for Carolina, always ready to step into the appropriate shoes and perform the needed tasks. Whether the crucial role involved coming up with a big defensive play, an offensive board or a clutch basket, Doherty always was at the ready. Doherty also achieved membership into the prestigious 1000-point, 400-rebound and 400-assist club.

Perkins is second only to Ford on the all-time leading scorers' list, and he claims the top position on the career rebounds list. These offensive characteristics did not mark the limits of Perkins' talents, however. He possessed a fearless tenacity on defense that played a key role in the United States' 1984 Olympic gold medal performance in basketball. One of three North Carolina stars to have been named an All-America three times, he continues to add more honors to an already amazing career in the professional ranks as a Los Angeles Laker.

The name Michael Jordan is not only synonymous with North Carolina's shining basketball program, but indeed with the game of basketball itself. Despite his incredible success in leading the Chicago Bulls to back-to-back NBA titles in 1991 and 1992, Jordan is probably best remembered on the Hill for what fans have labeled, simply, "The Shot." In the waning seconds of the NCAA championship game against Georgetown, Jordan sank a 16-foot jumper to clinch the Tar Heels' 63-62 victory over Georgetown in 1982. The National Player-of-the-Year as a sophomore, Jordan again captured that title by a unanimous vote in '84, and, as a member of the '84 gold medal Olympic squad, he topped the stats column in scoring. Jordan, besides leading Chicago to its first-ever world championship titles, was named the NBA's MVP of both of those history-making teams, and has received Rookie-of-the-Year and Defensive Player-of-the-Year honors as well. He presently is in his ninth professional season.

In 1986, Brad Daugherty was the pride of Chapel Hill as he was chosen first overall in the NBA draft. Daugherty's shots rarely missed the bottom of the net, as his school-record 61.99 field goal accuracy percentage attests. He broke the previous record of Bobby Jones by 1.22 percentage points. His legacy includes the fourth spot on the all-time rebounding list and the seventh position in the all-time scoring category.

Seniors Kenny Smith and Joe Wolf led their 1987 teammates to a tie for the school record in season victories at 32. Both Tar Heel headliners were chosen in the first round of the NBA draft that year, with Smith winning National Player-of-the-Year honors from the Basketball Times. Smith also is the school's leader in career assists. Wolf's claim to fame was an outstanding ability to pass the ball with precision, and he is believed by many to be one of Carolina's greatest defensive players.

During his three-year career at Carolina, J.R. Reid amassed some impressive numbers, including the third spot on North Carolina's field goal percentage list and a Top 20 showing in both points and rebounds. Reid helped lead the Tar Heels to an ACC tournament championship in 1989, and is continuing to build a successful career with the Charlotte Hornets.

Now in his fourth season with the Charlotte Hornets of the National Basketball Association, J.R. Reid had an outstanding career with the Tar Heels. In 1989, his most valuable player performance helped lead Carolina to its first ACC Tournament championship in seven years.

In 1991, North Carolina marched into the NCAA Final Four behind the leadership of senior standouts Rick Fox and Pete Chilcutt. Both were selected in the first round of the draft and began what are sure to be successful careers in the NBA. Chilcutt is in the lineup for the Sacramento Kings, while Fox made impressive strides as a rookie with the Boston Celtics.

Keeping the Carolina tradition of basketball excellence in the family last year was Hubert Davis, nephew of former UNC great Walter Davis. The 6-4 guard out of Burke, Va. had a tremendous senior season in the Tar Heels' 1992 campaign, averaging 21.4 points a game and shooting 82.8 percent from the free throw line. Davis' picture perfect shooting talents helped lead the Tar Heels to a familiar place in the Sweet Sixteen of the NCAAs. He was drafted by the New York Knicks last summer, and began his NBA career last fall.

CAROLINA BASKETBALL IN INTERNATIONAL COMPETITION

By Beth McNichol

When Dr. James A. Naismith nailed a peach basket to a balcony in a Springfield, Mass. gymnasium in 1891, the game of basketball was born. Naismith, a YMCA instructor who merely hoped to find a winter pastime for his restless students, could not have imagined that his novel idea would travel the roads of the United States and cross the oceans of the world, bringing together players of all nationalities dedicated to the ideals of sportsmanship.

It seems, however, that basketball's inaugural bandwagon made a special stop in Chapel Hill, cultivating a prizewinning style of play and a special kind of talent that would be watched and admired around the globe for years to come.

The signature qualities of a Tar Heel cager have become so legendary that it is difficult to name an international roster not dotted with the champion shade of Carolina Blue. From international tournaments and professional teams to the Olympic Games, a Carolina basketball star can always be found leaping, guarding or dunking his way into global imaginations.

The 1992-93 North Carolina roster is stocked with players who have amassed impressive international minutes. Displaying adroitness in adapting to the bruising style of play and differing rules of the global version of the sport, four current Tar Heels spent their summers aiming at some hoops of worldly proportions.

Senior swingman Henrik Rodl, who calls Heusenstamm, Germany his home away from Chapel Hill, touched down in Barcelona as a member of the German National Team. Although Rodl's Olympic Games were cut short by the dominance of the Dream Team, he was a key player for his native country throughout the fortnight of competition. In a difficult contest against Angola, Rodl scored the go-ahead basket for the Germans off a steal, sparking his team's one-point victory.

Scott Cherry, Kevin Salvadori and Eric Montross also contributed to the United States' golden basketball reputation at home and abroad. Cherry, a 6-4 senior guard from Ballston Spa, N.Y., toured the former Soviet republic of Russia with the SCORE International basketball club, a team made up of many American collegiate standouts. Cherry contributed a 43 percent field goal percentage in the SCORE squad's difficult contests with the older, more experienced Russian players.

Carolina's shot-blocking ace, 7-0 junior Salvadori, was the sixth Tar Heel in the last four years to be chosen for the ACC European All-Star Team. A native of Pittsburgh, Pa., Salvadori teamed up with some of the best talent in the Atlantic Coast Conference on a tour that included some tough competition from several top European clubs.

Four Tar Heel players were members of the 1976 United States Olympic Team which captured the gold medal in Montreal. Although 7-0, 258-pound junior center Eric Montross did not play on foreign soil over the summer, he did play an invaluable role in the conditioning of the history-making Dream Team that captured the gold medal for the United States in the Barcelona Olympics. Montross' solid performance during the 1991-92 basketball season, as well as his experience as a member of the 1991 U.S. Pan American Games team which took the bronze medal with a 93-74 win over Cuba, rocketed his national prominence among USA Basketball coaches. The Indianapolis native was chosen as one of eight top collegians to head up the USA Basketball Developmental Team that scrimmaged daily against the Olympic squad during their June training camp in San Diego.

Those four North Carolina cagers do not mark the end of the Tar Heels' imprint on international competition, however. Seniors Matt Wenstrom and George Lynch exhibited their abilities abroad during the summer of 1991. Wenstrom was selected for the Atlantic Coast Conference All-Star Team that toured Belgium, France and Italy, adding his name to a distinguished list of past Tar Heels who have shared the honor. Pete Chilcutt and Kevin Madden were ACC All-Stars in 1989, while King Rice and Lynch continued the tradition in 1990.

Lynch, who hails from Roanoke, Va., also was a member of the U.S. team that snatched up the gold medal at the World University Games in Sheffield, England in July 1991. Although he averaged only 17 minutes per game, Lynch packed every second with his characteristic competitive drive, leading the squad in rebounds at 5.5 per game and in steals with 11. In addition to his knack for creating plays, the 6-7 forward averaged 9.7 points per game.

The memorable 1991 U.S. World University squad boasted the talents of 1992 Carolina senior and current New York Knicks rookie Hubert Davis, as well. Davis led the team to a 6-0 record and its pulverizing 40-point domination of Canada in capturing the gold medal. The native of Burke, Va. dazzled crowds while averaging a team-high 17.8 points per game and tallying a .594 field goal percentage. Davis sizzled from the three-point line and the charity stripe as well, amassing .567 and .800 percentages, respectively.

No compiling of Carolina contributions to international competition would be justly complete without a chronicling of two of the most dominant figures in the modern game. Sam Perkins' and Michael Jordan's legendary feats are revered far beyond the decorous boundaries of Chapel Hill.

Jordan, a two-time National Player-of-the-Year while at Carolina, was a sure pick for the 1992 U.S. Olympic team which featured the greatest talent ever assembled on a basketball court. Jordan and his teammates were utterly dominant, as expected, throughout the two-week journey to yet another gold medal for USA Basketball. Perhaps the greatest contribution Jordan made to the Dream Team was exhibited upon the faces of spectators from around the world as they marveled at his instinctive playmaking talents and his unmatched, showstopping, driving layups.

Mitch Kupchak was one of four Tar Heel players who led the U.S. to the gold medal at the 1976 Summer Olympics in Montreal. In addition to Kupchak, other Tar Heels who played on the team coached by Dean Smith and Bill Guthridge were Walter Davis, Tommy LaGarde and Phil Ford.

Indeed, Jordan has become an ambassador for the distinctively American game of basketball, epitomizing roundball excellence throughout the world. It is a legacy dating back to the 1984 Olympic Games in Los Angeles, where Jordan again helped the Americans capture the gold. He led the U.S. in scoring at 17.1 points per game, along the way captivating fans, the media and opposing coaches.

"Today, he showed me nothing incredible," Spanish coach Antonio Diaz-Miguel said after his team fell to the U.S in '84. "He is always the same. He comes in there like an airplane. I don't know how he remains in the air while everyone else is going down. He is elastic."

Jordan was at his best in the first of two games against Spain. He scored 24 points, sinking his last nine shots from the floor to finish 12 of 14 from the field. His steal and 35-foot jumper at the halftime buzzer gave the Americans a 46-41 lead. The U.S. blitzed the Spaniards in the second half to win, 101-68.

Perkins, who was co-captain of the 1984 Olympic team along with Jordan, showed his brilliant ability and unmatched consistency through remarkable play and superlative team leadership. The eight-game Olympic sweep that culminated in the gold medal featured tenacious defensive skills and a constant flow of offense from Perkins, who garnered 12 key points and seven rebounds in the gold medal match.

Perhaps no one appreciated Perkins' talent more than 1984 U.S. Head Coach Bob Knight, who repeatedly praised the three-time All-America.

"Give me players like Sam Perkins," Knight said, "and I'll coach forever."

The duo of Perkins and Jordan also led the U.S. to the Pan American Games title in 1983 in Caracas, Venezuela. Many people considered Perkins to be the most consistent American player in that tournament. Jordan displayed his own brand of heroics that have proved so intrinsic to his game by leading the American charge in a couple of comeback victories.

But Carolina's international legacy certainly is not limited to the excellence of a few talented individuals—nor is it limited to players. The 1976 gold medal U.S. Olympic team was headed up by North Carolina Head Coach Dean Smith as well as his chief assistant, Bill Guthridge. The squad that Smith took to Montreal with him included Tar Heel standouts Mitch Kupchak, Walter Davis, Tommy LaGarde and Phil Ford.

The eyes of a nation gleaming with anticipation were fixed upon Smith's team, as the United States sought to vindicate a disputed loss to the Soviet Union at the '72 games that had interrupted a storied basketball tradition. That team also included Carolina star Bobby Jones, who earned a silver medal amidst great controversy in Munich.

The four Tar Heels featured on the '76 roster each played key roles in leading the Americans to a six-game sweep and the coveted gold. With Smith stressing aggressive defense and an unselfish offense, the U.S. routed Italy in the opening game while Kupchak contributed 19 points to the 106-86 final.

The next encounter for the Americans saw a tenacious Puerto Rican team nearly score the upset victory over the U.S., but Phil Ford's clutch free-throws in the waning moments fended off disaster. Not only did Ford have 20 points in that outing, but he led the U.S. in the assist category for the fortnight with 54. The U.S. rolled into the finals by defeating Yugoslavia, Czechoslovakia and Canada. At the end of the competition, Smith's team had compiled an 83 percent shooting percentage from the free throw line, setting a U.S. Olympic record.

Although a U.S. boycott of the 1980 Games thwarted another chance at gold for USA Basketball, Carolina's Al Wood played on the national team that would have competed in Moscow. Coached by Dave Gavitt, the 1980 national team had a 5-1 record against professional teams in a series of exhibition games held across the country.

Games of the XXIVth Olympiad. So too did North Carolina power forward J.R. Reid, who played a significant reserve role on John Thompson's squad.

In the third game, against a Brazilian team that had defeated the Americans only a year earlier at the Pan Am Games, Reid gave his best performance. With starting big men Danny Manning and David Robinson mired in early foul trouble, Reid came off the bench to spearhead the Americans' offensive effort. During one stretch, he scored six points in a row and eight of the team's 10. Reid finished with a team-high 16 points in that contest, hitting seven of 11 shots on the way to a convincing 102-87 victory.

Although the United States' 1988 team came away from Seoul with only a bronze medal, Reid had continued the Carolina legacy of excellence that had begun 24 years earlier. At the 1964 games in Tokyo, backcourt star Larry Brown was the pride of Chapel Hill, while in 1968, Charlie Scott represented UNC on the American roster.

The Pan American Games, as already mentioned, have also been a forum for Carolina's international superlatives. The Tar Heels have been represented in the last six of these contests, including Robert McAdoo in 1971 and Tommy LaGarde at the Mexico City Games in 1975. Mike O'Koren co-captained the 1979 team that won the gold medal in San Juan, Puerto Rico, and Jeff Lebo added his name to the American roster at the Indianapolis games in '87.

Five Tar Heels have won gold medals at the World University Games—Billy Cunningham at Budapest in 1965, Larry Miller at Tokyo in 1967, Kupchak at Moscow in 1973 and Hubert Davis and Lynch in 1991 in Sheffield, England.

Carolina's success across the seas, though, is more than a collection of fine individual efforts. On five occasions, the entire Tar Heel team has ventured to Europe for tournament competition. Last year, Carolina's squad traveled to the Canary Islands and Germany.

In 1971, Carolina claimed the championship of the International Christmas Tournament in Madrid, Spain, sweeping past teams from Barcelona, Santiago and Madrid—the European champion—in the finals. Again playing in Madrid in 1974, the Heels were not as fortunate, falling to the Real Madrid Club in the final game. However, Carolina did surprise the international basketball community by defeating the powerful Cuban National team on a remarkable half-court shot at the buzzer by Walter Davis.

North Carolina entered the fog of London in 1979 for their third international Christmas tournament of the decade, finishing third. Prior to the 1984 season, Carolina visited Greece and won four games against Italy and the host nation. Perkins, Jordan and Buzz Peterson were selected to the all-tournament team.

The Tar Heels returned to England in December 1987 to beat the English National Team in the championship round of the World Invitation Club Tournament. Reid led the way for Smith's squad with 24 points. The hometown hero, however, didn't play for the home team. Carolina's Steve Bucknall, a London native, scored 18 points to spark the Tar Heels' 87-79 victory.

Many Carolina players have gone on to successful pro basketball careers in Europe. Doug Moe accomplished the most, three times earning European Player-of-the-Year honors. Other Tar Heels who have played professionally abroad include Dave Chadwick, Kim Huband, Craig Corson, Donn Johnston, John O'Donnell, Donald Washington, Bruce Buckley, Tom Zaliagiris, Geff Crompton, Randy Wiel, Jeff Wolf, Steve Krafcisin, Rich Yonakor, Pete Budko, Mike Pepper, Tommy LaGarde, Jim Braddock, John Virgil, Chris Brust, Cecil Exum, Curtis Hunter, Jeb Barlow, Steve Hale, Warren Martin, Robert McAdoo, Dave Popson, Al Wood, Buzz Peterson, John Brownlee and Ranzino Smith.

Many years have passed on basketball's calendar since Naismith's students had to climb a ladder to retrieve their makeshift basketball after every shot they made. Since then, North Carolina's players and coaches have taken the game to new heights, playing an invaluable part in the sport's growth worldwide.

THE DEAN E. SMITH CENTER

THE DEAN E. SMITH CENTER

In May 1980, the University of North Carolina Department of Athletics, in conjunction with the Educational Foundation, embarked on a mission of unparalleled proportion in college athletics. Five hundred volunteers, motivated by the slogan "Pride Will Build It," set out to do the impossible—raise millions of dollars from private donations to erect an arena to showcase the nationally-prominent Tar Heel basketball team.

"Fund-raising experts told us there was no way to raise that kind of money unless one person made a significant gift of more than $5 million," says Ernie Williamson, a consultant for the Educational Foundation. "Well, we did have one $1 million contribution, but nothing exceeding that. We also had five dollar gifts from children who contributed their allowance. Nothing's impossible when there's that kind of love and loyalty for the University and its basketball program."

However, the real inspiration for the fund-raising effort came from the campaign chairman, the late Hargrove "Skipper" Bowles. Always the optimist, Bowles was determined to defy the odds. "Are we going to make our goal? On a scale of 1 to 10, with 10 the most optimistic, I'm a 12!" he once exclaimed.

Six years and 2,362 donors later, the premier basketball arena in America became a reality. Dedicated in September 1986 as the Dean E. Smith Center, the 300,000-square-foot edifice stands on seven and one-half acres on the University's south campus. Over 20,000 cubic yards of rock were removed to make room for the 340-foot-high, 380-foot-wide building.

Even United States presidents find time in their busy schedules to visit the Dean E. Smith Center. President-elect Bill Clinton was present at the Smith Center December 10, 1990 when Carolina beat Kentucky, 84-81, in one of the most dramatic and exciting games in the building's history. Clinton was a guest of North Carolina State Senator Bill Goldson of Eden, N.C., who was active in Clinton's campaign for the presidency. (Photo by Hugh Morton)

The Smith Center has three levels. The upper-most level features a 1,200-foot-long, 22-foot-wide concourse with seven concession stands and a souvenir showcase. All are easily accessible from the 68 aisles which empty into the concourse.

The highlight of the second floor is the Carolina memorabilia room. The memorabilia room houses artifacts of Carolina's rich athletic tradition. Visitors can enjoy the memories of the Tar Heels' 1957 and 1982 NCAA basketball championships as well as sports memorabilia from Carolina's other 25 varsity sports. In addition, the second floor houses the athletic department offices as well as the basketball suite.

The first floor features six recreational locker rooms in addition to two locker rooms reserved for the Carolina swimming program. Also on the first floor is the varsity hallway, where Carolina basketball players spend numerous hours preparing for competition. In this self-contained hallway are fully-equipped training and weight rooms. The basketball dressing area contains a players' lounge complete with computer terminals and study desks for academic support as well as a wide screen television and stereo system for relaxation.

The Smith Center's design allows it the flexibility to host numerous entertainment events. A large grid hangs over the east end zone from which more than 50,000 pounds of sound and lighting equipment can be easily attached. A recently-installed curtain system allows for the conversion of the arena to various seating configurations to allow smaller events the opportunity to use the building. There are 14 speaker clusters located around the top of the facility which are capable of delivering 300,000 watts of sound. Other technologically-advanced features include computer-controlled lighting and two 29-foot-long message centers.

Some of the most heralded stars in the entertainment business have performed in the Smith Center. Since Kenny Rogers staged the first concert in the arena on April 6, 1986, entertainers ranging in appeal from Bruce Springsteen to John Denver, Janet Jackson to James Taylor and Pink Floyd to Garth Brooks have performed to enthusiastic crowds. Performance Magazine named the Smith Center the 1987 "Venue-of-the-Year" and by a poll of its peers, the Smith Center received the Pollstar Readers Poll Award for the "Best New Major Concert Venue," placing it at the forefront of outstanding facilities in the nation.

But the main attraction, and indeed the very reason for the Smith Center's existence, is Carolina basketball. When the lights blaze down on the spring maple floor and the 21,572 Carolina Blue seats are filled with Tar Heel fans, the stage is set for one of college basketball's most successful programs to display the teamwork and tenacious defense that have long been its trademark. In the east end zone, the jerseys belonging to such greats as Lennie Rosenbluth, Phil Ford and Michael Jordan keep a vigil over the hardwood which has been the home to Carolina basketball since January 18, 1986. On that Saturday afternoon, Kenny Smith spotted an open Warren Martin in the lane for the first Carolina basket scored in the Smith Center as the top-ranked Tar Heels defeated third-ranked Duke 95-92 in a battle of college basketball unbeatens. Including that opening game, Carolina's seven-year Smith Center record is an impressive 75-11.

The Smith Center has hosted a wide range of athletic events. In 1987, the arena served as the site for U.S. Olympic Festival basketball competition, which attracted a Smith Center record crowd of 22,713 for the gold medal game. In 1988, the venue served as the site of the first and second rounds of the NCAA East Regional.

An 11-person

The floor of the Dean E. Smith Center was a sea of humanity after the Tar Heels toppled #1-ranked Duke from the ranks of the unbeaten on February 5, 1992. Delirious Tar Heel fans eventually moved their celebration from the floor of the Smith Center to Franklin Street.

The 21,572 Carolina Blue seats in the Smith Center are all angled so each spectator faces center court. For a facility as large as the Smith Center, there truly are no bad seats. (Photo by Bob Donnan) maintenance team is responsible for insuring that the physical transformation from one event to another is successful. Whether it be concerts or basketball, theatre or exhibitions, the transformation is a laborious task requiring the use of a 150-foot loading tunnel near the east end zone. Through this tunnel passes the tons of equipment required for the close to 250 events to which the Smith Center has played host.

Adjacent to the Smith Center is the Maurice J. Koury Natatorium. One of the finest and fastest swimming facilities in the country, the natatorium features an eight-lane, 50-meter pool with a turbulence control system which minimizes water resistance. The natatorium was the site of aquatic events at U.S. Olympic Festival—'87, hosting swimming, water polo and modern pentathlon. In 1989, U.S. Swimming conducted its Short Course National Championships at Koury, while in 1992, the U.S. Master's Swimming Short Course National Championships were held there. Home to Carolina's highly-successful swimming and diving program, Koury has played host to the Atlantic Coast Conference men's and women's swimming and diving championships in 1987, 1989, 1991, and 1992 and will do so again in 1993.

Located in Koury Natatorium are the offices of the Educational Foundation which sit atop the marble-floored room named after the man who made the fund-raising efforts a reality—Hargrove "Skipper" Bowles. Utilized by various University groups, Bowles Hall serves as a reminder of the perseverance and determination of loyal alumni to see the dream of a new basketball facility come to life.

Tabbed by The Wall Street Journal as "a veritable hoops palace," the Dean E. Smith Center serves as the embodiment of what Carolina Diretor of Athletics John Swofford has called the University's "commitment to excellence." Over three million people have attended events at the Smith Center and experienced first hand the nation's premier basketball facility. Most all would agree, "Pride Built It."

THE SMITH CENTER JERSEYS

By Kevin Best
Sports Information Student Assistant

Hanging from the rafters in the East end zone of the Dean E. Smith Center are 13 Tar Heel jerseys which together serve as a symbolic reminder of Carolina's consistent success in its 82 seasons of college basketball competition. The players who wore those jerseys are a part of the legacy of outstanding competitors who have helped make North Carolina the winningest program in college basketball history.

When the Smith Center opened in 1986, university officials decided the new building needed a proper tribute to honor those who helped make Carolina basketball what it is today. After all, the Smith Center would not exist if it weren't for the players who have worn the Carolina Blue and White over the past 82 seasons. To that end, on Dedication Day—September 6, 1986—12 jerseys were hung in the rafters in the East end zone. The 13th jersey, belonging to Kenny Smith, was added following his senior season in 1986-87.

The six jerseys in the front row belong to players who have had their numbers or numerals retired by the University. This sextet includes some of the most famous names in college basketball history. The back row includes seven jerseys honoring players whose accomplishments were truly remarkable, including a National Player-of-the-Year and several two-time first-team All-Americas.

The retired jerseys belong to Jack Cobb (a numeral), George Glamack (#20), Lennie Rosenbluth (#10), Phil Ford (#12), James Worthy (#52) and Michael Jordan (#23). The honored jerseys include those of Cartwright Carmichael (a numeral), Billy Cunningham (#32), Larry Miller (#44), Charlie Scott (#33), Mike O'Koren (#31), Sam Perkins (#41) and Kenny Smith (#30).

Following, in alphabetical order, are biographies of the 13 Tar Heel players whose exploits in the Carolina Blue and White have earned them the distinction of having their jerseys forever hang high above the Smith Center.

Cartwright CARMICHAEL

Carmichael won first-team All-America honors in 1923, becoming Carolina's first All-America in any sport. Regarded as an excellent shooter in his day and respected as a graceful player overall, Carmichael was tabbed as an All-America again in 1924 and garnered All-Southern Conference honors from 1922-24. He was also named to the All-Southern Conference Tournament first team in 1924. During his three varsity seasons at Carolina, the Tar Heels were 56-7 and he led UNC teams to two Southern Conference regular-season championships and two Southern Conference tournament titles. Cartwright, who lettered on the 1922, 1923 and 1924 teams, led the Tar Heels to an undefeated season in his senior year, good for a national championship as voted by the Helms Foundation. In 1922 Carmichael and his brother, Billy, became the only brothers to ever play together on the same Carolina basketball team. A versatile athlete, Carmichael also lettered as an outfielder in baseball.

Jack COBB

Carolina's first three-time All-America, Cobb teamed with Carmichael to lead the Tar Heels to their first national championship in 1924. He captained the 1925 squad during his junior year and, in 1926, earned National Player-of-the-Year accolades from the Helms Foundation. Amazingly, during his three varsity seasons (1924-26), Cobb averaged 15 points per game while the entire Tar Heel team averaged only about 35. Known as "Mr. Basketball," Cobb was a 6-2 forward who could do it all. He was a slick passer and a great rebounder, in addition to being a scoring threat. Cobb was named to the All-Southern Conference Team in 1924, 1925 and 1926 and was first-team All-Southern Conference Tournament the latter two years. The three teams he played on went 66-10 and won three straight Southern Conference tournament and regular-season championships. Shortly after he graduated from UNC, Cobb was involved in an automobile accident in which he lost part of his left leg. Nevertheless, he devoted most of his spare time to coaching Little League baseball teams. He died in 1966 at the age of 62. Cobb is a member of the Helms Hall of Fame and the North Carolina Sports Hall of Fame.

Billy CUNNINGHAM #32

Nicknamed "The Kangaroo Kid" for his exceptional leaping ability, Cunningham gained notoriety for leading the Atlantic Coast Conference in rebounding three years in a row. Cunningham still holds six of eight UNC rebounding records and is the second-leading rebounder in Tar Heel history. He was named ACC Player-of-the-Year in 1965 and first-team All-ACC three years in a row. In 1963 and '64, he was also first-team All-ACC Tournament despite the fact the Tar Heels didn't reach the finals either year. He was on the USBWA All-America team in 1964 and 1965 and on the Helms Foundation team his senior year. He led the ACC in scoring two years in a row, with 26.0 points per game in 1964 and 25.4 in 1965. For his 69-game Carolina career, he averaged 24.8 points and 15.4 rebounds per game. Cunningham was tabbed as Carolina's MVP three straight years and he was All-Academic ACC as a senior. In 1965, the College Sports Information Directors of America named him to its Academic All-America team. Cunningham was picked in the first round of the NBA draft in 1965 by the Philadelphia 76ers. He played 11 years of professional basketball, including two years in the ABA and nine years in the NBA. He was the NBA Rookie-of-the-Year with Philadelphia, the ABA Player-of-the-Year with the Carolina Cougars and the NBA Coach-of-the-Year with the 76ers. He played on a world championship team with the 76ers in 1967 and then coached the team to the NBA title in 1983. He was inducted into the Naismith Basketball Hall of Fame in Springfield, Mass. in 1985 and currently is a partner with the Miami Heat franchise of the NBA.

Phil FORD #12

One of college basketball's all-time best guards, Ford is perhaps best remembered for running Coach Dean Smith's famed "Four Corners Offense" with tremendous precision. He is UNC's all-time leading scorer with 2,290 points and he ranks second in assists with 753. In 123 games in his four-year Tar Heel career, Ford averaged 18.6 points per game and 6.1 assists per contest. A three-time first-team All-America in 1976, '77 and '78, Ford directed Carolina to three straight first-place ACC regular-season finishes as well as ACC Tournament titles in 1975 and 1977 and the NCAA Final Four in 1977. Ford, who started at the point guard position from the start of his freshman year, was named the National Player-of-the-Year in 1978 by the USBWA, the NABC and the Sporting News as well as winning the John Wooden Award. Ford also played on the 1976 gold medal-winning U.S. Olympic Team under the leadership of Coach Smith and was named to the All-Tournament team by UPI. Ford, who won the Everett Case Award his freshman year for leading UNC to the ACC tournament title over N.C. State, was named first-team All-ACC his final three years as a Tar Heel. He also was named first-team All-ACC Tournament thrice. The ACC Athlete-of-the-Year in 1977 and '78 and the ACC Player-of-the-Year the latter season, Ford scored a career-high 34 points in a 1978 victory over Duke in his last regular-season game at Carmichael Auditorium, boosting the Tar Heels to the ACC regular-season title. Ford's teams went 99-24 in his four seasons at UNC, while he compiled impressive shooting statistics of .527 from the field and .808 from the line. Ford played seven seasons in the NBA and was the league's Rookie-of-the-Year in 1979 with the Kansas City Kings. Ford is currently serving his fifth year as a Tar Heel assistant coach.

George GLAMACK #20

Despite the fact he literally could not see the rim of the basket, Glamack had an amazing career. He shot the ball according to the lines painted on the court, and thus earned the nickname, "The Blind Bomber." In 1940 and '41, he was named All-Southern Conference, All-America and National Player-of-the-Year by the Helms Foundation. A master at maneuvering in the paint, Glamack had a deadly hook shot with either hand. In 1940, he was named first-team All-Southern Conference Tournament as he helped lead Carolina to the Southern Conference championship. As captain of the 1941 Tar Heels, he averaged 20.6 points per game, an incredible mark for the 1940s. He led that 1941 team to the Southern Conference regular-season title and to UNC's first appearance in the NCAA Tournament. He played five seasons in the professional ranks in the 1940s with teams in Akron, Rochester, Indianapolis and Hammond, Ind. Glamack always hoped his career would be an inspiration to other handicapped people who dreamed of participating in organized sports.

Michael JORDAN #23

Known as perhaps the greatest player in the world today, "Air" Jordan achieved instant stardom in his freshman year, hitting a jumper with 15 seconds left to give Carolina its third national title in 1982. He was named the ACC Rookie-of-the-Year that season and is one of only eight freshmen under Coach Dean Smith to have started the first game of his career. Jordan's career averages at Carolina were 17.7 points per game and 5.0 rebounds per contest from his big guard position. A consensus All-America in both 1983 and '84, Jordan was first-team All-ACC both of those seasons. Jordan was famous at Carolina for providing late-game heroics that engineered Tar Heel victories. Besides the aforementioned NCAA title game, he led a momentous comeback against Virginia in 1983, clinching the game with a last-minute steal and dunk. That same season, he sent a game versus Tulane into overtime with a steal and a 35-foot jumper at the end of regulation as UNC went on to win in triple overtime. In 1984, Jordan led the ACC in scoring with 19.4 points per game and was subsequently named ACC Player- and Athlete-of-the-Year. After being named National Player-of-the-Year by the Sporting News in 1983, he was the unanimous choice for the award a year later. He was the leading scorer on both the 1983 U.S. Pan American Games team and the 1984 U.S. Olympic team, both of which won gold medals. Jordan passed up his final year of eligibility after consulting with Coach Smith and entered the NBA draft, where he was chosen third by the Chicago Bulls. He has gone on to become a superstar in the pro ranks, being named the league's Rookie-of-the-Year in 1985 and its Most Valuable Player in 1988, 1991 and 1992. He led the Bulls to their first-ever championship in 1991 over the Los Angeles Lakers and then helped successfully defend their title in 1992 by beating the Portland Trail Blazers. Most recently, Jordan was a member of the 1992 Olympic "Dream Team," a group of NBA all-stars which captured the gold medal in Barcelona.

Larry
MILLER #44

A key figure in Carolina's basketball resurgence under Coach Dean Smith in the late 1960s, Miller led UNC to ACC championships and the NCAA Final Four in 1967 and '68 and was named a first-team All-America and ACC Player-of-the-Year both of those years. The McKevlin Award winner as the ACC Athlete-of-the-Year in 1968, Miller was one of only two players to ever be named Most Valuable Player of the ACC Tournament on two occasions. He once scored in double figures a school-record 64 consecutive games and is still UNC's sixth-leading scorer and eighth-leading all-time rebounder. His rebounding statistics are even more impressive considering his 6-4 size. Miller, who played on the U.S. team at the 1967 World University Games, was named to the NCAA All-East Regional team in both 1967 and '68 and he was also on the all-tournament team in the 1968 Final Four. The Most Valuable Player of the 1967 Far West Classic, Miller was named second-team All-ACC in 1966 and first team in 1967 and '68. He was first-team All-ACC Tournament twice as well. In his Carolina career, he scored 21.8 points per game and pulled down 9.2 rebounds per outing. He played one of the greatest games in ACC Tournament history in the 1967 finals, hitting 13 of 14 field goals and scoring 32 points in an 82-73 victory over Duke. Miller, a left-handed shooter, displayed his deadly outside shooting touch in the professional ranks, playing for seven full seasons in the ABA. In the 1971-72 season, he averaged 18.4 points per game for the Carolina Cougars, including one game in which he scored an ABA-record 67 points.

Mike
O'KOREN #31

Known for being a solid all-around player, O'Koren currently ranks among school leaders in scoring (11th), rebounding (10th), assists (12th), field goal shooting (10th) and steals (fourth). He won first-team All-America honors in 1978, '79 and '80. A multi-faceted forward, O'Koren led the ACC in field goal percentage as a sophomore (64.3) and ranked second nationally that year. The Jersey City, N.J. native was named first-team All-ACC in 1978 and 1980 and second-team in 1979. A four-year starter, he scored 21 points in the 1977 ACC Tournament finals against Virginia to lead the Tar Heels to victory and he had a career-high 31 points against UNLV in the semi-finals of the 1977 NCAA Final Four as the Tar Heels edged the Running Rebels by a single point. The 1977 and 1979 All-ACC Tournament selection had a sensational game against Duke in 1979 with 17 points, 20 rebounds, seven assists and four steals and he held Blue Devil star Gene Banks scoreless in the second half of that 74-68 UNC victory. O'Koren co-captained the 1979 U.S. Pan American Games team, which captured the gold medal in San Juan, Puerto Rico. He finished his UNC career with averages of 15.1 points per game and 7.0 rebounds per contest. O'Koren played a total of eight seasons in the NBA with the New Jersey Nets and the Washington Bullets.

Sam
PERKINS #41

A 6-9 center/forward with long arms and an uncanny jumper, Perkins is Carolina's all-time leading rebounder and its second-leading scorer. He is one of only four Tar Heels to be a first-team All-America three times, the others being Jack Cobb, Phil Ford and Mike O'Koren. Perkins was also a three-time first-team All-ACC selection from 1982-84 and was ACC Rookie-of-the-Year and MVP of the ACC Tournament in 1981. He started on Tar Heel teams which won three ACC regular-season championships, two ACC Tournament crowns and went to the Final Four in both 1981 and 1982, winning the NCAA title in the latter season. He was named to All-Tournament teams at the 1981 NCAA West Regional, the 1982 NCAA East Regional and the 1982 NCAA Final Four. Twice named first-team All-ACC Tournament, he was MVP at the Stanford Invitational and the ECAC Holiday Festival his senior year. He concluded his Carolina career by averaging 15.9 points per game and 8.6 rebounds an outing. Two of the four Carolina teams he played on finished #1 in the AP and UPI polls. He played with Tar Heel teammate Michael Jordan on the 1983 U.S. Pan American Games team and the 1984 Olympic team, both of which won gold medals. Perkins spent his first six NBA seasons with the Dallas Mavericks before joining former Tar Heel teammate James Worthy with the Los Angeles Lakers two seasons ago. Perkins' addition to the roster was a great spark as the Lakers returned to the NBA Finals in 1991 after losing in the conference semifinals the previous season.

Lennie ROSENBLUTH #10

The Helms Foundation's 1957 National Player-of-the-Year, Rosenbluth set Carolina records for scoring average in a season and a career, with 28.0 and 26.9 points per game respectively, both of which still stand. A member of the 1957 32-0 squad, he led the Tar Heels to the national championship in a triple overtime victory over the Kansas Jayhawks and Wilt Chamberlain. He currently holds nine school records, and his 2,045 career points—third in Carolina history—was tops in the Tar Heel record books for 21 years. Among the other Carolina records still held by Rosenbluth are points in a season, field goals made and attempted in a season and free throws made and attempted in both a season and a career. Rosenbluth was a three-time All-ACC selection and was tabbed ACC Player and ACC Athlete-of-the-Year in 1957. He was twice All-ACC Tournament and he was a member of the All-Tournament team at the Final Four in 1957 and at three Dixie Classics. As a junior, Rosenbluth made several second and third team All-America squads, but he was a consensus first-team pick as a senior, being chosen by AP, UPI, the USBWA, the Helms Foundation, Converse, Collier's Magazine and the NEA. Born in the Bronx in 1933, Rosenbluth chose to attend UNC in large measure because Carolina Head Coach Frank McGuire was also from New York City. After his career as a Tar Heel, he played for a brief time in the NBA before becoming a high school teacher and basketball coach in Florida.

Charlie SCOTT #33

One of the first black scholarship athletes in the South when he came to Carolina in 1966 from his native New York City, Scott helped direct UNC to its second and third straight Final Fours in 1968 and '69. In each of those years, Carolina also won the ACC regular-season and tournament championships. He was a first-team All-America in 1969 and '70 and a three-time All-ACC selection. He also was selected UNC's team MVP his junior and senior years, MVP of the NCAA East Regional in 1969 and co-ACC Athlete-of-the-Year in 1970. Scott is Carolina's fifth-leading career scorer, 19th-leading rebounder and is 14th in assists. For his career at Carolina, he played in 91 games and averaged 22.1 points per game and 7.1 rebounds. In one of Carolina's greatest comebacks ever, Scott scored 40 points in the 1969 ACC Tournament finals against Duke, rallying Carolina from a nine-point halftime deficit to an 11-point victory. For that effort, he was given the Everett Case Award as the tournament's MVP. Just a week later, his long jump shot at the buzzer gave Carolina a heart-stopping 87-85 triumph over Davidson in the championship game of the East Regional as the Tar Heels advanced to their third straight Final Four. In 1970, he led the ACC in scoring with 27.1 points per game and was named to the CoSIDA Academic All-America Team. Scott, who played for the 1968 gold medal-winning U.S. Olympic Team, spent 10 seasons in the professional ranks. He was the ABA Rookie-of-the-Year with the Virginia Squires in 1971 and he won a world championship with the Boston Celtics in 1976.

Kenny
SMITH #30

Known for his exceptional quickness and blazing speed, Smith was named the Basketball Times' National Player-of-the-Year in 1987. That same year, Smith was a consensus All-America and first-team All-ACC choice, leading the Tar Heels in scoring with 16.9 points per game as well as in assists with 209. He had been named second-team All-ACC as a sophomore and a junior. One of only eight freshmen under Coach Dean Smith to start the first game of his career, he had 86 assists in NCAA Tournament play, which at the time was the most in that storied event's history. In 127 games as a collegian, he averaged 12.9 points per game and 6.0 assists per contest while running Carolina's offense to masterful perfection from his point guard spot. Smith led UNC to undefeated ACC marks in both 1984 and 1987 and he poured in a career-high 41 points during that 1987 season in a 108-99 comeback win at Clemson. Smith finished his career as Carolina's all-time assist leader with 768, breaking the record of current Tar Heel assistant coach Phil Ford. Smith's total of 195 steals was a Carolina record at the end of his college career and is still good enough to rank second behind Rick Fox. His game-high 23 points against the Soviet Union in the championship game of the FIBA World Championships propelled the U.S. team to a gold medal-clinching victory in 1986. Smith won the Patterson Medal, the highest athletic award at Carolina, as the top senior athlete on campus in 1987. Smith now plays for the Houston Rockets of the NBA, after playing his first three years with the NBA's Sacramento Kings and Atlanta Hawks.

James # WORTHY #52

As Carolina steamrolled to the national championship in 1982, Worthy led the way scoring 28 points in the decisive 63-62 victory over Georgetown. That season, he was named MVP of the ACC Tournament, the NCAA East Regional and the NCAA Final Four. A first-team All-America choice in both 1981 and '82, including being a consensus selection the latter year, Worthy was named co-National Player-of-the-Year by the Helms Foundation in 1982. A starter from the beginning of his freshman year, he averaged 14.5 points per game and 7.4 rebounds per contest in an 84-game Tar Heel career. Worthy missed the second half of his freshman year with a broken ankle, but he came back to average 14.2 points per game and finish third in the ACC in rebounding as a sophomore. He helped Carolina reach the national championship game that season with his outstanding play as the Tar Heels won the ACC Tournament and NCAA West Regional crowns. That merely set the stage for his magnificent junior year when the Tar Heels won it all. Worthy won the McKevlin Award as the ACC Athlete-of-the-Year in 1982 and was named second-team All-ACC in 1981 and first team in 1982. After consulting with Coach Smith, Worthy passed up his final year of eligibility to become the first player selected in the 1982 NBA draft when he was chosen by the Los Angeles Lakers. He has gone on to become a great player in the NBA, playing on world championship teams with the Lakers in 1985, 1987 and 1988. He was named the Most Valuable Player of the 1988 NBA Finals against Detroit.

Bulldogs' Outlook

After surprising most of the college basketball world with an 18-11 record two years ago, Butler's Bulldogs took another step forward last year with an even more impressive 21-10 ledger. It marked the first time in 18 years that 8utler had compiled back-to-back winning seasons. Now 8utler will attempt to continue its upward climb without the services of former MCC Player of the Year and May 1992 graduate, Darin Archibald. The Bulldogs hope to do so with nine returning lettermen and three returning starters. Leading the way are seniors J.P. Brens, who averaged 9.5 points per game and was the team's leading rebounder last year, and Tim Bowen, who averaged 7.4 points per game and has led the Bulldogs in assists for three straight years. Collier can also look for a lift from a trio of juniors who are all returning starters—Jermaine Guice, John Taylor and Katara Reliford. Guice finished the 1991-92 season as Butler's second leading scorer with an average of 12.4 points per game, while Taylor was the team's second leading rebounder. Reliford averaged 9.2 points and 6.2 rebounds per outing over Butler's last 11 games in 1991-92. This year's 8utler squad will be the first comprised entirely of players recruited by Collier.

Tigers' Outlook

The Clemson Tigers will look for help from their top five returning scorers from the 1991-92 season to improve on last year's 14-14 finish. Center Sharone Wright and forward Devin Gray should be two of the team's shining stars. Wright averaged 12 points and a team-leading 8.1 rebounds per game last season. He also led the ACC in blocked shots per game (2.3) and offensive rebounds per contest (4.3). Gray started 12 games last year and shot .520 from the floor. He averaged 10.9 points per game. Senior guard Chris Whitney should also be a key player this year. Whitney led the team in scoring and assists and ranked among the league leaders in six of the 12 individual statistical categories. While the Tigers begin their season with a stretch of non-conference rivals, they will see nothing but familiar foes during the final stretch. Thirteen of their last 14 games will be against ACC teams.

Big Red Outlook

Coming off of a disappointing and injury-plagued season, the Big Red hopes outstanding player depth at all positions and momentum from last year's strong finish will catapult them to an impressive year. Although the team finished 7-19 last year, the Big Red defeated five of its last eight Ivy League opponents and returns this year with strong new players. The addition of players like 6-10 freshman center Joe Maurer and 7-0 senior center Marshall Werner, who did not play last year, will boost the roster. Plus, the improvement of players such as 6-9 sophomore James Escarzega, 6-8 sophomore Dave Beck and 6-7 junior Justin Treadwell, a returning starter, will give the Big Red a big lineup that was sorely lacking last season. One of the Big Red's strongest areas will be at small forward, where the return of 6-4 junior Zeke Marshall, one of the top players in the Ivy League, will be key. Another key player may be freshman forward Pax Whitehead, the Red's most heralded recruit and an outstanding perimeter shooter.

Blue Devils' Outlook

With back-to-back NCAA championship victories under their belts, the Blue Devils won't be the preseason favorites to repeat, but it's hard to count Duke out when you consider that three starters return to the lineup. Back for the Blue Devils are 1992 All-Americas Bobby Hurley and Grant Hill, plus two-time all-ACC guard Thomas Hill. Add to that group part-time starter Antonio Lang and 6-11 sophomore Cherokee Parks and it is evident that Duke will be a formidable foe this season. Hurley, the 6-0, Jersey City native, has led the Blue Devil attack the past three years with 107 career starts. Last year, he averaged 13.2 points a contest to go with his 237 assists. Thomas Hill was Duke's second leading scorer last year with a 14.6 average. He was also second on the team in steals with 60. Look for an expanding role to be played by Grant Hill. The 6-8 leaper can literally play any position as evidenced by his handling of the point guard role when Hurley was hurt last season. With those three set in the starting lineup, attention turns to Lang and Parks. Both are favorites to complete the lineup card.

Seminoles' Outlook

The Seminoles return oll five starters from last year's team thot debuted in the ACC with an 11-5 league mark. Florida Stote tied with the Duke Blue Devils last year for the best ACC road record at 6-2. Forword Bob Sura was nomed ACC Rookie-of-the-Year after setting o school freshman scoring record with 12.3 points per game ond Pot Kennedy was tabbed os the leogue's cooch-of-the-year. The Seminoles could contend for the ACC championship this year. Sam Cassell ond Doug Edwords return to give the Seminoles one of the most effective one-two scoring punches in college basketball. Cassell led the Tribe in scoring at 18.4 points per game in his first yeor of Division I bosketball in 1991-92. Edwards was second in the ACC in rebounding lost year, averaging 9.0 per gome. Edwords olso averaged 17.1 points per game. Joining Edwords at forward will be two-year storter Rodney Dobard, who averaged 11.0 points and 6.7 rebounds per gome last season.

Rams' Outlook

With no returning starters, Fordham will be fighting on uphill battle to continue its winning ways ot Rose Hill. However, the talent level, albeit inexperienced, appears to be solid. In the backcourt, 6-0 point guard Joy Fazande should continue his rise as one of the top pure point guords in the Eost, but 6-3 senior Dave Buckner must regain his shooting form of two yeors ago. The Rams are looking to 6-1 freshman Rob Baxter as the heir apparent at the point, while 6-3 freshmon Derek Molis and possibly 6-7 sophomore Brett Ayers will play some ot shooting guord. Up front, 6-7 junior Sherwin Content must continue his steady development into a double digit scorer, while 6-8 sophomore forward Seon Hope should emerge as the power forward. Explosive 6-4 sophomore Ryon Hunter will ploy either small forword or off guard and could be one of the Potriot League's best, while 6-11 junior tronsfer Bobby Froin will provide a greot deal of height ond some solid skills in the pivot. Seven-foot sophomore Darren Dechryver and 6-7 sophomore John Henry will help provide the Rams with one of the most othletic lineups in their history.

Yellow Jackets' Outlook

Without the aid of guard Jon Barry and 7-1 center Matt Geiger, the Yellow Jackets will look to three starters from last year's crew to fuel a return to post-season play. Six-eleven senior Malcolm Mackey, Tech's strongest candidate this winter for All-America accolades, is the undisputed star of the returning starters. Mackey, who enters the year just 95 caroms shy of becoming the school's all-time leading rebounder, returns to his power forward position where he was Tech's second leading scorer (15.8), leading rebounder (9.0) and second-leading shot blocker (1.2) a year ago. Mackey will enjoy a talented supporting cast led by sophomores James Forrest and Travis Best. The 6-8 forward Forrest scored the 28-foot buzzer-beater that shocked Southern Cal in last year's NCAA Tournament. Forrest was the only freshman to be ranked among the league's top 10 field goal percentage shooters (.509) and was the leading freshman scorer in the league. Best enjoyed a standout first year as well, averaging 12.3 points and 5.7 assists a game.

Rainbows' Outlook

Hawaii failed to qualify for a post-season berth last year and lost in the quarterfinals of the WAC Tournament. The team looks now to its four returning starters to better last year's performance. At the point, the Rainbows shuffled three guards last season and a fourth, Rodney Washington, will join the fray this fall. Kalia McGee, a 16-game starter, Kurt Taylor, a three-game starter, and Jarinn Akana, a seven-game starter, all return this year. The WAC's leading scorer, Phil Lott, graduated last year, leaving senior Bert Woodard and newcomer Trevor Ruffin to battle it out at shooting guard. Woodard played a key role last season, averaging 8.9 points, and ranked second in the WAC in three-point field goal percentage at .479. The Rainbows are counting on Fabio Ribeiro at small forward to be one of the team's brightest stars. Ribeiro averaged 13.0 points and 4.6 rebounds last season. Tim Shepherd will likely return to the power forward spot. Shepherd averaged 5.7 rebounds last season. And Chris Walz, who started all 28 games last year, will return at center. Walz averaged 10.8 points last season.

Cougars' Outlook

Three starters and faur letter winners are gone from last year's 25-6 NCAA Tournament team that wan a Sauthwest Canference regular season ca-championship. But with the return of Charles Outlaw, who averaged 11.9 paints and 8.2 rebaunds per game last seasan, and a cadre af seniar guards, Houston may still be a farce ta be reckoned with. While Outlaw will give Houston a salid player in the middle, the keys ta Haustan's success in 1992-93 will be senior guards Derrick Smith and David Diaz, alang with sophomare farward Jessie Drain. Smith is a two-year starter, who averaged 7.1 points per game last year. Diaz averaged 6.7 paints per game and started 18 games during the regular seasan last year. Drain scared 3.1 paints per game as a freshman reserve player last year, and Faster is hoping that he will imprave that average dramatically in 1992-93. Houston's other tap returning players from last year are juniar guard Tyrane Evans and juniar center Rafael Carrasca. Evans averaged three paints per game as a backup paint guard. Carrasco served as Outlaw's backup center last year and proved to be a salid defender and rebaunder far the Caugars as the seasan pragressed.

Tigers' Outlook

With the return af faur starters fram last year's team, including premier all-around guard Lindsey Hunter, the future laaks bright far the 1992-93 Tigers. Hunter, a 6-2 senior guard from Jackson's Murrah High, has steadily improved over the last two seasans. Last seasan, Hunter led the team in scaring (24.8) and three-paint shaating (95 of 257) and was secand in assists with 96. Hunter headlines a solid backcaurt graup that is likely ta be the Tigers' strangest unit. Jahn Taylar, Ryan Lorthridge, Terry Harden and David Simmons all return for the Tigers this year. And the return of Godfrey Thampsan, Carrey Ellis, George Wright and Fred McCullum brings experience to the Tigers' frontcourt. Returning starter Thampson shauld provide the primary leadership up frant. The center led the canference in blacked shats (82) last year and was named the canference's defensive player-of-the-year.

After three seasans af averachievement under Gary Williams' tutelage, the University af Maryland this year will put an the flaar ane af the deepest, mast talented teams in recent histary. The Terps will be withaut the services af 1992 All-America Walt Williams and his ACC best 26.8 paints per game. A traika af returning starters—Evers Burns and Chris Kerwin in the frantcaurt and Kevin McLintan in the backcaurt—and a five-deep incaming raakie class will look ta lead Maryland inta the past-seasan. Burns was ane af the mast impraved players in the league last year, averaging 15.9 paints per game. He is the Terps' likely starter at either pawer farward ar center, depending on the cantinued develapment af Kerwin (4.1 paints per game as the starting center last year). McLintan, wha has played bath guard pasitians during his college career, will again be a mainstay samewhere in the backcaurt. He averaged 11.8 paints and 5.3 assists per game at the paint last year. Whether McLintan again assumes the paint guard duties ar maves ta the aff guard will depend an the develapment af the Terps' highly-tauted freshman class.

Wolverines' Outlook

After its incredible run toward a berth in the national championship game in 1992, the Michigan basketball team faces high expectatians in 1992-93. The Wolverines return the top nine scorers from last year's team and all five players wha started in the 1992 NCAA Championship game. Pre-season All-America selection Chris Webber will lead the Wolverine charges fram his power forward spot. Webber was Michigan's second-leading scorer at 15.5 points per game and he became the first freshman to lead the Big Ten Conference in rebounding (10.0 per game). The other starting forward spot will be contested far by sophomore Ray Jackson and senior James Voskuil. The center position will be manned by sophomore Juwan Howard. Howard averaged 13.7 points per game in the NCAA Tournament. The first big man off the bench for the Wolverines will be senior Eric Riley. Riley led the Wolverine regulars in field goal percentage, shooting .590 for the season The talented Wolverine backcourt of sophomores Jimmy King and Jalen Rose also return intact. Rose led the U of M in scoring last season with 17.6 points per contest.

Cornhuskers' Outlook

Nebraska returns five letter winners, including faur starters, for the 1992-93 campaign. The five returnees pravided 58.5 percent of the scaring and 56.9 percent of the rebaunding power a year ago and three af the top five scorers from 1991-92 return. Heading the returnees is junior guard/forward Eric Piatkowski. Piatkowski, who ranked 11th in the Big Eight and led the Huskers in scoring with a 14.3 average a year ago, needs 214 paints ta became the schaal's 16th 1,000-point career scarer. Seniar center Derrick Chandler was Nebraska's second-leading scarer (12.3 ppg) and a top rebaunder (B.2 rpg) as a junior in 1991-92. Chandler was the only Husker to start all 29 games last season. The glue ta the Huskers' 1992-93 attack will be point guard Jamar Johnson, wha led the Cornhuskers in minutes per game (30.7), assists (130) and steals (36). The faurth returning starter is juniar farward Bruce Chubick, who started seven of the last eight games and finished with averages of 7.1 points and 5.7 rebounds per game. Wolfpack Outlook

Returning four starters from last year's squad, N.C. State looks to improve an its 12-18 record af a year ago. Leading the way far the Wolfpack will be seniar center Kevin Thompson, who averaged 15.6 points and 8.2 rebounds per game last seasan. The tallest member of the team, Thampsan could receive some help down law from 6-10 junior Anthany Rabinson, who saw actian in 11 games. Head Coach Les Robinson has to find sameane ta fill the scaring vaid created by the graduation af star forward Tam Gugliatta, who averaged 22.5 points and 9.8 rebaunds a game last year. Sophomare forward Mark Davis should provide some of the scoring punch after pumping in 11.0 points per contest as a freshman. Davis was the third-leading scorer for the Wolfpack and was 57-138 fram behind the three-point line. Curtis Marshall and Donnie Seale will farm a strang backcaurt with bath players averaging over seven points per game last year. The Wolfpack will have goad depth at the guard position, where Rabinson can also call on Migjen Bakalli and Lakista McCuller, two players wha cauld wark their way inta the starting lineup. Befare the Wolfpack heads inta league play, N.C. State plays a non-conference schedule that includes Connecticut, Princeton and Kansas.

Fighting Irish Outlaak

John MacLeod returns for his second year as head coach of a Notre Dame squad that finished 18-15 and reached the finals of the National Invitation Tournament in 1991-92. MacLeod's biggest concern is replacing four starters who graduated from last year's team. Elmer Bennett, LaPhonso Ellis, Daimon Sweet and Keith Tower all departed, leaving the Fighting Irish with only one returning starter, sophomore Billy Taylor. Taylor started 32 games and averaged 6.4 points per game. On the front line, Notre Dame will rely heavily on Jon Ross and Malik Russell. Ross, a 6-9 forward, played in 32 games and scored at a 4.3 clip, while Russell saw action in 30 games. Taylor, Ross and Russell are the only players who averaged in double digits in minutes played a year ago. Brooks Boyer and Lamarr Justice are the likely starters in the backcourt. Boyer played in 33 games while Justice appeared in 17 contests. Notre Dame's schedule is very tough once again as the Fighting Irish are set to take on Michigan and Duke, the NCAA finalists, along with Indiana, Kentucky and North Carolina

Buckeyes' Outlook

Ohio State returns only one starter from a 1991-92 team that reached the Final Eight of the NCAA Tournament. Head Coach Randy Ayers will have to compensate for the losses of All-America Jimmy Jackson, Chris Jent, Mark Baker and Jamaal Brown. Jackson, Baker and Jent all averaged in double figures in scoring a year ago. The only other player who hit double figures is Lawrence Funderburke, who is the Buckeyes' only returning starter. Funderburke had a 12.2 scoring average and pulled down 6.2 boards per game. Jamie Skelton, a 6-2 junior guard, played in 29 games and chipped in 4.5 points per game. No other returnees averaged double digits in minutes played. The Buckeyes are hoping that one of four players will step up to contribute in a big way. Alex Davis, Tom Brandewie and Rickey Dudley all played in more than 26 games. Jimmy Ratliff saw action 14 times. In addition to the always challenging Big Ten Conference schedule, Ohio State has early games against Southern California and North Carolina.

Monarchs' Outlook

Old Dominion has a strong nucleus of three returning starters from a team that won the Colonial Athletic Association Conference Tournament in 1991-92. The top returnee is 6-5 senior forward/guard Keith Jackson, who averaged 11.8 points per game and was the team's second-leading scorer. Running the offense from the point guard spot will be senior Donald Anderson, who dished out 4.4 assists each game. Sophomore forward Petey Sessoms will be a force inside, where he had 9.0 points and 5.3 rebounds per game last season. Besides these three players, the Monarchs do not have many players with quality experience returning. David Harvey, Kevin Larkin, Allon Wright and Mike Jones will all look to contribute. Out of those four players, only Larkin and Wright started any games last year. The Monarchs' schedule includes basketball powers such as North Carolina and Virginia as well as Alabama and Auburn.

Princeton will try to top last year's strang performance, when the Tigers reached the NCAA Tournament and finished with a 22-6 recard. Head coach Pete Carril returns for his 26th season at Princeton, where he has a 443-225 record. If the Tigers manage to stay in the Ivy title hunt, they have the opportunity to become the first Ivy League team to claim five straight titles since Pennsylvania reeled off six in a row between 1970 and 1975. Princeton will have nine of 14 letter winners back, but only two starters return. Junior forward Chris Mooney has started 55 straight games for the Tigers and was the second-leading scorer (10.4 ppg.) and rebounder (3.9 rpg.) a year ago. Sophomore center Rick Hielscher also is back after an impressive rookie campaign in which he averaged 10.3 ppg. and 5.1 rpg. He established a Princeton single-season record for blocked shots (47) and led the squad in assists with 68. Junior guard Mike Brennan, who will captain the team along with Mooney, is the only other returner with starting experience. He started six times in 50 games during the past two seasons.

Pirates' Outlook

Once again, there is plenty of optimism surrounding the Seton Hall University basketball team as it looks forward to the 1992-93 campaign. The Pirates return a host of key veterans, including four starters from last year's team, which went 23-9, shared the Big East Conference regular season title and advanced to the NCAA East Regional semifinals. In addition, Head Coach P.J. Carlesimo welcomes three highly-regarded freshman recruits to the Seton Hall program, while losing just one player. A number of those returnees were also important members of the 1990-91 squad that compiled a 25-9 mark, won the Big East Tournament championship and advanced to the NCAA Final Eight. Carlesimo will look to four returning seniors, headed by a pair of All-America candidates, guard Terry Dehere and forward Jerry Walker. Dehere averaged 19.4 points per game and Walker scored at a 13.7 clip. They will be joined by two more seniors, guard Daryl Crist and forward Darrell Mims. Junior Arturas Karnishovas will start at one of the forward spots with Walker while Bryan Caver will team up with Dehere in the backcourt. Caver dished out 4.3 assists per contest while Karnishovas snagged four rebounds per outing. Freshmen Craig Duerksen, Adrian Griffin and Tchaka Shipp add excellent young talent to the Pirate team.

Gamecocks' Outlook

South Carolina faces something new for the second year in a row in 1992-93. Last season, everything was new for the Gamecocks, including first-year head coach Steve Newton and participation in the Southeastern Conference. Gone are six seniors and a reserve from last season's 11-17 team and coming to Columbia are eight newcomers—over half of the Gamecocks' roster. But with the newcomers comes a new attitude and the possibility of a more up-tempo South Carolina squad in 1992-93. The only returning letterman in the backcourt is junior Jamie Watson, who was the USC starter at the small forward spot a year ago. After Watson, the guard position is up for grabs among three players who are new—sophomore transfer Carey Rich, who averaged 13.0 points and 5.6 assists for Western Carolina, and junior college transfers Waide Franklin and Terry Bynum, who bring good outside shooting touches to the squad. Chris Leso (6-8, 240) will start at either forward or center. Leso shot 57 percent from the floor last year for a 6.8 scoring average to go with his 5.3 rebounds per game. On the frontline with Leso will be Troy McKoy, who scored 7.4 points and pulled down 4.1 rebounds per game as the Gamecocks' sixth man.

Ragin' Cajuns' Outlook

Head Coach Marty Fletcher's Southwestern Louisiana squad returns three starters from last year's squad that reached the second round of the NCAA Tournament with a 21-11 record. Putting points on the scoreboard should not be a problem for the 1992-93 squad that has its top four scorers returning from last year. Leading the way is forward Todd Hill, who was the leading scorer last season with a 14.1 average. Behind Hill are guards Byron Starks and Michael Allen, who both had 11.8 points per game averages, and Tony Moore, who scored at an 11.0 clip. The Ragin' Cajuns must find someone to replace the lost inside presence of leading rebounder Marcus Stokes, who had 11.6 boards per game. The leading candidates are the 6-9 Hill and 6-8 Carroll Boudreaux, who was second in rebounding with 5.6 boards per game. The Ragin' Cajuns have good experience with six of the returning nine players having appeared in at least 30 games last season.

Longhorns' Outlook

Last season, Texas Head Coach Tom Penders took a team that consisted of 11 freshmen and sophomores and, despite missing his top scorer for 16 games, managed to mold it into a Southwest Conference co-champion and NCAA Tournament calibre team by March. In 1993, Penders must turn the same trick to send Texas to its fifth consecutive NCAA Tournament. The strength of the Runnin' Horns will be the backcourt of Terrence Rencher and B.J. Tyler, who comprise one of the youngest, most explosive twosomes in the country. In 1992, the duo combined for 1,288 points, making it the third-most productive scoring tandem in Texas history. In the 6-1 Tyler, (18.3 ppg., 6.5 apg.), Texas has one of the top point guards in the country. The 6-3 Rencher (19.1 ppg.) fashioned one of the best freshman seasons in the country on his way to earning consensus first-team all-Southwest Conference and SWC Freshman-of-the-Year honors. Forward/center Albert Burditt needs 30 blocked shots to set a new school record.

Covoliers' Outlook

Building on the momentum gained after winning the National Invitation Tournament, Virginia looks to improve on last year's 20-13 record. The first order of business for Head Coach Jeff Jones is trying to replace the scoring of departed Bryant Stith, who averaged 20.7 points per game last season. The Cavaliers return two talented young players, sophomore guard Cory Alexander and sophomore forward Junior Burrough. In their freshman year, Burrough and Alexander were second and third in scoring with Burrough at 13.2 ppg. and Alexander at 11.2 ppg. Banging inside will be 6-9 senior center Ted Jeffries, who pulled down 7.1 rebounds per contest. Other key returnees include Cornel Parker, Doug Smith and Yuri Barnes. Parker scored just over five points per outing in 1991-92. Virginia will take on the likes of Stanford and Alabama before heading into conference play.

Hokies' Outlook

The vendors who yell, "You can't tell the players without a program," will be stating the absolute truth at Virginia Tech basketball games this season. There will be a parade of new faces in the Hokies' camp as eight freshmen join the cast. Bill Foster, one of college basketball's top winners, begins the second year of his rebuilding program with a team that will have only six holdover players. Three of the veterans were starters last season—6-8 forward Thomas Elliot, the leading scorer with a 12.0 average, and guards Jay Purcell, who averaged 9.8 points per game and 4.0 rebounds per game, and Steve Hall, who had 9.5 points and 2.6 rebounds per game. The other three returnees are 6-10 center Jimmy Carruth, a shot blocker deluxe, 6-7 swingman Corey Jackson and 6-3 guard Donald Corker. Tech finished with a 10-18 record last season, but scored some major victories along the way. The Hokies stunned 14th-ranked Tulane in Cassell Coliseum, 89-73, and beat another nationally-ranked team, UNC-Charlotte, 73-65. The Hokies lost two starters, forward John Rivers, who led the rebounding wars with an average of 8.1 rebounds and scored at a 10.6 clip, and center Erik Wilson, who averaged 11.0 points.

Demon Deacons' Outlook

With the loss of four starters who contributed nearly 50 percent of Wake Forest points and rebounds in 1992, the upcoming season could well be termed a rebuilding project for Head Coach Dave Odom and his staff, who have guided the Demon Deacons into NCAA competition the past two years. The elements that remain for Odom to undertake that reconstruction, however, are potent enough that Wake Forest could be celebrating a third consecutive winning season and a third straight post-season bid. The primary leader for the Deacons this season will be All-America candidate Rodney Rogers, who in two years has established himself as one of the outstanding college players in the country. He was the only player last season to rank among the top seven in the ACC in the three major categories of scoring (sixth at 20.5), rebounding (fifth at 8.5) and field goal percentage (second at .614). Another proven performer of whom much is expected is forward Trelonnie Owens. The second-most experienced Deacon behind Rogers in terms of actual playing time, Owens played in all 30 contests as a freshman and in 22 games last season, averaging 23 minutes per outing.

Bobby Lewis, one of the Tar Heel greats from the mid-1960s, holds the school record for points in a game with 49 against a team which is now the newest member of the Atlantic Coast Conference, Florida State University. Lewis' 49-point outburst came in only the third game ever played in Carmichael Auditorium on December 16, 1965. Lewis is shown here in a pre-season publicity photo taken that fall in the newly finished Carmichael.

THE SOUTHERN PART OF HEAVEN

CHANCELLOR PAUL HARDIN

The son of a Methodist minister by birth and a lawyer by training, Paul Hardin, III found his life's calling in education. After 24 years as a college and university president, he stands out as one of America's foremost leaders in higher education. A North Carolina native, Hardin is the seventh chancellor of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

Hardin came to Carolina in July 1988 after 13 years as president of Drew University in Madison, N.J. He was president of Southern Methodist University in Dallas, Texas, from 1972 to 1974 and president of Wofford College in Spartanburg, S.C., from 1968 to 1972. Except for brief periods of military service and law practice, he has been associated with college campuses continuously since entering Duke University at age 17.

Chancellor Paul Hardin

In presenting Hardin one of his seven honorary degrees, Rider College called him "one of the finest college executives in these waning days of the 20th century." The New Jersey school cited the Carolina leader's ability to generate "informed and sustained progress" at all of the institutions he has headed.

Hardin's personal goal is simple to state, harder to execute: to provide the leadership that keeps Carolina among the nation's finest public research universities in the 21st century.

Under Hardin, the Chapel Hill campus played a key role in persuading the 1991 North Carolina General Assembly to give more flexibility to campuses to manage budgets and people.

Meanwhile, Hardin was strengthening the University's own internal planning and budgeting processes. For an entire year, beginning in April 1990, the chancellor directed an intense review of the University's most critical long-range goals and how they could be reached. He headed a panel of faculty, students and administrators that reviewed the proposals in June 1991. The resulting report, completed in May 1992, will guide the University's planning during its third century.

Hardin leads the University's efforts to establish and maintain strong relationships with outside individuals, groups and organizations. He devotes a major portion of his time to helping the University raise private funds to ensure future excellence through the Bicentennial Campaign for Carolina. The campaign, with a goal of $320 million, is the largest in the University's history.

Further hallmarks of Hardin's tenure are efforts to improve undergraduate and graduate teaching, boost the faculty's ability to conduct research and nurture outreach programs that make daily contributions to the lives of North Carolinians.

Students, faculty and staff have noticed another of the chancellor's major interests: celebrating diversity on campus. Hardin frequently speaks out publicly about the importance of diversity and has put money behind his words, committing at least $100,000 in post-season sports revenue to carry out the recommendations of a panel that he commissioned to study community and diversity on campus.

Changing public education in the United States is high on the chancellor's national agenda. In 1991, Hardin joined a list of founding trustees of Educate America, a new organization based in Morristown, N.J., chaired by Thomas Kean, former governor of New Jersey.

The nonprofit, nonpartisan organization consults with state governments and education agencies on how to strengthen primary and secondary education in the United States.

Hardin also works to improve education at all levels as one of 25 national leaders in business, education and government who serve on the Board of Trustees of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching.

Named one of the nation's 100 most effective university presidents in a 1986 study, Hardin has been a co-chairman of the Japan-U.S. Conference of University Presidents as well as a member of the Board of Higher Education in New Jersey and of the Board of Directors of the National Association of Independent Colleges and Universities.

Hardin twice served as president of the National Association of Schools and Colleges of the United Methodist Church and chaired the National Commission on United Methodist Higher Education.

The study of law has guided Hardin's entire professional career. After graduating with Phi Beta Kappa honors from Duke in 1952, Hardin entered the Duke law school. He edited the law review and graduated first in his class. After two years in the U.S. Army, Hardin practiced law in Alabama before returning to Duke in 1958 to teach on the law school's faculty for a decade. He holds the rank of professor of law at Carolina.

Hardin's personal goal is simple to state, harder to execute: to provide the leadership that keeps Carolina among the nation's finest public research universities in the 21st century.

In 1991, Hardin received the Duke Law Alumni Association's Charles S. Murphy Award for his lifelong dedication to public service through his commitment to education—by teaching law and serving in academic administration—and his leadership to civic and professional organizations.

Hardin has published numerous articles on legal topics and is co-author of two books, Cases and Materials on the Administration of Criminal Justice and Evidence: Cases and Materials. His other writings have focused on civil and criminal trial procedures in Scotland, executive privilege in the federal courts and college campus unrest.

Hardin has practiced the community service he advocates as a past chairman of the Board of Directors of MCNC, formerly the Microelectronics Center of North Carolina in Research Triangle Park. He serves as vice president of the Public Private Partnership and belongs to the Chapel Hill Rotary Club and the University United Methodist Church.

Born in Charlotte, Hardin calls several places in North Carolina home as he grew up as the child of a Methodist minister. During his youth, Hardin lived in Asheboro, Concord, High Point, Shelby, Wadesboro and Waynesville.

Hardin and his wife, Barbara, have three children: Paul Russell Hardin of Atlanta, Sandra Mikush of Winston-Salem and Dorothy Holmes of Birmingham, Mich. His father, Bishop Paul Hardin, Jr., lives in Asheville, and his mother was the late Dorothy Reel Hardin.

THE UNIVERSITY OF NORTH CAROLINA

The University of North Carolina is one of the nation's leading teaching and research universities and the flagship institution of the 16-campus University of North Carolina system.

The University has earned that reputation through its continuing commitment to vital teaching, cutting-edge research and distinguished public service.

The University was created by a provision of the state constitution, adopted on December 18, 1776. Guided by Revolutionary War General William Richardson Davie of Halifax, the North Carolina General Assembly voted to charter the University in 1789. Four years later, on October 12, 1793, Davie laid the cornerstone for Old East, the first building on campus. With only one building and two professors, the University became the first state university in the nation to open its doors to students on January 15, 1795 with the first enrollee Hinton James arriving from Wilmington, N.C. on February 12, 1795. Chapel Hill was also the only public institution in the United States to award degrees in the 18th century.

Today, Carolina is among the most comprehensive institutions in the nation and belongs to the select group of 59 major universities that form the American Association of Universities. The University's 14 colleges and schools provide instruction in more than 100 fields, offering 66 bachelor's, 90 master's and 62 doctoral degrees, as well as professional degrees in dentistry, medicine, pharmacy and law. Carolina is one of the few national universities with five health schools on the same campus as academic affairs schools and departments.

A new study has documented the University's vast economic impact on North Carolina. For every state dollar invested in the University, it returned $3 to the state economy, the study found. In fiscal 1991, the state paid $257.2 million to the University, while Carolina returned at least $766.9 million in new sales in the private sector. The University also generated $236 million in earnings for North Carolina workers and their families and created jobs for more than 12,600 people—all in addition to Carolina's $347 million payroll and 9,536 employees.

The Old Well is the most recognizable landmark on the Carolina campus, which will celebrate its 200th anniversary during calendar year 1993. (Photo by Will Owens)

A Carolina education is highly valued. Carolina is consistently ranked as one of the nation's very best major public institutions. In recent years, especially, the University has received much public praise for the quality of its undergraduate and graduate programs, its faculty, its research and its public service programs.

In 1991, for example, U.S. News and World Report ranked Carolina fifth overall among public institutions and 25th among all national universities. The magazine's 1992 survey of graduate programs ranked Carolina's sociology program fifth in the nation, its history program 13th, its political science program 14th and the Kenan-Flagler Business School 17th. The same poll placed the School of Medicine's rural medicine program third, its community medicine program second and the school itself fourth among "up-and-comers" for promising curriculum innovations. UNC made strong showings—particularly among public institutions—in other U.S. News rankings in 1985, 1987, 1988, 1989 and 1990.

According to the 1989 book, The Insider's Guide to the Top 25 Colleges, Carolina is the top public institution in the nation, ahead of the University of Virginia and the University of California at Berkeley. Overall, the book placed UNC 12th in the nation. Also in 1989, the University was second in Sports Travel magazine's list of the Top 10 athletic-academic programs in the nation.

A variety of national publications are calling the University one of the top high-quality, low-cost schools in the nation. U.S. News and World Report named Carolina America's "best buy" among national universities in 1991. A similar 1992 Money magazine poll picked UNC as America's ninth best educational bargain and America's top value among public universities based on in-state tuition rates. In 1986, Richard Moll, author of The Public Ivys: A Guide to America's Best Colleges and Universities, ranked UNC as one of eight public institutions equal to the richly-endowed Ivy League schools. He also judged Chapel Hill to be "the perfect college town." Sports Illustrated magazine correspondents echoed that sentiment in a 1992 survey, calling Chapel Hill "the nation's best college town."

Each fall, the beautiful 720-acre Chapel Hill campus attracts more than 23,000 students from all North Carolina counties, the 50 states and more than 80 foreign countries. In 1990-91, 5,704 students earned Chapel Hill degrees. Many of those students win major honors for their academic performances. In 1991, William Ball of Atlanta became the eighth Carolina student chosen as a Rhodes Scholar since 1980. Thirty-one winners of that honor have come from the Chapel Hill campus since 1902. UNC has produced the third highest number of Rhodes Scholars among U.S. public universities and ranks 12th among all colleges and universities.

Carolina's students study under a full-time faculty of 2,100. Carolina scholars continue to receive international and national recognition. They attract top-notch undergraduate and graduate students, win research grants and contracts and contribute to the University's reputation. Carolina faculty are leaders in American higher education. They either hold or have held major positions in virtually every national scholarly or professional association. The most recent comprehensive evaluation published by the National Academy Press rated the UNC faculty tops in the Southeast and one of the best in the nation.

The University is also internationally recognized for its cutting-edge research, some of which occurs at the 36 interdisciplinary centers and institutes on campus. Carolina received $173 million in research awards in 1990-91, ranking among the Top 25 U.S. schools in that area. Current projects include pioneering work in virtual worlds research, which uses sophisticated computer technology to create realistic but imaginary worlds. Applications may help doctors fight cancer and biochemists design new drugs. Using gene-targeting techniques, researchers at the Cystic Fibrosis Center created the first animal model for the nation's leading potentially fatal genetic illness.

Public service also has a long and distinguished history in Chapel Hill. The University invests a larger proportion of its budget in direct service to the state than any of the other leading public research institutions. Best-known examples include the Institute of Government, the Area Health Education Centers, the public clinics of the health schools and the growing contribution of the continuing education programs to North Carolina's social and professional development. UNC's efforts target North Carolina needs. For example, the School of Education established its Center for Education Leadership to coordinate and improve research, training, technical assistance and public service to Tar Heel public schools.

The University has trained many of the state's leaders, including nearly half of its governors as well as national leaders in all walks of life. Alumni include a U.S. president—James Knox Polk—as well as author Thomas Wolfe, television journalist Charles Kuralt, the late United States Senator Sam Ervin, Jr., pollster Lou Harris, West Virginia Governor Gaston Caperton, actors Andy Griffith and Louise Fletcher, cartoonist Jeff MacNelly, basketball superstar Michael Jordan, U.S. Senators Paul Wellstone from Minnesota and Terry Sanford from North Carolina, civil rights leader and new North Carolina Central University chancellor Julius Chambers and fashion designer Alexander Julian. The University's more than 188,000 living alumni reside in all 50 states and 125 foreign countries. Over half live in North Carolina.

Now in the midst of its Bicentennial season, the University is preparing for the future and recognizing the birth of public higher education in America.

The Bicentennial Campaign for Carolina, kicked off publicly in October 1991, is the largest fund-raising effort in the University's history. It will provide new resources to strengthen Carolina's ability to teach, to learn and to serve. Campaign priorities include support for students, faculty, undergraduate programs, the libraries, campus life and facilities. The campaign, which has a $320 million goal, will conclude in 1995.

A separate Bicentennial Observance will commemorate the University's 200th anniversary and examine its history and traditions, its present position as a leading national university and its future role in higher education and the state. Plans for the eight-month Observance, scheduled from October 12, 1793 until May 8, 1994, include a variety of public events. The observance is designed to underscore the historic relationship between the University and the state and strengthen those bonds.

Both the campaign and the observance offer occasions to honor Carolina's rich history and great traditions. However, the University also will use its past to form a vision of a better future, one that will serve the state, nation and world with excellence and distinction for a third century and beyond.

The university campus, once called "The Noble Grove," is among the most beautiful in the nation. About 200 permanent buildings include the nation's two oldest state university buildings, Old East and Person Hall. Old East, still used as a dormitory, and Playmakers Theatre, an 1852 Greek-revival building, are registered as National Historic Landmarks by the U.S. Department of the Interior. In the 1980s, two of the largest public buildings in the state—the Walter Royal Davis Library and the Dean E. Smith Center—opened. Other recently completed buildings on the UNC campus include the Morehead Chemistry Teaching Laboratory, the Sitterson Computer Science Building, the Kenan Center, Public Health and Environmental Sciences Center and the Friday Continuing Education and Conference Center.

- World-famous illustrator William Meade Prince took the title of his 1950 autobiography, The Southern Part of Heaven, from the words a UNC professor spoke to a dying friend: "Dr. Kluttz, I believe heaven must be a lot like Chapel Hill in the spring."
- The Washington Post writes about UNC: "Public education is a creed and a passion in North Carolina. The people of the state make it a point of pride not only to run a university that is manifestly one of the finest in the country, but to keep its doors open to students who haven't much money."
- According to Terry Sanford, United States Senator from North Carolina, former Duke University president and UNC alumnus (AB '41, LLB/DJ '46, LLD/H '61), "The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill is the oldest and greatest state university in the nation."
- Major League Baseball Commissioner Peter Ueberroth said in his 1987 Commencement address: "The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill is a flagship university, not just of this region, but of all education in America."
- "The thing that has been most beneficial to me is the fact that I was a student at the University of North Carolina," according to one of the university's most distinguished alumni, Zebulon "Zeb" Baird Vance, a member of Congress, Confederate colonel, three-term North Carolina governor and a United States senator.

UNC TRIVIA

- In the mid-1980s, the National Academy of Sciences ranked the UNC faculty first in the southeastern United States. In a study of doctoral programs, the academy ranked seven UNC programs first in the Southeast, two ranked or tied for second and three ranked or tied for third. It also ranked the Department of Sociology the fourth best in the nation. Nine faculty members were fellows of the National Academy of Sciences in 1991.
- In June 1877, UNC opened the first summer school operated on a college or university campus in the United States.
- In 1988 and 1990, Business Week polls, UNC's Kenan-Flagler Business School received an "A" for teaching and curriculum. Only two other schools in the Top 20 received similar ratings.
- The University of North Carolina Press, founded in 1922 by Dr. Louis Round Wilson, is the oldest university press in the South.
- Dr. Kenneth Brinkhous, professor emeritus of pathology at the UNC School of Medicine, has the longest running continuous project currently funded by the National Institutes of Health, a study of blood coagulation and hemophilia.
- Dr. Joseph Caldwell, the first UNC president, completed the first astronomical observatory on an American university campus in 1932.
- UNC's Ackland Art Museum, which opened in 1958, houses more than 11,000 works of art, including pieces by Rubens, Delacroix, Courbet, Rodin, Degas, Arp, other world masters and North Carolina folk artists.
- From 1960 to 1975, all U.S. astronauts studied celestial navigation at UNC's Morehead Planetarium. The planetarium's 35-foot diameter, walk-in Copernican Orrery in the Morehead Building is one of two in the world.
- The UNC Herbarium, begun in 1903, contains more than 600,000 specimens of ferns, mosses, flowering plants, lichens, algae and other plants.
- On March 27, 1893, UNC professor Francis P. Venable and student William Rand Kenan, Jr. demonstrated the industrial applications of calcium carbide, the source of acetylene.
- The UNC Library—both academic and health sciences—holds more than 3.7 million volumes.
- In 1883, UNC awarded the first doctoral degree in the South.
- The nine-unit North Carolina Area Health Education Centers Program, founded by UNC in 1972, has become a national model.
- UNC graduate Karen L. Stephenson (Class of '79) was the first black woman in the United States to win a Rhodes Scholarship.

CAROLINA ATHLETIC TRADITIONS

Why Tar Heels?

University of North Carolina athletic teams are known as the Tar Heels because North Carolina is "The Tar Heel State."

There are a number of different stories about how the nickname was originally acquired. The two most widely accepted explanations are repeated here. The fact that the production of tar, pitch and turpentine was for many years the state's principal industry is a key element in both stories.

One legend has the nickname being applied to the state's residents as long ago as the Revolutionary War. According to this story, the troops of British General Charles Cornwallis were fording what is now known as the Tar River between Rocky Mount and Battleboro when they discovered that tar had been dumped into the stream to impede their crossing. When they finally got across the river they found their feet completely black with tar. Their observation that anyone who waded North Carolina rivers would acquire tar heels led to the nickname first being used.

Others say the nickname was acquired during the Civil War. During one of that war's fiercest battles, a column supporting North Carolina troops was driven from the field. After the battle, the North Carolinians, who had successfully fought it out alone, happened to meet the regiment which had fled to safety and were greeted with the question, "Any more tar down in the Old North State, boys?"

"No, not a bit," shot back one of the North Carolina soldiers. "Old Jeff's bought it all up," he went on, referring to Jefferson Davis, President of the Confederacy.

"Is that so? What's he going to do with it?"

"He's going to put it on you'ns heels to make you stick better in the next fight."

Upon hearing of the incident, General Robert E. Lee smiled and said to a fellow officer, "God bless the Tar Heel boys."

A Ram for a Mascot

For over 60 years, the mascot of North Carolina's athletic teams has been a ram. Although he only formally appears at Carolina football games, the sideline star for the Tar Heels is named Rameses.

Since Carolina's nickname is the Tar Heels, it might seem strange to have a ram as a mascot. It is. But, there is a good explanation. It was offered by the late Vic Huggins, Carolina's head cheerleader back in 1924.

"In 1924, school spirit was at a peak," Huggins once explained. "But something seemed to be missing. One day it hit me. Georgia had a bulldog for a mascot and State a wolf. What Carolina needed was a symbol."

Two years earlier, the Tar Heels had posted a brilliant 9-1 record. The star of that 1922 team was a bruising fullback named Jack Merritt. Merritt was nicknamed "the battering ram" for the way he plunged into lines. It seemed natural to Huggins to link a mascot with Merritt's unusual sobriquet.

"Charlie Woollen, the athletic business manager at that time, agreed with the idea and gave us $25 to purchase a fitting mascot," said Huggins.

Rameses I was shipped in from Texas, arriving just in time to be introduced at a pep rally before the VMI game. Complete with a monogram blanket on his back, Rameses helped make the pep rally one of the school's greatest.

Then the ram was taken to Emerson Field where Carolina was an underdog to a strong VMI team. But, for three quarters the Tar Heels battled the visitors to a scoreless tie.

Late in the fourth period, Carolina's Bunn Hackney was called upon to attempt a field goal. Before taking the field, he stopped to rub Rameses' head for good luck.

Seconds later, Hackney's 30-yard drop kick sailed between the goal posts, giving the Tar Heels a 3-0 victory and a legendary mascot.

From that November afternoon in 1924, the deeds and experiences of Rameses I and his successors have been the basis for countless anecdotes.

For instance, there was Rameses I making his first indoor appearance. Huggins was again the originator of the idea, the Tin Can was the scene and a basketball game was the event.

A theatrical debut with bright lights and a chorus was planned for the ram's introduction before a capacity audience. But when Rameses was led to midcourt at halftime, it became evident that he was not housebroken. In addition to being his first, that was also Rameses' last basketball game.

Tar Heel rams have traveled everywhere from New York City (for the Carolina-Notre Dame game in 1949) to Jacksonville for Carolina's Gator Bowl appearances.

Generally, the highlight of each season for Rameses is trying to outwit Duke students who always try to ram-nap him before the traditional big game with the Blue Devils.

School Colors: Carolina Blue and White

The adoption of light blue and white as University of North Carolina's colors dates back to the 19th century.

When the University reopened following the Civil War, most social activities were directed by two literary societies, the Dialectic and Philanthropic. The official color of the Di was light blue and that of the Phi white. Since society membership was compulsory for all students, the opinions and activities of these organizations were by nature of the circumstances all embracing. It was the custom for all men from localities west of Chapel Hill to affiliate with the Di and generally for students from the east to become members of the Phi.

The accomplishments of Tar Heel athletes have made the color synonymous with the University so it now simply bears its name.

On public occasions such as commencement exercises, the student officers, marshals and ball managers were chosen equally from the membership of the two societies. It had long been the custom of each society for its members to wear its color on such occasions. However, the chief marshal and chief ball manager, one from the Di and the other from the Phi, wore combination light blue and white regalias and rosettes signifying that they represented the whole student body and not just one of the societies.

Later, when intercollegiate athletics were established and students began accompanying teams to other colleges or cities, the question of what to wear became a problem. Certainly, the students wanted to be associated with the University, but the school had no official colors. So it seemed only natural for the fans to adorn themselves with the same combination as that used by the chief marshals and ball managers, colors which represented not membership in a society, but a University student body.

The light blue worn by Tar Heel students today has many different names. It is called simply light blue, powder blue, sky blue or Columbia Blue among other things. Generally, however, it is just referred to as Carolina Blue. The accomplishments of Tar Heel athletes have made the color synonymous with the University so it now simply bears its name.

OVERALL ATHLETIC REVIEW

The 1991-92 school year at the University of North Carolina was one filled with great accomplishment and outstanding progress in the Department of Athletics.

Competitively, the year was highlighted by North Carolina teams winning nine Atlantic Coast Conference championships and one NCAA championship.

The nine ACC titles gave UNC 38 in the past five years, by far the most ever won by a conference school in a five-year period since the league's founding in 1953. The nine conference championships in 1991-92 established an ACC record for the most league titles won by a conference school in a single school year. The nine titles broke Carolina's own record of eight won in the 1989-90 school year. ACC titles were won during the past school year by Carolina's field hockey, women's soccer, wrestling, women's swimming and diving, women's outdoor track and field, men's outdoor track and field, women's golf, men's tennis and lacrosse teams.

On the national level, UNC had a staggering 18 of its 26 teams finish in the Top 25 in the nation in their respective sports. The 18 Top 25 finishes by UNC teams in 1991-92 is the highwater mark in school history. The previous best mark in this category was 15 in 1990-91.

This group of outstanding national finishes was highlighted by the NCAA championship won by the women's soccer team. The NCAA championship in women's soccer was the ninth NCAA title and 10th national championship overall in the sport for Carolina. UNC won the AIAW title in 1981 and has won NCAA crowns in 1982, 1983, 1984, 1986, 1987, 1988, 1989, 1990 and 1991.

Besides the #1 finish in women's soccer, other Carolina squads which finished in the Top 25 in 1991-92 were field hockey, runnerup in the NCAA Tournament; lacrosse, second in the final U.S. Intercollegiate Lacrosse Association poll; men's indoor track and field, seventh at the NCAA Championships; men's tennis, eighth in the final Intercollegiate Tennis Coaches Association poll; women's golf, eighth at the NCAA Championships; men's basketball, 12th in the final USA Today/CNN coaches poll; women's outdoor track and field, 12th at the NCAA Championships; men's soccer, 14th in the final Soccer America poll; women's swimming and diving, 14th at the NCAA Championships; men's swimming and diving, 18th at the NCAA Championships; wrestling, 18th in the NCAA Championships; men's and women's fencing, both 20th at the NCAA Championships; men's cross country, 22nd at the NCAA Championships; men's golf, 23rd at the NCAA Championships; men's outdoor track and field, 24th at the NCAA Championships; and women's tennis, 25th in the final Intercollegiate Tennis Coaches Association poll.

Five Carolina athletes won ACC Player/Performer-of-the-Year honors in their respective sports: Kristine Lilly in women's soccer, Alex Martin in lacrosse, Melissa Douse in women's swimming and diving, Bryan Jones in men's tennis and Cinda Gurney in women's tennis.

Six more Tar Heel student-athletes were named Most Valuable Players or Performers at Atlantic Coast Conference post-season championship events. Tisha Venturini was the Most Valuable Player at the ACC Women's Soccer Tournament; Reggie Harris was the Most Valuable Performer at the ACC Men's Indoor Track and Field Championships; John Webster was the Most Valuable Player of the ACC Lacrosse Tournament; Melissa Douse was the Most Valuable Swimmer and Heather Cleevely the Most Valuable Diver at the ACC Women's Swimming and Diving Championships; and Bryan Jones was the Most Valuable Player of the ACC Men's Tennis Tournament.

Kristine Lilly was the consensus national player-of-the-year as the Tar Heel women's soccer team won the NCAA championship for the sixth successive year.

Five UNC coaches were named ACC Coaches-of-the-Year in their respective sports: Anson Dorrance in women's soccer, Dennis Craddock in women's outdoor track and field, Frank Comfort in women's swimming and diving, Bill Lam in wrestling and Allen Morris in men's tennis.

Kudos also went to women's soccer player Kristine Lilly who was named National Player-of-the-Year by the Missouri Athletic Club, the Intercollegiate Soccer Association of America/adidas and Honda as well as recipient of the prestigious Hermann Trophy.

ACADEMICS

• A total of 175 Carolina student-athletes were named to the 1991-92 Atlantic Coast Conference Honor Roll, which placed second in the league.

• Carolina student-athletes set a new high for Dean's List recognition with 67 included for the fall 1991 semester and 79 for the spring of 1992.

• For freshmen entering Carolina in 1985, the graduation rates were 74% for student-athletes and 80% for the overall student body. However, the graduation rate for those student-athletes who exhausted their eligibility was 93%.

• In April of 1992, Carolina earned honorable mention status from the College Football Association (CFA) for the graduation rate of its football players. It marked the fourth straight year in which Carolina has been honored and the fifth in the last six years.

• Three UNC football players—Clint Gwaltney, Dwight Hollier and Brian Bollinger—were named to the 1991 Academic All-ACC Team. Football player Johnathan Robertson was awarded the prestigious Truman Scholarship.

• Five Tar Heel student-athletes were inducted into Phi Beta Kappa last year—Gigi Neely (women's tennis), Paula Cobb (volleyball), Maurice Drayton (football), Ransom Langford (men's fencing) and Ryan Schwanke (men's swimming). Neely also won the ACC Senior Scholarship Award and the Marie James Postgraduate Scholarship. Golfer David Wood won the ACC Senior Scholarship Award and the Jim Weaver Postgraduate Scholarship.

Heels since the 1984 team.

• Melissa Douse was named the ACC Women's Swimmer-of-the-Year and the Most Valuable Swimmer at the ACC Women's Swimming Championships. Heather Cleevely was named the Most Valuable Diver of the ACC Championships.

• At the NCAA Women's Swimming and Diving Championships, five Tar Heels merited first-team All-America honors and two others were honorable mention All-America choices. Douse, Jenny Huber, Shannon Allison, Ann Hart and Carrie Szulc were first-team selections. Cleevely and Leslie Ramsey were honorable mention choices.

• At the NCAA Men's Swimming and Diving Championships, James Hamrick made first-team All-America and David Monasterio, Daniel Summerlin and Sean Gowrie made honorable mention All-America.

• Szulc's sixth-place NCAA finish in the 400-yard individual medley was the best by a Carolina woman individually since Susan O'Brien finished fourth in the 100-yard backstroke and fifth in the 200-yard backstroke in 1988. Hamrick's sixth-place finish in the 500 free was the best by a Carolina man in NCAA competition since Eric Ericson finished fourth in the 100-yard backstroke in 1984.

• The Tar Heel women won nine of 15 individual and four of five relay championships at the ACC Championships. Multiple event individual winners were Douse, Cleevely and Szulc. Douse won titles in the 50- and 100-yard freestyles and the 100-yard butterfly, Cleevely in one- and three-meter diving and Szulc in the 200- and 400-yard individual medleys. Carolina's men won individual ACC titles in five events and also took one relay title. Gary Gauch won his third successive ACC title in the 100-yard breaststroke and Monasterio accomplished the same feat in the 200-yard butterfly

• Monasterio and Yann deFabrique participated in the Olympic Games in Barcelona, Spain last summer, competing for Puerto Rico and France, respectively.

Men's Tennis

• Carolina had one of the finest seasons in school history. UNC was 25-5 overall and 8-0 in the Atlantic Coast Conference. The 25 wins was a school record for victories in a season.

• The Tar Heels were invited to the team phase of the NCAA Championships for the first time since 1978 and reached the quarterfinals before falling to third-seeded UCLA. That quarterfinal finish equaled the best ever by an ACC team.

• Carolina was ranked eighth in the final Intercollegiate Tennis Coaches Association poll, the best finish by Carolina since the 1974 team finished seventh at the NCAA Tournament.

• Carolina won the ACC championship for the second time in three years. Carolina also finished first in the ACC regular-season standings for the second straight year.

• Roland Thornqvist and Bryan Jones were both named first-team All-Americas in singles. Thornqvist and Chris Mumford were named first-team All-Americas in doubles. Carolina had never had three All-Americas in the same year in men's tennis prior to this season.

• Coach Allen Morris was named the ACC Coach-of-the-Year and the Region II ITCA/Wilson Coach-of-the-Year.

• Four Tar Heels were named to the All-ACC Team—Thornqvist, Jones, Mumford and Joe Frierson.

• Jones was the 1992 ACC Player-of-the-Year, the Most Valuable Player of the ACC Tournament and the ITCA Region II Volvo Tennis/Senior Player-of-the-Year.

• Thornqvist was a quarterfinalist in the NCAA singles tournament and he combined with Mumford to reach the quarterfinals of doubles. He also won the Rafael Osuna Sportsmanship Award given by the ITCA to the nation's top sportsman in college tennis.

Women's Tennis

• The Tar Heels compiled a 14-9 overall record and finished the season tied for 25th in the Intercollegiate Tennis Coaches Association national poll.

• Cinda Gurney repeated as the ACC Player-of-the-Year and was ranked ninth in the country in the final ITCA poll, the highest ranking ever by a Tar Heel women's tennis player. She also captured her third successive ACC #1 singles championship.

Men's and Women's Indoor and Outdoor Track and Field

• Carolina swept the titles at the ACC outdoor championships. The men won by just one-half point over Clemson, while the women defeated the runnerup Tigers by seven points. It was the men's first ACC title since 1955, while the women won for the fourth time in five years.

• The men finished seventh at the NCAA Indoor Championships, the highest finish in the program's history. The men were also 24th at outdoor nationals. The women were 26th indoors and 12th outdoors.

• Dennis Craddock was named the ACC Women's Outdoor Coach-of-the-Year and the NCAA District III Men's Outdoor Coach-of-the-Year. Reggie Harris was the ACC men's indoor meet most valuable performer.

• Allen Johnson won the NCAA title in the indoor 55-meter hurdles. He became the first Tar Heel to win an NCAA track title since 1974 and is only the third man to claim an NCAA crown. He won the 55 hurdles in an NCAA meet record time of 7.07 seconds.

• Other All-America finishes during the indoor season included Harris (second at NCAA's in the 400 meters and fourth in the 200 meters), Tisha Waller (third in the high jump) and Angela Boice (eighth in the high jump).

• All-Americas at the NCAA outdoor meet were Lynda Lipson (second in the javelin, eighth in the discus), Waller (third in the high jump), Johnson (third in the 110-meter hurdles), Sean Murray (sixth in the javelin), Nicky Hudson (sixth in the heptathlon), Rebecca Russell (seventh in the 400-meter hurdles), Paul Foxson (eighth in the decathlon) and Andre Williams (10th in the 5000-meter run).

Volleyball

• The Tar Heels were third in the ACC and posted an 18-14 overall record.

• Setter Amy Peistrup was a first-team All-ACC selection and also earned second-team All-South honors.

Wrestling

• Carolina won the ACC title for the seventh time under Head Coach Bill Lam, who was named ACC Coach-of-the-Year for the third time.

• The Tar Heels finished with a 15-5 dual-meet record, 4-2 in the ACC.

• Jody Staylor, All-America and ACC champion at 126 pounds, was named the National Freshman-of-the-Year by Amateur Wrestling News. He finished sixth at 126 pounds in the NCAA Championships.

• Carolina qualified eight individuals for NCAA's and finished 18th.

THE EDUCATIONAL FOUNDATION

What is the Educational Foundation? The Educational Foundation is the oldest foundation on the UNC campus and holds a status comparable to the Business Foundation, the Medical Foundation and other fund-raising organizations working for the benefit of the University.

What is the purpose of the Educational Foundation? The Educational Foundation was established to offer financial aid to worthy student-athletes seeking an education at the University of North Carolina and to support the University's athletic program by providing services and funds for the construction of facilities or purchase of equipment.

How much support does the Educational Foundation actually provide? Since its founding in 1938, the Educational Foundation has provided scholarships, either partial or full, to over 6,000 student-athletes. Nearly 400 are being awarded scholarships during the 1992-93 school year at a cost of approximately $3.0 million.

Is the Educational Foundation similar to a booster club? Absolutely not. It is a foundation in every sense of the word. The Educational Foundation operates in compliance with all rules and regulations of the National Collegiate Athletic Association and the Atlantic Coast Conference. It is a tax-exempt entity as recognized by the Internal Revenue Service.

What are the different levels of annual giving to the Educational Foundation?

Little Ram ($50) — Contributions of any amount are welcome, however, individuals contributing $50 or more have the opportunity to purchase season football tickets, gain access to the Rams Room in Kenan Fieldhouse for home football games, purchase mini-season basketball ticket packages when available, participate in the ticket exchange, purchase group travel packages and receive football and basketball media guides, basketball team calendars (upon request), the RamPage Newsletter, car window decals and invitations to annual Foundation functions which feature Carolina coaches as guest speakers.

Ram ($150) — In addition to the above, a Little Ram donor has the opportunity to purchase four season football tickets, the location of which is subject to the point system, as well as receive an application to the Carolina Basketball Camp.

Rameses ($300) — In addition to the benefits received at the Little Ram level, a Rameses donor has the opportunity to purchase two season football tickets in a selected location; additional tickets may be purchased, the location of which is subject to the point system.

Big Ram ($600) — In addition to the benefits received at the Little Ram level, a Big Ram donor has the opportunity to purchase four season football tickets in a selected location and receive an assigned parking space.

Super Ram ($1,200) — In addition to the benefits received at the Little Ram level, a Super Ram donor has the opportunity to purchase up to eight season football tickets in a selected location and receive an assigned parking space.

Can a donor contribute in ways other than through the annual giving program? Yes. Carolina was one of the first schools in the nation to set up an endowment program for athletics. This program consists of $15,000 and $30,000 life memberships as well as $40,000 and $75,000 endowed scholarships which may be set up through various giving vehicles.

Does the Foundation have chapters at the local level? There are currently 40 local Educational Foundation chapters which meet once a year. Many of the coaches attend these gatherings, giving donors an early opportunity to hear about recruiting, prospects for the upcoming season and schedules.

Who provides the leadership for the Educational Foundation? The Foundation's outside officers include a chairman, three vice chairmen and a secretary, treasurer, counsel and past chairman. These officers, together with the at-large members and an Investment Committee, comprise the Executive Committee. The Executive Committee is the decision-making body of the Educational Foundation and reports its actions to the Board of Directors.

The leadership within the Foundation office is provided by Moyer G. Smith. He is in his sixth year as President. He was appointed to the position in December 1986, replacing Ernie Williamson. There are also three vice presidents within the office: John D. Cherry, Vice President for Administration; Neal B. Harrell, Vice President for Donor Services; and Sue Walsh Stankavage, Vice President for Operations. Effective August of 1992, Ernie Williamson retired as Vice President for Endowment but will serve as a consultant to the Educational Foundation.

Where are the Educational Foundation offices located? The offices are located in the Maurice J. Koury Natatorium adjacent to the Dean E. Smith Center.

How can one become a contributor to the Educational Foundation? By contacting the Educational Foundation at (919) 962-2393 or by writing P.O. Box 2446, Chapel Hill, NC 27515.

One of the finest and most comprehensive networks of its kind in all of college sports, the Tar Heel Sports Network provides play-by-play coverage of Carolina basketball in a manner no one else can match.

In 1992-93, the network will cover all Tar Heel regular-season and post-season games as well as coverage of Carolina games in the Diet Pepsi Tournament of Champions and the Rainbow Classic in Hawaii. This season, the network features 56 stations in the states of North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Virginia, New York and Pennsylvania, spreading news about the Tar Heels all up and down the Eastern seaboard.

For the best play-by-play around, listen to Mick Mixon and Woody Durham during every Tar Heel basketball game on the Tar Heel Sports Network.

Woody Durham serves as the play-by-play voice of the Tar Heels on the Tar Heel Sports Network. A native of Mebane, N.C., Durham, 51, grew up in Albemarle, N.C. and began his broadcasting career at age 16 at WZKY radio. Durham graduated from Carolina in 1963 with an A.B. degree in RTVMP and served as sports director of WUNC-TV for three years as an undergraduate.

After working briefly at WBTW-TV in Florence, S.C., Durham was sports director of WFMY-TV in Greensboro for 14 years and then worked as director of sports and sports development at WPTF-TV in Raleigh for four years.

In 1981, Durham was named vice president and executive sports director of Village Sports, Inc. in Chapel Hill. After working the ACC basketball telecasts for four years, Durham became the "Voice of the Tar Heels" in September 1971 and has been a permanent fixture ever since. He has been named the North Carolina Sportscaster-of-the-Year on eight occasions. Woody and his wife, Jean, are parents to sons Wes (26) and Taylor (19). Wes handles the play-by-play for Vanderbilt University in Nashville, Tenn. and Taylor is a freshman at Elon College in Elon, N.C.

Mick Mixon is in his fourth year on the Tar Heel Sports Network as the color analyst and production manager. A native of Chapel Hill, he graduated from UNC in 1980 with a degree in broadcast journalism. Mick came to the Tar Heel Sports Network in 1989 from Columbia, S.C. where he was sports director at WIS Radio. He has also been the play-by-play voice of the Maine Guides of the Class AAA International League and as sports director of WCGC Radio in Belmont, N.C.
